

Hughes or Wilson-- WHICH?

That's the Question

—But There's No Question About "Omo" Tailoring

The best dressed men in Washington have unanimously elected Omohundro as their tailor, and there's a reason—I make clothes the way you want them to be made and the way they should be made. I am a member of the "Good Clothes" party, whose platform is fine fabrics, snappy styles and perfect fit. Every suit or overcoat made is under my own personal supervision from the time the materials are put to work until they reach your door, finished and "there." If I were a silver-tongued orator, I could better describe the merits of my clothes, but that's not my business.

Britain Again Takes Ships.
New York, Oct. 18.—The Royal Mail Steam Packet Company today canceled all its sailings of steamers for an indefinite period. The reason is understood to be that the British government again has requisitioned the company's steamships. All of them were taken over by the government early in the war, but recently two were released.

WASTE PAPER PRICE BOOSTED BY DEALERS

School Children Will Receive 50 Instead of 40 Cents for 100 Pounds.

One direct result of the campaign for the saving of old newspapers by children of the public schools was noted yesterday in an advance of ten cents a hundred pounds in the price offered by dealers. It was expected that 40 cents a hundred pounds would be realized from the sale of the waste paper, but the Board of Education yesterday received an official bid of 50 cents a hundred pounds. Another evidence of the interest which the movement has created was the information that the Salvation Army and other philanthropic and charitable societies, which have made a custom of collecting this surplus paper, find their ordinary supply considerably curtailed. Children have been taking the papers to the schools with a result that collections from other sources have dropped from 50 to 35-40 per cent. Yesterday was the first day fixed by the school authorities for receiving the papers. Children brought them in bundles and last night the janitors were preparing them for collection today. No account of the actual amount is yet available, but Assistant Superintendent of Schools Kramer stated last night that it would amount to more than a ton and might reach two tons. If this average is maintained, it means that the playground and social activities fund which benefits from the sale will be swollen several thousand dollars before the close of the campaign.

CALLS WILSON RULE "WOEFUL WABBLING"

W. R. Harr Attacks Administration's Policies Before G. O. P. Women.

"Honesty versus hypocrisy, courage versus cowardice, principles versus expediency are the three issues of this campaign, and if I mistake not the temper of the American people, the three virtues will triumph," said William R. Harr, former Assistant Attorney General, before the Women's National Republican Club at the New Willard Hotel last night.

In referring to the President's foreign policy, he said that he had sacrificed all principle to expediency and had acted only according to the immediate necessity of catering to voters. For the Lusitania disaster he voted the President on the ground that that disaster would have been averted had there been a definite official statement against the proposed action of the German submarine announced in the public press before the starting of the vessel for Europe.

The note of the President to Germany dispatched on April 18, protesting in vigorous terms, which committed the government to the abandonment of passengers and crews of merchant vessels on the high seas in open life boats, was mentioned as inconsistent with the administration's present attitude, which takes no exception to the same practice of exposing lives in open boats off Nantucket by German commerce raiders. This, according to Mr. Harr, "is an expedient to cater to the German vote."

PUGH STORES COMPANY SOON TO LIST SHARES

Local Financial Circles Interested in Offer of $5,000,000 Securities.

Financial circles in Washington and throughout the East are greatly interested in the announcement of the offer of $5,000,000 of the capital stock of the Pugh Stores Company. While the shares of this company have not yet been listed on the New York and Chicago exchanges, the company is well known in the financial world. It is announced that application shortly will be made to have the shares listed.

The Pugh Stores Company was incorporated February 15, 1915, in Maine, for the purpose of owning and operating a chain of 1,000 stores, dealing in general merchandise, together with a general mail-order business, the Pugh Terminal Warehouse Building, Chicago, and opening of the largest produce market in the United States on ground adjacent to the warehouse. The headquarters of the company are located in the warehouse in Chicago, which is said to be the largest building of its kind in the United States, having more than twenty acres of floor space, facilities for loading and unloading 500 cars every twenty-four hours, and an underground electric road connecting with fifty-two freight stations in Chicago. On the north side, facing the Chicago River, there are extensive facilities for handling five large lake steamers at one time. The building and elevators are so arranged that subway cars may be placed on any floor of the building for loading or unloading.

