

Cheers Last 42 Minutes When "Teddy" Is Nominated

By DAMON RUNYON. (International News Service.) Chicago, June 9.—Teddy's name may have missed fire at the Republican national convention Thursday, but today it almost blew the roof off the Coliseum. Senator A. B. Fall, of New Mexico, who nominated Mr. Roosevelt, never really got the full name of his candidate before the house. "I offer for your consideration," said the gray old legislator from the far West, aiming a long, lean finger at his audience, "the name of Theodore—" men who have the votes in the convention—sat impassive and watched the racket. Hughes had been placed in nomination. So had Root and Burton, and Sherman and Fairbanks, and several others, and after each nomination there had been a demonstration, but nothing like this in point of noise and genuine enthusiasm. At times it amounted to mania. A gray haired, pink cheeked woman in black, with a bunch of pink posies at her belt, clumped upon a table, and assumed leadership of the outburst. She was Kate Rutherford, of Chicago, it was said, well known in local politics. Some one handed her a little pennant bearing the name of Roosevelt, and she spread this out between her hands and held it aloft for all to see. Some one else passed her a larger flag. Presently she had each hand filled with flags, which she waved over her head as she incited the noise-makers to additional effort.

Wickersham Tells Chicago Of Hughes' Present Stand

Following his conference with Justice Hughes Thursday afternoon, George W. Wickersham, former Attorney General, talked with Chicago yesterday morning. Later he decided to stay in Washington. It is the belief here that Wickersham gave the Hughes leaders at Chicago a statement of Justice Hughes' attitude. This position might be summarized: Justice Hughes will accept the nomination by the Republican convention on the platform adopted yesterday, if taken this position regardless of Col. Roosevelt's attitude, though he would be glad to command all elements of strength in the Republican party; he himself will make no announcement of any kind unless he should be nominated.

Hughes' home his secretary refused to discuss Justice Hughes' plans. Justice Hughes' application to "routine duties" since Monday's meeting of the Supreme Court lends color to a report circulated here yesterday that he expects to have all his official affairs wound up by Monday. Justice Hughes spent most of the day in his library at work on decisions, though he took short walks. Friends of Justice Hughes do not expect a political statement setting forth his views until after the adjournment of the Supreme Court on Monday. It is believed that he will merely signify his acceptance, withholding until his resignation, a declaration of his platform. Tasmania has no facilities for apple storage, so that the growers have to accept prices offered when the fruit is ready. This year's crop is being sold at prices that are unremunerative.

DINNER SPEAKER DIES AT TABLE

J. A. Sample, Treasury Cashier, Drops Dead After Addressing Banqueters.

James A. Sample, 72, cashier of the United States Treasury, dropped dead last night at the Hotel Gordon, Sixth and I streets, north of the city, attending the thirty-sixth annual dinner of the National Rifles' Veterans' Association. Mr. Sample had just completed an address. Amid the plaudits of his friends, Mr. Sample sat down and reached for a glass of water. He had stretched across the table, he gasped and sank to the floor. Dr. George N. Acker, surgeon of the Rifles, was sitting a few feet away. He was by Mr. Sample's side instantly. Other physicians worked desperately to help him revive the stricken man. Dr. Acker pronounced Mr. Sample dead and the announcement was repeated to the members of the association by President George W. Evans. Members, at first, could not grasp the truth and the announcement was repeated. A committee was sent at once to the Ontario apartment to notify Mrs. Sample of her husband's death.

Born in Indiana. Mr. Sample was born in South Bend, Ind., and came to Washington when about 18 years of age. He was a personal friend of President Lincoln and was appointed teller in the Treasury Department during Mr. Lincoln's administration. He served nearly fifty years, holding the positions of teller, assistant cashier and cashier. He was president of the City Savings Bank when that institution was merged with the District National Bank, and at the time of his death was a director in the latter organization. He also was president of the Masonic Veterans' Association, and past master B. B. French Lodge, treasurer Grand Lodge of Masons. He is survived by his wife, one son, Morris Sample, of Chicago, and two married daughters. The body was later taken to the apartment at the Ontario, where it will be prepared for burial.

CADETS WILL PARADE IN FLAG DAY EVENT

close the schools was unanimous, the motion to authorize the cadets to march started a lengthy discussion in the board. On the first vote William T. Gallier's motion to have the cadets march was lost, 4 to 3. Following the vote Assistant Superintendent of Schools Stephen E. Kramer, who supervises the cadets, said he felt sure that no one will be greater disappointed over this action than the high school boys themselves. John E. Larner moved the question of the parade be reconsidered, and the discussion was resumed. Dr. C. W. Childs vigorously opposed what he termed "ordering" the cadets out to march. On the second vote the motion was carried, 4 to 2. Among the protestants were Prof. Arthur Ramsay, president of the Washington Peace Society; Mrs. Jessie Hardy MacKaye, prominent in suffrage circles; Rev. Lindley P. Clark, of the Society of Friends; Rev. J. Milton Waldron, pastor of Shiloh Baptist Church; Rev. Martin L. O'Donoghue, Joseph Hanna, and E. C. Getsinger, of the Bahai Movement; Mrs. Belva Lockwood, of the Peace League of the World, and H. H. Burwell and G. A. Crist, who termed themselves "Just parents."

FRENCH PRAISED BY LLOYD GEORGE

In Open Letter Says Nation Has Attained "Heights of Moral Grandeur."

Paris, June 8.—The Journal today prints a statement by Lloyd George to Robert Donald, editor of the London Daily Chronicle. He says today in the Journal: "No nation has reached the heights of the moral grandeur of France during the war. I set her as England's constant model. Soldiers and generals show qualities of endurance, courage, and military skill worthy of the highest deeds of Napoleon's army. "At the name of Verdun I bow before such proofs of superhuman courage. The French army met a shock, backed by the most barbarous methods, such as no army ever had to meet. It will be one of the decisive battles of the war because it represents the enemy's supreme military effort. "It's lesson for the allies is that heavy artillery and the most violent explosives will play the preponderating role in the battles to come. "We have never despaired of victory. The task will be hard, but the end is sure. It is Germany's military force that we must beat. It is not enough to force her to submission by economic pressure. Only a crushing military victory will bring the peace for which the allies are fighting, and of which Germany will understand the meaning. That victory we shall have; it will be complete and final."

BLACKMAILED THIRTY WOMEN, IS ACCUSATION

New Yorker Arrested on Charge of Extorting Money Under Threat of Exposure of Vice. New York, June 9.—Charged with representing himself as a special police officer, a member of the district attorney's staff and a social investigator for the committee of question, to extort money from women of questionable character on threat of arrest, Nathan Levine, 22 years old, of 122 Avenue A, was held by Magistrate Breen in Yorkville Court today in $1,500 bail for examination on Tuesday. Levine was arrested on the complaint of three women by Detective Feeley and Lamor, at Sixth avenue and Twenty-eighth street, last night after he had telephoned the detectives that he had information on which to arrest certain women. The three women acting as the complainants declared they had been paying blackmail to Levine for three years for "protection." The payments averaging about $10 a month. The specific charge is that Levine forced one of the women to pay him $5 on June 2 after he had demanded $50. Assistant District Attorney Drenzo said that he had evidence that Levine had been blackmailing more than thirty women for over three years.
