OUR COUNTRY—OUR PRESIDENT A History of the American People WOODROW WILSON

The Democrats had come into power again upon a definite issue, the issue to which Mr. Cleveland had given such sharp definition in his famous message of 1887, the issue of the tariff. Upon no other matter so much as upon that had the voting turned; upon no other matter did the Democrats bear so unmistakable a commission from the country.

But Mr. Cleveland saw that the matter which called first and most imperatively for action was the financial situation of the government and of the country. The financial experiments of the last fourteen years had begun to bear fruit in abundance. There were outstanding some five hundred million in currency notes of the government which it was obliged upon demand to redeem in gold; and yet even when once redeemed they were not cancelled. The law directed that they should be issued again, to come back once more, if their holders chose to present them, to be redeemed in gold. Gold was constantly demanded, and in immense sums which seemed to grow omnivorously from quarter to quarter, not only for profitable export and to pay foreign balances, but also as a safe fund against what might happen when the crash should come which every observant man feared to be at hand.

The government was obliged by the Sherman Act of 1890 to pay four and a half million ounces of silver every month and pay for them in notes which the Secretary of the Treasury knew that he must redeem in gold on demand if he would keep panic off.

So soon as the government ceased paying in gold the artificial parity between gold and silver which the laws sought to maintain would be destroyed; silver would, in effect, become the only standard of value, the only medium of exchange; every piece of property in the country, tangible or intangible, would lose half its value; and credit would collapse.

And yet how could the government keep itself supplied with gold? Very few of its debtors were obliged to pay in that coin; it could replenish its diminishing stock only by borrowing, and could borrow only by the issue of bonds made payable "in coin" of which lenders might well grow shy as they saw politicians grow less and less firm in their resistance to the demands of the advocates of the free coinage of silver.

It was clear enough that Mr. Cleveland thought and intended, but it was by no means clear that Congress would willingly lend him its aid. He led a party in which lived remote from the seats of trade and knew nothing of its laws. It was not certain that the Republicans were any stiffer in their resistance to the pressure of medical opinion in the matter of the coinage. What might happen when it came to actual legislation by Congress who could foresee?

Early in June, 1893, Mr. Cleveland announced his proposal to call Congress together in extraordinary session for the consideration of the finances.

On the 26th of June the authorities of India closed their mints to the free coinage of silver, and the price of the metal dropped as it had never dropped before.

On the 30th of June the President summoned Congress to meet on the 7th of August. The silver mines of the West were promptly closed, and thousands of miners were thrown out of employment, to be taken care of and become a serious menace to order in the nearby cities, in which they crowded hungry and forlorn.

The greatest excitement prevailed in the West. Before Congress assembled conventions of the advocates of silver had been held in Denver and Chicago which protested vehemently against Mr. Cleveland's evident intention to have the laws which obliged the Treasury to purchase silver set aside, and declared that he was acting in concert with the eastern bankers to thrust silver altogether out of use as money. They demanded that an address to the Sherman Act be repealed, the free coinage of silver should be substituted.

When Congress assembled it was noted that the ordinary party lines seemed for a little while almost to disappear. The advocates of silver coalesced together in both houses without regard to their differences upon other subjects, and acted with the ardor of men who serve a cause.

Anacostia's Celebration Is Postponed by Showers

Big Community Event Is Under Way When Downfall Catches Automobile Parade—Band Defies the Rain and Toots Bravely.

Anacostia's community celebration of the completion of nearly two million dollars' worth of civic improvements, which began yesterday afternoon, was brought to a sudden halt last night by rain. Three events were completed—baseball game, motor boat races and automobile parade. The remainder of the program, public speaking, circus, fireworks and community dance, will be given on Thursday night.

Just as the first automobile of the 205 entries in the parade got under way the drizzle began. Within five minutes it was raining in torrents.

More than 175 cars, however, completed the long circuit through the streets of Anacostia, across the bridge, to the Capitol and back to the park. The members of the bands occupied open trucks in the parade, but they continued playing throughout the line of march, vociferously cheered by the thousands of persons who lined the sidewalks.

The parade was led by the celebration committee, composed of William J. Latimer, chairman; Adolph Gude, Maurice Otterback, R. A. Pyles, J. J. Mundell, T. Tolson, Hiram O. Butler, Albert E. Beck, Charles F. Roberts, George Frazer, Charles A. Stevens, George Green, James W. Marbury, A. B. Sult, Charles R. Burr, J. A. Watson, T. D. Mudd, W. T. Anderson, L. W. Thompson, Herbert R. Hart, William B. Marshall, S. M. Frazer, William C. Jones, William Musshak, J. C. Winterwerp and Alonzo Stone.