Has Large Waiting List.
According to records of the company, dated January 1, 1916, the mail-order department already has more than 1,000,000 customers on its waiting list, scattered throughout the United States. The company estimates that based on the net returns from the stores now in operation, which were $7,500 per store, and average net earnings of the Pugh Terminal Warehouse over a period of two years, that after the expenditure of the money received from the proposed sale of stock, the net earnings of the company will be at least $7,500,000 per annum, or more than 85 per cent on the entire outstanding stock, $12,500,000.

The money derived from the sale of stock is to be applied to the purchase of additional merchandise, to increase the capacity of the warehouse, and erect and equip produce buildings. The idea of operating a chain of stores is the result of ten years of study of the problem of mail order and country merchandising in the United States and Europe. The Pugh plan is said to combine the methods applied with such marked success by Sears, Roebuck & Co., F. W. Woolworth & Co., the United Cigar Stores, and others.

James A. Pugh, president of the company, is a man of international reputation, and one of the most able and successful men in the West. He made Chicago the greatest furniture distributing point in the world. He founded the Pugh Terminal Warehouse in the year 1904, and its success and growth have been so rapid that today it is the largest warehouse of its kind in the United States. Associated with Mr. Pugh in the management are men most adapted to that particular branch of the business: Richard S. Folsom, vice president and counsel, formerly corporation counsel for the city of Chicago; Irving Shuman, vice president, in charge of finance, formerly assistant treasurer of the United States in Chicago; Noah Payne, vice president, in charge of stores, one of Illinois' most successful merchants.

GODLESS EDUCATION HIT BY CLERGYMAN

Episcopal Institute Speaker Urges Religious Teaching in Schools.

The closing session of the Sunday School Institute of the Diocese of Washington was marked last night by an address by Rev. Brewster Gordon, Jr., of University, Va., on "The Dangers of a Godless Education." Following this address the convention adjourned, after noting that the present session showed a large increase of attendance. Dr. Tucker, in his closing address, stated that Godly homes were greatly needed in America and could be obtained through the efforts of the Sunday School. Dr. Caley also mentioned the fact that Sunday Schools were not for children alone, but for adults as well.

A feature of the sessions yesterday was the exhibition of Sunday School work under direction of Rev. H. W. Stowell. This exhibition showed the work of various classes and included miniature models showing conditions in countries where missionaries were being sent. At the business meeting of the institute Canon DeVries was re-elected vice president and Eugene E. Thompson secretary and treasurer. The Bishop of Washington is the permanent president of the institute.

MILK PRODUCERS MEET TODAY TO LOWER PRICE

Following the meeting of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers' Association in the Munsey Building this afternoon, active plans will begin toward organizing the producers who supply Washington in an effort to lower the price of milk by eliminating some of the overhead expenses. A card index has been compiled under direction of Y. E. Booker, business manager of the association, containing the names and addresses of all the producers adjacent to this city. This territory includes, in addition to the District, ten counties in Maryland and Virginia.

Armstrong, special lecturer, Bureau of Commercial Economics, on "Nature's Forces at Work."

U. S. BUREAU URGES PURE-GASOLINE LAWS

Retail Merchants Offer to Co-operate in Framing of Measures.

While conducting experiments with the purpose of reaching a fixed standard to which gasoline sold for commercial purposes must conform, the Bureau of Standards yesterday issued a statement indicating that it desired its findings backed by rigid Federal, State and municipal regulations governing the sale of the product.

Charles J. Columbus, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association, said last night that any co-operation which the bureau desired in the framing of a law to be presented to Congress would be forthcoming from the trade body. "We will support any measure that the bureau feels will guarantee the purity of the fuel," he said. "We are interested in the statement and anticipate that the experiment conducted will clarify a condition where an inferior product is passed off as first quality."

An inspection, similar to that which foodstuffs now receive, is favored by the bureau in its statement. It says: "There are two aspects to the question under consideration, the one local, the other national. There is no doubt that the advantages that would result from a satisfactory standardization of gasoline by the national government are many. Not the least of these would be its influence on State and municipal legislation relating to this question and its effect in making such legislation more nearly uniform throughout the country. Legislative bodies are beginning to legislate on this question and much of this legislation is certain to be ill advised, although enacted with the best intentions, because it cannot in the nature of things receive the careful consideration of technical experts that is required for the satisfactory solution of questions of this kind. It will readily be seen that the effect of indiscriminate legislation might reduce conditions nothing short of chaotic."

