THE SOLDIER will find the THEROZ FUEL CUBES invaluable in all times when not in touch with the company kitchen. With the scratch of a match, he can instantly have intense heat. There is no waiting for the fire to burn. Besides it is the most economical fuel known. It comes in small cubes, which cost about one cent each, an inch square. By an absolutely new process, a liquid is converted into a solid cube, which burns with a hot intense flame, without smoke, odor, soot or ashes, and it cannot explode.

The Theroz blue flame stove is made of durable metal 3½ inches in diameter. The burner has numerous open parts, which act like gas pipes. At these the vapor from the fuel and the oxygen in the air unite and ignite. It cannot explode. For all housekeepers the Theroz offers the greatest comfort in cooking. The Continental model is 25¢ and the Simplex, 60¢.

THREE FINE NEW PATTERNS IN ENGLISH PORCELAIN DINNERWARE

Revealing the Influence of the Orient
Combined with English Pottery Art.

English pottery works have always been noted for exquisite decorations, quaint old-fashioned shapes and beautiful color combinations. In these three patterns from the best Dinnerware makers you will clearly see why they deserve this praise. Oriental themes have furnished the idea for every pattern.

THE SILISTRIA—A decoration whose chief charm lies in the deep broad Persian blue border, yellow buds and large red rose scattered over the border and the green foliage adding to the artistic color effect. Flaring cups and bowls with the decorations on the inner side. Covers of Casseroles and Tureens fit down inside the dish and won't slide off. Teacups, $5.00 dozen; Tureens, $2.85 each; 12-inch Platters, $1.65; Dinner Plates, $4.50 dozen; complete set for $36.85.

THE NEWPORT—Another old English shape with border formed of perpendicular black lines with yellow, rose and blue floral decorations of deep rich toning; casseroles, sugar and creams and such pieces in square shape and mounted on little stand so familiar in distinctive old china. Dinner Plates, $7.00 dozen; Cups and Saucers, $7.00 dozen; Covered Casseroles, $5.00 each, and other pieces in proportion.

A ROYAL DOULTON SET—Octagon shape with all the quaintness of the Orient portrayed in the decoration—flowers, trees, birds, steeples, butterflies on a field flanked by two conventional borders. It is known as the Mandarin pattern. Teacups, $6.50 dozen; Dinner Plates, $6.50 dozen. Medium size. Platters, $2.50 each; Fruit Saucers, $4.25 dozen.
