So many young girls write to me asking how they can get into motion picture work, and I have wondered and wondered just the right thing to say, for, really and truly, I don't know myself.

You see, I was only five when my father died, and mother had us three kiddies to take care of. It was just a little while after that that I made my first appearance on the stage, and ever since then it has been one engagement after another. I went into picture work, and I suppose children are asked to get into studios that grown people, for all three of us found it easy.

But to jump right into it from everyday life when you're seventeen or twenty, I imagine would be very hard and the way full of heartaches and disappointments. There is much to learn, not only in the actual art itself, but in what I might call the etiquette of professional life. And, undoubtedly, there are many things waiting at the gate of opportunity, that much real talent is overlooked.

We were arguing about this one night at the hotel, mother and Mr. Z., and several professional friends. Mr. Z. said he did not believe it was possible to be a strain or crush genius. It was the divine spark and was bound to shine.

"That's all right," mother said, "but there's many a divine spark being blown out in the effort of disgracing it in your own studios, I'll be bound, Mr. Z."

Of course he would not believe it at all, but the next week we were setting a new position at the studio. I was proud of your did not know me personally, although, I presume, he had seen my pictures.

"Now's your chance, Mary," mother said, laughing. "See if you can get a position at the studio if you can't get one elsewhere."

It was up at the new one on Seventh avenue, in New York. I went in one morning earlier than usual, and dressed very simply, just a little plain blue serge Norfolk suit and black velvet stockings.

"I'm not just staccatura, please, I do love the work and I'll do anything you tell me to," I said, waiting for a sign until you have something for me if you'll just give me some hope."

THE DAILY ADVENTURES OF PUSS IN BOOTS, Jr.

Good-Bye to Tom Thumb.

By DAVID CORY. The next day Puss Junior and Tom Thumb set sail in their boat, leaving the pretty girl to tend her lighthouse all alone.

"Sorry we cannot stay and help you," said Puss Junior, "but we must be on our way so saying, he hoisted the sail and sped off before the breeze."

Towards mid-day they came into a beautiful harbor, where they landed. On inquiring who ruled this part of the country, they were told that King Thunstone, that good King Arthur was dead and his court scattered.

"Alas!" cried Tom Thumb, "I was in hopes of again seeing my good king and Nicholas, but we must be on our way. While waiting for the wind to blow, the Queen of the Fairies came up to them, and begged Tom Thumb to come with her."

"I will give you a butterfly steed," she said, "and in a few days you may return to your mother, who no doubt is worried over your long absence."

"Well, then, little comrade," cried Puss Junior, "perhaps this best that you should tell me to. I shall miss you."

Poor little Tom Thumb was almost in tears as he mounted the butterfly and flew away with the Queen of the Fairies.

"Good-by, dear Puss," he called again and again until his voice could be heard no longer. And Puss, wiping his eyes, for he was very sad at parting with his little comrade, resumed his journey of adventure.

By and by he came to a small village. He was about to enter, when a man ran up to him and said:

"Did you see my wife, did you see, did you see my wife looking for me? She wears a straw bonnet with white ribbon on it. And dimity petticoats over her knee."

Puss answered no and proceeded to enter the village.

BOTH MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

Relieved From Pain and Suffering by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"For three or four years I suffered a great deal of pain periodically, so I would have to lie down. My back would ache and I would feel very weak and miserable. I remembered how my mother had found relief from pain by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I decided to try it, and thank to the Compound it helped me just as it did my mother, and I am free from pain, backache and that general weakness that was so hard to bear. I am able to do my work during such times and am recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my friends who suffer as I did."

Mrs. MARY TIEDRANN, 1622 Jefferson Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Central Drug Co., of Detroit, Mich., says: "We consider your Castoria in a class distinct from patent medicines and commend it." Christy Drug Stores, of Pittsburg, Pa., say: "We have sold your Castoria for so many years with such satisfactory results that we cannot refrain from saying a good word for it when we get a chance." Jacob Bros., of Philadelphia, Pa., say: "We take pleasure in recommending Fletcher's Castoria as one of the oldest and best of the preparations of the kind upon the market." Hess & McCann, of Kansas City, Mo., say: "Your Castoria always gives satisfaction. We have no substitute for it and only sell 'The Kind You Have Always Bought,' the original." The Voegell Bros., of Minneapolis, Minn., say: "We wish to say that we have at all times a large demand for Fletcher's Castoria at all of our three stores and that it gives universal satisfaction to our trade." Polk Miller Drug Co., of Richmond, Va., say: "Your Castoria is one of the most satisfactory preparations we have ever handled. It seems to satisfy completely the public demand for such an article and is steadily creating a growing sale by its merit." P. A. Capdan, of New Orleans, La., says: "We handle every good home remedy demanded by the public and while our shelves are thoroughly equipped with the best of drugs and proprietary articles, there are few if any which have the unceasing sale that your Castoria has."

STRONG AT 74 FARMER LESTER

Tells How Vinol Restored His Strength.

This letter proves there is nothing equal to Vinol to create strength for weak, run-down conditions.

Vestal Centre, N. Y.—"I am a farmer 74 years of age and got into a weak, run-down condition as a result of the gripe. Our druggist suggested Vinol to build me up, and I noticed an improvement soon after taking it, and it has restored my strength so I can now do a good day's work. My wife has also taken Vinol for a run-down condition with splendid results."

—H. W. Lester. This is because Vinol contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese and glycerophosphates, the most famous tonics known.

We will return your money if Vinol fails to benefit you.
