The difference between Oleomargarine and butter is only prejudice and price. Because good Oleomargarine cannot be readily distinguished from good butter, the law requires that it be labeled Oleomargarine. The government has an inspector in every Oleomargarine factory to insure the purity and wholesomeness of each pound produced. If Oleomargarine must be labeled to distinguish it from good butter and if the government approves every pound of Oleomargarine made, there should be no prejudice against it. There were over 150,000,000 pounds of Oleomargarine made and sold in 1915 at an approximate saving to the public of $15,000,000.00. "Swift's Premium" Oleomargarine.
