The commander, record keeper and finance keeper, have been using means to increase the interest in meetings. They have had the co-operation of the other officers and the attending members, until things are very much improved in the last four months in this tent, and next Monday night, they will initiate several candidates by the regular amplified form.

Next Tuesday night Brightwood Tent, No. 8, has planned for an extra occasion, and a large number of members are expected to be in attendance, and as the saying goes, "there will be something doing."

This tent is well officered, and its membership is composed of the best person of that section of the city, among whom we mention, William McClayton, esq., and Mr. E. J. Ayers, chief clerk of the Interior Department, and they are frequently at the meetings of the tent, and add to the meetings.

The new rituals, that are now being introduced into the tents, are adding much enthusiasm to the work, which is justly classed as a real Maccabee ritual.

Mr. A. W. Freye, who is managing the Maccabee Home in Pennsylvania, and also has been doing deputy work in that State, under Great Commander Blaney, has been selected as a general field man, and is making personal investigations of the conditions in different sections as well as giving instructions, as to the putting the new plans into operation.

The State deputy supreme commander spent part of last week in Richmond and Petersburg, arranging for the putting into operation of the new plans of operating the field work.

Richmond has taken on a new phase of life, and the plans which are to be operated there mean a great incentive for forward movement, which is widening its influence, until all the adjacent territory will be booming, as is Richmond.

Alexandria Tent, No. 2, Alexandria, Va., is preparing for a fall and winter campaign, and will be given assistance by the State deputy supreme commander, and the working machinery has already been put in motion by the officers, led by the record keeper, Mr. M. A. Brenner.

Deputy Supreme Commander Phillips, who was the honored guest of the evening, delivered one of his interesting speeches.

A committee of five consisting of Sir Knights Adams, Jr., Springmann, Sturkis, Hannan and King, were appointed to pay fraternal visits to other Maccabee tents in the city, to promote good fellowship.

Since the return of the old ritual, the stay-at-homes have been turning out, as they did in bygone days, when this tent was packed at every meeting, to witness the degree work, so ably conducted by the degree master, W. W. Adams, Jr., who assures us that the degree team will be ready and waiting for all candidates. The members have signified their willingness to hustle the coming winter to keep the goat from getting languid.

A fine entertainment with refreshments is scheduled for next Tuesday night, when we hope that every member of Mt. Vernon Tent will be present, not only to enjoy the evening, but to become acquainted with the new members.

Census Council met Saturday evening, September 16, and at once took up the work of getting new members during the coming fall months. Looking around at the new faces reminded one of reunion of the field forces coming back to the city after a hard summer's work.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Senate, held on Thursday, August 24, 1916, at Toledo, Ohio, it was agreed that the membership fee for admission to the order be reduced from $5.00 to $2.00, for the months of October, November and December. This will give an opportunity of developing whether or not the $5.00 fee, which has been in force for about a year, is too great a charge for admission. The home office is anxious to try it out, and it is left to the members for the next three months to take advantage of this generous concession.
