

PARTY CHIEFS THINK HARDING IS HARMONIZER

Like McKinley in Personality and Craftsmanship With Loggerheads.

FREE FROM RADICALISM

Great Results Expected as Result of Ticket Chosen At Chicago.

By ROBERT T. BARRY.

Chicago, June 13.—If one thought more than any other dominated the discussions today by Republican leaders on the selection of the Harding-Coolidge ticket, it was just this:

Has Harding the craftsmanship to pick the scattered ends of factionalism and weld them to the main body of the party organization in such a manner as to have the finished product resemble the political structure that made the Republican party of a decade ago the party of efficiency?

All of the leaders who worked for the nomination of Harding naturally believe he has. They regard him as one man fitted for the task. He represents to them a reversion to the McKinley type, a fact his supporters made much of during the pre-convention fight. He does not pose as being anything other than what he is—a conservative. It was the deliberate design of the party leaders to go to the country this year as the disciples of conservatism.

Free from Cults and Isms.

They were convinced the American people wanted such a candidate. They have in Harding, they believe, a man free from cults and isms, who could be expected to give the nation an administration of public affairs based on sound principles of business judgment, of doing, they are quite sure, that which the business interests of the country—the smallest merchant as well as the greatest banker—desire at Washington, more of practical common sense in the settlement of public questions and less of cant and horseplay.

Man of Personality.

They believe he has the personality to restore the party to something like its old prestige, to mold the factions into a cohesive whole and to steer a clear course through such shoals that left the organization stranded on many occasions in the past. They are not deceived about the size of the task they are imposing upon him. They think he will not disappoint them.

They are aware that the Harding-Coolidge ticket will not find favor in some quarters. They expect the so-called liberal group supporting the committee of forty-eight and courting favor of all the discontented elements in the

Harding Back; Welcomed by Huge Throng

J. O. P. Nominee Finds Crowd Waiting When He Reaches Capital.

Washington last night gave an enthusiastic greeting to Senator Warren G. Harding, nominee of the Republican national convention for the Presidency.

A band, augmented by hundreds of citizens, filled the concourse of the Union Station when the Chicago train bearing the Ohio Senator's party pulled into the city.

After a brief acknowledgment of the welcome the Republican nominee hurried to his Washington home, where the preliminaries of his campaign for election will be apposed out within the next few days.

Conference This Week.

As far as the schedule has been arranged Senator Harding intends to meet with members of the Republican National Committee this week and go over the details of the national fight.

He, too, will devote considerable time to his work in the Senate, which had been left in an unfinished state when he departed for Chicago convention.

Will Return to Ohio.

It is the expectation of Senator Harding that he will be able to return to his home in Marion, Ohio, within a week or ten days for a rest.

The official notification of his nomination will take place there, according to present plans, although it may be found necessary to have the ceremony take place in Washington.

Harding Election Would Give Ohio Its 7th President

(By Universal Service)

Chicago, June 13.—If Senator Warren G. Harding is elected next November he will be the seventh President Ohio has given the Union. Virginia heads the list with eight. All the Ohio Presidents were Republicans.

Here are the Ohio Presidents: Ulysses S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, William McKinley, William H. Taft.

From 1869 to 1881, twelve years, Ohio had the honor of being represented continuously by its sons in the White House. That was during the successive terms of Grant, Hayes and Garfield.

Slain Woman's Brother Takes Own Life Here

Murdered Pearl Cockrell's Family Visited by New Tragedy.

In the room next to that in which his sister, Pearl Hortense Cockrell was murdered two years ago, Frank J. Godfrey, 19, turned on the gas and ended his life early yesterday at the family home, 610 F street northeast.

Another sister, Mrs. Gay O'Donnell, found his lifeless body when she went to call him for breakfast.

Godfrey had been a witness for the prosecution in the case of Philip Cockrell, his brother-in-law, convicted last week of the murder of Godfrey's sister.

Though the young man is said to have been somewhat affected by the court's unraveling of the story of his sister's tragic end, it is believed his action yesterday was more the result of a passing illness of which he complained before retiring the night before.

Godfrey was employed at the transfer table of the Washington Railway and Electric Company. He leaves his mother and four sisters, Mrs. Gay O'Donnell, Mrs. Rosa Seymour and Misses Hilda and May Godfrey.

PALMER GLAD IT'S HARDING

Great Favor Done Democrats at Chicago, Says Frisco Possibility.

Commenting on the nomination of Senator Harding by the Republicans, Attorney General Palmer, a candidate for the Democratic nomination, said last night:

"Whoever nominated Harding did the Democrats a great favor. He is a typical reactionary, and a colorless candidate at that. At least he fits one of the most reactionary platforms the Republicans ever have adopted.

"In my opinion, it makes the Democratic chances exceptionally bright. We should go ahead now without fear, and with the confidence in victory, which the Republican 'old guard' has put within our grasp by a species of political maneuvering that has left some of the staunchest Republicans agnostic and apprehensive."

