

DINE FOR TEN CENTS; NO, NOT A DIET SQUAD

College Misses Refuse to Tell How It is Done.

Here's a staggering blow at Old Man High Cost of Living. Sigma Kappa Sorority at George Washington University last night served supper to girl students at 10 cents per plate.

GASOLINE FROM SHALE

In anticipation of the day when account of the advancing cost of gasoline and other products obtained from petroleum it might be found commercially profitable to utilize some of the enormous supply of petroleum to be derived from the distillation of the vast deposits of so-called hydrocarbon shales of the Green River formation of Northwestern Colorado and Northern Utah, the United States Geological Survey has for three years been making field investigations of these deposits.

MULE'S EARS BURNED OFF

Shelbyville, Ind., Jan. 13.—Struck by lightning, a mule which Amr Pichard was harnessing at his farm near Shelbyville, had both ears burned off. Pichard was knocked unconscious. The flash set fire to the barn, struck a cow and killed three hogs.

GROUCH WEATHER; EITHER RAIN OR SNOW

One of Those Wet Sundays That Give You the Blues—Colder Tonight.

Today will be one of those delightfully cloudy, damp, and wet days which have characterized Sunday weather for some time and which are conducive to a first-class grouch.

The forecast made at midnight shows that it will either rain or snow today. It is to get colder this evening and is to be still colder with fair weather tomorrow. While the cold spell has been intermittent during the past week, it is predicted that this was only the forerunner of continued wintry weather which is said to have arrived to stay definitely.

The funeral of Miss Margaret E. Cowie, daughter of Col. George E. Cowie, late head of the diplomatic division of the Treasury and sister of Paymaster General of the Navy Thomas J. Cowie, took place Friday. Interment was at Oak Hill Cemetery.

Army and Navy News

The "fighting pacifists" who opened their innings yesterday before the Senate subcommittee holding hearings on the compulsory military training bill, will continue tomorrow to present their side of the question.

Under the auspices of the American Union Against Militarism, six different committees are to appear before the committee to argue against the three compulsory service bills now before the committee.

Yesterday morning the physical training experts headed by Dr. Dudley A. Sargent of Harvard University, appeared. In the afternoon college students from Columbia, Yale, Harvard, Princeton, and elsewhere, organized in the College Anti-Militarism League, gave their views on military training.

Tomorrow morning general educators, including Dr. John Dewey, of Columbia University; Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott, of New York City, and others, will testify. In the afternoon the Parents' Association of Opponents of Militarism, in favor of Federal aid for physical training, will have representatives present.

Tuesday morning foreign-born citizens who have had experience with compulsory military training in their native countries, including Switzerland and Australia, will appear.

In the afternoon former enlisted men of the regular army who are said to have left the military service, and the regular army from the point of view of the enlisted men will present their views.

These groups all have their point of view and want to be heard, says the American Union Against Militarism in a formal statement.

In a farewell address to the California legislature, Governor Johnson, United States Senator-elect, recently said: "We have learned the first obligation and duty of government are to its people."

The high cost of labor and materials and the large number of private orders already on hand have caused the shipbuilding companies to refuse to make definite bids on the new vessels authorized last August.

In view of this situation, the secretary of the Navy Daniels has asked Congress for an appropriation in addition to the $6,000,000 already appropriated for constructing shipbuilding plants at the various navy yards. At the same time $300,000 has been added to the appropriation for improving the port of Philadelphia.

This is taken to indicate that at least one, if not more, of the new warships will be built at Philadelphia. No statement was issued by the Navy Department as to whether the building of the extra $12,000,000 is given by Congress, but it is said by a high official of the Department that Philadelphia, New York, and Norfolk will benefit to a greater extent than the other yards on the Atlantic coast.

The fact that it is now proposed to spend $1,625,173 on deepening the channel of the Delaware and the lower Schuylkill at Philadelphia and generally improving the route from the Navy Yard to the Atlantic Ocean is additional proof, Philadelphia officers say, of the Navy Department's intention of constructing a large shipbuilding plant at Philadelphia.