Speakers in Parade. The committee's machines were followed by an auto bearing District Commissioners Oliver P. Newman and Louis Brownlow and Maj. Raymond Pullman, the principal speakers.

When the parade returned the rain had stopped and several thousand persons had gathered, but on account of the continued threatening weather and the wet conditions of the ground, the committee postponed the affair until next Thursday.

Announcement to this effect was made by Adolph Gude. He also stated that the Commissioners and Maj. Pullman would be on hand Thursday night. The addresses will be followed by the awarding of the prizes to the winners of the competitive events yesterday.

Sunbeam, 2d, owned by Ralph J. Jones, won the speed boat contest, making the four laps from the Anacostia Bridge to the Washington Barracks and return in the remarkably fast time of 57 minutes. The winner will be given a silver loving cup. Other entries in the speed boat race were Gray Bat, 2d, J. E. Batefield; Gray Bat, W. F. and J. E. Batefield, and Longvine, John Longvine.

The cruising class motor-boat race was won by Sis Hopkins, owned by Baldwin A. Hopkins, who drove two laps of the course in 51 minutes. Second prize was captured by Estel M. owned by D. M. Miles. Other entries were Adell, Norman Joy; Palomine, Charles C. Harris, and Keep-a-Going, C. H. Kerper.

Through superior stickwork, the Machinis's team beat the Congress Heights team by a score of 5 to 6. Both teams are of the Potomac League.

Citizens were dressed in holiday attire. Nearly every house in the suburb was decorated with flags, hunting or lanterns. At Fairlawn Park a large stage has been erected.

The following machines were entered in the automobile parade: Guide Brothers Company, nine cars; Potomac Electric Power Company, two cars; S. M. Frazer, six cars; I. E. Koontz, one truck; Chas. E. Entwistle, Dr. U. S. Howser, Dr. G. W. Bury, F. J. Walther, J. Frank Campbell, James T. Harrison, Charles G. Law, Bernard Hazel, Vernon Pyles, T. F. Murray, Alex. B. Garden, two; Mrs. W. E. Hays, G. W. Bell, Dr. Frank C. Haynes, H. E. Gladman, Mohawk Athletic Club, H. E. Gladman, Mohawk Athletic Club, Miss Mabel Burch, Mienburg Bakery, two; L. M. Burch, E. P. Andrews Company, five; No. 15, Fire Department Company, Columbia Oil Company, F. S. Kristman, N. Orth Provision Company, George Shafer, S. Kann Sons & Co., ten trucks and one band; Bieber Kaufman Company, Henry Witt, Model Lunch Company, Simms Motor Company, Hahn & Co., two; George E. Cross, C. H. Gilbert, Rudolph West & Co., two; Dr. Sanburg, A. G. Hermann Gottling Works, two, and scores of machines which are not decorated.

One of the most conspicuous trucks in the parade was one bearing large shells made at the Washington Steel and Ordnance Company, at Glasboro Point. The company also furnished a band. Another conspicuous car was an electric entered by the Potomac Electric Power Company. The little car was completely covered with flowers.

Dr. Russell H. Conwell says that he has been investigating 4,043 American millionaires, and finds that all except twenty of them started life as poor boys and all except forty have contributed largely to their communities, but that only one rich man's son in seventeen dies rich.

MEXICAN NEWS CAUSES ALARM

Gravest Concern Felt for Americans at Saltillo, Monterey and Durango.

Gravest concern was felt in State Department circles last night over reports tending to show a rapid spread of anti-American sentiment throughout Northern Mexico. From Saltillo, Monterey and Durango advices indicate that the Mexican populace is very hostile toward Americans, which the Carranza authorities are in many instances actually encouraging.

In these towns Carranza agitators are staging mass meetings in protest against the American troops. Americans are said to be anxious to get to the border. Among those most active is de la Rosa, who recently was reported heading for the Big Bend section of Texas. De la Rosa, aided by another Mexican agitator named Bezaar, is reported to be plundering all American properties he can locate.

The State Department has made urgent representations to the Carranza authorities to apprehend de la Rosa. No attention, however, has been paid to these representations.

German Agents Active. Back of this anti-American feeling are from disinterested diplomatic sources that German agents are active not only in Mexico, but elsewhere through Latin-America, endeavoring to stir up distrust of the United States and its purposes.

The outline of the American reply to Carranza's note is understood to have been discussed at today's meeting of the Cabinet. The impression that the note will refuse to comply with the demand for an immediate withdrawal of the troops is still encouraged in administration circles. The note probably will be held up until after the Chicago conventions.

The draft of the note was practically completed today, but there were strong indications its dispatch will be timed with the opening of the Democratic conventions at St. Louis. It is said to inform Carranza that forces will remain until the border is safe.