TRIEST RIOTS AGAINST ITALIAN ARMY'S ENRTY

Rome, June 13.—Rifle and pistol shots were exchanged and bombs thrown in serious rioting reported from Triest, provoked by the sending of Italian troops to Albania.

It is stated that there were a number of casualties and one lieutenant is reported to have died from his wounds.

Last accounts from Triest say the city now is calm.

"Opportunity Period" Speeding to End In Herald Salesmanship Campaign, For Extra Credits and Cash Awards

A tip to the ambitious men and women of Washington and environs: This week—in fact, today—is the best time to get started in the Salesmanship Club race.

Those who get going during the next four days—or, to be exact, before 10:00 p. m., Thursday, June 17—will gain many thousands of vote credits over those who delay until after that time.

Only these four days—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday—remain of the time in which club members can obtain ballots extraordinary—100,000 extra credits on each and every $25.00 turned in for

SHOOTS WIFE, SLAYS HIMSELF

Woman Hit by Four Bullets May Live—12 Children Witnesses.

Grantville, Md., June 13.—With their twelve children looking on, Albert R. Raymond, near Chalk Hill, on the National pike, west of here, shot his wife five times, and believing her dead, killed himself with a rifle, using his toe to press the trigger. She may recover.

Raymond was 55 and his wife 50. The shooting occurred a few minutes after police had appeared at the Raymond home to arrest him for wife beating. Mrs. Raymond had pleaded with them not to take him, saying that their differences had been settled. The police then left.

Mrs. Raymond has a bullet in the neck, a wound in the chin, one in the right side and a fourth in the hand.

HEAVY STORM BRINGS RELIEF

Mercury 100 at 2 o'Clock, Drops to 80 Soon After Blow.

Washington experienced its third daily thunderstorm yesterday, the most severe of the season. During the downpour almost a half inch of rain was recorded at the Pennsylvania avenue kiosk. Slight damage was reported in the city, and the storm resulted in a welcome drop in temperature.

Telephone lines west of Hagerstown were tangled by the fall of several poles, but service into the Capital was only slightly delayed. Telephone communication between Washington and Chesapeake Beach was temporarily interrupted, and in Potomac Park branches of ancient willows were beaten down by the wind.

At the Pennsylvania avenue kiosk the temperature registered 100 at 2 o'clock, but dropped 20 degrees after the storm. At 5 o'clock the comfortable temperature of 72 was recorded. The Weather Bureau reported the temperature at 2 o'clock as 87 degrees.

Policeman Falls Unhurt as Bolt Kills His Horse

Lightning that came with yesterday afternoon's storm has made a fatalist of Edward Grimes, 146 Good Hope road, Anacostia.

Grimes, mounted police officer, was riding his bay horse on Thirty-ninth street near Chevy Chase Circle, when a bolt from the sky killed the horse and threw the rider to the ground.

Grimes was uninjured. He is convinced that yesterday was not "his" day.

DANIELS PAYS HONOR TO THREE SEAMEN

Secretary Daniels has commended three seamen for heroic conduct in rescuing companions from death by drowning. One was awarded a silver medal.

Recipients of the honor are: Thos. J. Flanagan, gunner's mate, who on April 24 jumped overboard and saved W. J. Whitenour, a seaman, who had fallen between two vessels in San Diego harbor and was sinking in an unconscious condition.

William Butson, coxswain, on April 24, rescued Kyle R. Chambers, seaman, as Chambers was struggling in the water after the overturning of a small boat in the Hudson near Newark, N. J.

James D. Shea, a former ship's cook, was awarded a silver life saving medal for gallant conduct in assisting to save a man from drowning in the Charles River on January 24, 1920.

Two 'Iron Men' Of G. O. P. Wait Johnson's Word

Hays and Daugherty in First Meeting, Have Eyes on California.

Chicago, June 13.—Will H. Hays, the re-elected Republican national chairman and Harry M. Daugherty, the political general who won epaulettes yesterday with Warren G. Harding's nomination, met today and laid the foundation for the campaign except that the genius displayed by the Harding pre-convention manager must be utilized in the coming campaign.

Nothing was decided with reference to the policy of the campaign except that an intensive drive is to be made upon the electoral vote west of the Mississippi River. In that connection, statements from Senator Johnson, California's Presidential entry, and Senator Borah, of Idaho, the Johnson lieutenant, are awaited anxiously.

One Indifferent Message. Senator Johnson's message to Senator Harding, reading: "Congratulations to you," constitutes the only word from the Californian to date. Senator Borah has done no talking for publication, but he has given the impression that he is not entirely satisfied over the Harding selection.

Mr. Hays, who likewise avoided all

LABOR AND CAPITAL DRAFT IN NEXT WAR

Syracuse, N. Y., June 13.—Maj. Gen. Edwards, of Boston, in an address before Syracuse University today, declared that the next war will see the draft extended to labor and capital as well as to the man power of the nation.

He urged compulsory universal military service of one year for youths sixteen to nineteen and declared that this is the only safeguard against another war. He said America was safe for five years only.

RIVER VICTIM'S HANDS CHAINED

Clairvoyant and Husband in West Virginia Jail for Alleged Murder.