SEES ONLY TEMPORARY RELIEF IN SHIP BILL. John Donald, New York ship owner, and one of the President's appointees to the Shipping Board, told the Senate Commerce Committee yesterday that he believed the shipping bill would furnish only temporary relief and that in the long run private shipping could operate more cheaply.

ELKS PLAN "LADIES' NIGHT." "Ladies' night" will be celebrated on Thursday evening by the Oyster Club of Washington Lodge of Elks. The entire clubhouse will be thrown open to the fair sex for the occasion.

TREASON, DECLARES CITIZEN. Editor The Washington Herald: If correctly reported in The Sunday Herald Senator Robert L. Owen uttered the words I quote: "If the United States Supreme Court declares the Adamson eight-hour law unconstitutional it will start something which will shake the foundations of this country."

PROTESTS AGAINST FOWL CRATES. Editor The Washington Herald: The Herald is always to the front to correct abuses of every kind, so I wish to call your attention to one in particular, which I have noticed not only in Washington, but other cities as well. It is the cruel treatment of fowl of all kinds for sale in the markets and commission houses.

ASSAULTS DRY MOVEMENT. Claims Congress Should Not Impose Prohibition on D. C.

Editor The Washington Herald: Under the pretext of temperance and public decency, can organized fanaticism and time-serving politics deprive of their constitutional rights the people of the District of Columbia?

It would seem so, if we are to have faith in the cynosures of judicial, pastoral and Congressional arguments hurled last night against some of the prime necessities of life.

Sam Small is clearly right when he says Congress didn't ask the people of the District whether they wanted the liquor traffic, nor did it propose a referendum to find out. He might have added here whether they wanted the bread, fish or meat traffic. It could be inferred from his remarks that as Congress did not ask the people for their consent, that his Evangelical Alliance of Savants has the right to prevent such traffic.

The liquor laws of Virginia, where the people are "permitted" to use so much as a month, are being looked upon as not so much of a joke, but as an insult to the inhabitants. No, Washington will never be a Berlin, Vienna or a Paris. If such small provincialism prevails at the nation's Capital where we are expected to treat not childishly, but considerately the representatives from foreign countries here today, and for ages, pure beer and wine are and have been freely used as wholesome and nourishing beverages, and where there is no drunkenness.

The wisdom of the pure food laws stands unquestioned, but thousands resent with every drop of their blood, any interference with their natural and personal rights in the selection of articles of food and drink, and no man worthy to treat not childishly, but considerately he has partaken of too much of these things. As a man, he spurns the idea of being regarded as an imbecile, infant, or ward of the nation.

The few persons who use an injurious amount of solid food or liquid food, through their own weaknesses invite destruction, and cannot be saved by the imposition upon the entire community, of unreasonable, unjust and unconstitutional laws.

Remarks of Senator Owen Call Forth Wrath of Writer. Editor The Washington Herald: If correctly reported in The Sunday Herald Senator Robert L. Owen uttered the words I quote: "If the United States Supreme Court declares the Adamson eight-hour law unconstitutional it will start something which will shake the foundations of this country."

Now, that which I desire to say is that it is out of the question for pensioners to obtain an increase of pay, but I think that now, while the cost of living is so high, it would be a very good time to pay the pensioners the back pay due them. The cause of this back pay being due them was a shortage of funds, as was frequently mentioned in the columns of your valuable paper.

BANKS FAVOR SCHEME FOR GOLD ADJUSTMENT

American bankers have under consideration a plan for the creation of an international gold settlement fund which will obviate the necessity of shipping gold and running the risk of loss at sea. The United States owes Argentine bankers gold and England has forbidden those banks to accept any more gold from this country, because England wants to keep gold here to serve as a basis for further loans. American bankers are embarrassed by inability to pay Argentine, so a plan is being considered for placing the amount owed with a trustee in this country. Creditors then could draw on their gold, getting the benefit of it although not physically in the South American republic.
