GIRL STAR AT COLUMBIA.

Vivian Martin Scores Success in "The Stronger Love."

Vivian Martin, star at Loew's Columbia for the first half of this week, in the feature photoplay, "The Stronger Love," proves her right to a place in the front ranks of delineators of young girl characters. "The Stronger Love" is the story of a mountain feud and has to do with a young geologist, one of the Rutherford, sworn enemies of the Serviss clan

—who comes incognito to his old mountain home to seek radium-bearing quartz. He encounters Nell and fancies he is in love with her. But she is promised to Jim, her cousin. Rolfe, the geologist, is suspected of being a "reventer" and is saved from trouble by Nell, who tells Jim that she loves the stranger. After she goes back to Jim. The photography and acting of this feature is excellent. The wild mountain scenes are admirable and unusually beautiful. As an added attraction to the regular program, Charlie Chaplin is pictured in "One A. M." The comedy concerns the difficulties of a gentleman, slightly intoxicated, in coming home at 1 a. m. and getting to bed. The Atlantic Fleet ordinarily puts into Hampton Roads for the Christmas holidays and it will be easy for it to get in a little ahead of schedule, Mr. Daniels said. At least ten or twelve first-class

BUSINESS MEN WILL SEE FLEET.

Warships Will Assemble at Norfolk in December.

Probably the whole Atlantic Fleet or at least two or three divisions will assemble at Norfolk for a parade and naval display in connection with the gathering of the Southern Commercial Congress in that city on December 11 to 14.

This has been promised by Secretary of the Navy Daniels according to Clarence J. Owens, president of the congress. Mr. Daniels will address the assembly of commercial men during the congress.