The question that very naturally arises at this point is—with such a complicated specification for gasoline, for which the user cannot make the necessary tests—how will it be possible to protect his interests and to assure himself that he is actually getting standard gasoline? The answer is, he cannot possibly do so; the government—national, State or municipal—must protect him by a suitable inspection service, just as it protects him in matters relating to weights and measures, pure foods, etc."

LEGALIZED PRIMARIES URGED FOR DISTRICT

Jackson Democratic Association Also Favours Representation in Congress.

A strenuous effort is to be made at the next session of Congress to secure legalized primaries in the District by the Jackson Democratic Association, the second oldest political organization in the United States, having been organized during the campaign for President Jackson in 1828 and taking active part in all campaigns since. A resolution to this effect was passed at a meeting of the organization in the Raleigh last night. The association will invite the co-operation of the Republican Central Committee, and in case the legislation cannot be secured, it was suggested that the Republicans and Democrats both decide to send no delegates to the national conventions from the District to avoid the reflection that is cast on the elections under present arrangements.

The meeting last night was the first held by this association during the present campaign. It has about 75 members and an effort is to be made to double the number and make the organization an all-year-around organization, instead of becoming active during the Presidential campaigns only, as has been the policy in the past. A resolution was passed favoring representation in Congress for the District. The president, William Cranch McIntyre, was authorized to name a membership committee of ten to recruit new members. He was also directed to name a committee of five to investigate and report on the feasibility of establishing in Washington permanent headquarters for the Democratic clubs and associations of the country.

CLASH OVER USE OF BIBLE IN SCHOOLS

Interrupting Bradley in the midst of his reading, Bradley then explained that his association was against any possible connection of church and state and cited the decision of the board as a violation of the Constitution. "You object because you don't believe in God," said Mr. Larner, somewhat heatedly.

"That is not material to the argument," replied Bradley. E. Daniel of the board, then held up a coin and cited that the words, "In God we trust," were imprinted upon it. He asked if that could be considered a violation of the tenets of complete separation of church and state.

Bradley replied that the words were on the coin because of the order of a Cabinet officer and not through any Congressional authorization. He believed it was not in conformity with the expression of President Madison and court decisions, which ban any condition of government and religion as unconstitutional.

President Van Schaick, of the Board of Education, asked if any specific act of Congress or State could be cited to show that the board had exceeded its authority in assuming to direct such instruction and Bradley was not able to furnish particular information on that point. Dr. Alonzo T. Jones, of the American Sentinel, indicated the sentiments of Bradley in a brief statement.

A contrary view and a criticism of present-day public school methods was taken by Rev. Tucker. Although the world's greatest universities were all founded by religious bodies, so great is the modern day opinion against religious training in the public schools that there are children in this country of school age who are ignorant of religion, he said. Their home conditions are such that they have no opportunity to receive any spiritual training either in the family or at Sunday school.

"With the exception of France, this country is the only one which does not provide religious training in the public school system," the speaker stated. "Education, whether along science or art, is dangerous unless coupled with spiritual teaching. The present immorality among young people in school is due to the fact that they have not received religious teaching in the public school."

MAN AND BOY HURT WHEN AUTOS CRASH

Youth Pulling Express Wagon Narrowly Escapes Injury.

A District of Columbia automobile driven by Joseph Smith, colored, and an automobile driven by Eugene Davis, of 1229 Maryland avenue northeast, collided yesterday at Tenth and G streets northeast. The Davis machine was driven up on the sidewalk and damaged to the extent of $100. The District automobile was only slightly damaged. Four-year-old Eugene Davis, who was in his father's machine, was hurt about the knee in the collision and attended by Dr. Barnesly, of 1446 Maryland avenue northeast. He was later taken to his home and his condition was said not to be serious. Thomas H. Peack, 36 years old, of 1204 O street northwest, who was an occupant of the machine driven by Smith, was cut on the mouth, but refused hospital treatment.

Thomas Noonan, 16, of 82 Ninth street northeast, who was pulling an express wagon where the collision occurred narrowly escaped injury as the two machines came together. His wagon was totally demolished, but he was unscathed. The accident was said to have resulted from a misunderstanding of who had the right of way. Another automobile collision occurred yesterday when a Federal taxicab, driven by Alice Speck, 1334 G street northwest, and an automobile driven by S. J. Binkley, of North Capitol street and New York avenue, came together at Sixth and J streets northwest. The damage to both machines amounted to about $55.