Wellsburg, W. Va., June 13.—The body of a man taken from the river below here on May 27 and later buried was disinterred yesterday and identified as that of Stephen W. Galchek, 31, floral wire frame manufacturer of Pittsburg.

Mrs. Michael Ondrick, a clairvoyant and her husband, are held on charges of murder, while the police are looking for Hobard Grimm.

The body was handcuffed when pulled from the river, and there were fractures of the right cheek bone and the skull above the left eye.

Paid Visit to Clairvoyant. Galchek was last heard of when he visited the clairvoyant at Follansbee. Following the disappearance Mrs. Ondrick is alleged to have attempted to realize on checks aggregating $10,000 against Galchek's account in a Pittsburg bank.

She claimed the checks were given her by Galchek, whom she had known in Pittsburg.

Quarrel at Ondrick Home. It is said by the officers that Ondrick previously admitted that he, his wife, Mary, and Galchek had quarreled on the night of February 2 at the Ondrick home.

The officers hold to the theory that Galchek was handcuffed, placed in an automobile at Follansbee and taken to a bridge and thrown into the river.

Developments along this line are expected by the police within a few hours.

When the Ondrick woman was arrested for forgery, she gave bond and later jumped it, the police say. She was rearrested at Loraine, Ohio.

G. O. P. Nomination of Harding Challenge to Democrats to Do Their Best, Says Byran

Chicago, June 13.—The convention is over—the tumult and the shouting cease. The platform is full of invective against the President and full of boasting of Republican accomplishment, but that is not unnatural. It is the custom of parties to "point with pride" to all they do, and to "view with alarm" all the opposition has done or proposes to do.

The platform is a compromise, but what else could it be when the Republican party is rent with divisions and held together by party

RUSS COUNTESS QUESTIONED IN 'LOVE' MURDER

Police Seek One of Many Women Intimates of Whist King.

WIFE BARES LIAISONS

Believes Elwell Shot as Result of Escapade With Single Girl.

New York, June 13.—Belief that the mystery shrouding the murder of Joseph Bowne Elwell, turfman, bridge whist authority and man-about-town, to whose luxurious home on the West Side at least a half dozen women were said to have held keys, will be solved only when they find the woman supposed to know about the slaying, was expressed today by detectives.

In their effort to trace the identity of the mysterious woman, the detectives rummaging among the effects of the slain man discovered photographs of a Russian countess. The pictures, some of which had been made at Palm Beach and at various race tracks, led to the summoning to the Elwell house late today of the titled Russian who described herself as Mile. S. de Sainawaska, of 11 West Fifty-second street. When she arrived she was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. L. Hardy, and the two were immediately ushered in and questioned at length.

Revenge Theory Advanced. Details of what, if anything, was learned from the young Russian woman, were not divulged by the police. They stated, however, that the summoning of the countess was for the purpose of getting from her, if possible, some clue of the identity of the woman whom Elwell's estranged wife believes can quickly clear up the mystery. Mile. de Sainawaska was questioned, it is understood, as to any possible enemies the slain man may have had, especially among young women. Mrs. Elwell hinted more than broadly that her husband had frequent escapades with young married women and the police felt that if among these there is found one who had, or believed she had, reason to seek revenge, the work of rumping down the person who fired the fatal shot will be much simplified.

Developments that tumbled over one another strengthened the

PENROSE HAS HIS BEST DAY

Old Guard Leader Fast Regaining His Former Health.

Philadelphia, June 13.—Senator Boies Penrose is recovering rapidly. From a physical standpoint today was the best day he has spent since many weeks before the convention.

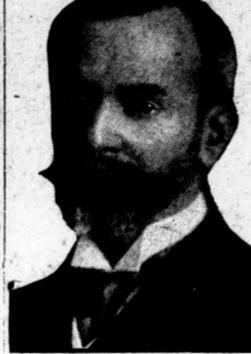

Free from the worry and the severe strain of keeping in constant touch from his sick room with the Republican convention in Chicago, the "Old Guard" leader passed a day marked with nothing more straining than numerous telegrams regarding the nomination of Senator Harding and Gov. Coolidge by his party.

While Leighton C. Taylor, secretary to Mr. Penrose, refused to discuss the nature of the telegrams, the belief was expressed that they were principally congratulatory in character. It is known Senator Harding was the original choice of Mr. Penrose. He was silent concerning the nomination of Gov. Coolidge.

Further denial was made of the rumors circulated Saturday that Senator Penrose had suffered a relapse. It was asserted physicians are looking for such progress during the next few days as will allow him to walk about the house at will.

Dean of Diplomats Near End of Office

M. JULES JUSSERAND

The Senate's repudiation of the peace treaty and league of nations covenant has created such havoc in French politics that the retirement of M. Jusserand, for eighteen years Paris' envoy here, is expected in the near future. He is blamed for not having informed his government of President Wilson's treaty-making limitations. M. Jusserand soon will sail for Paris, and will not return in an official capacity.

CHEERS HARDING PILOT

Chicago Holds Wake of Busted Booms as G. O. P. Cohorts Start Home.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Chicago, June 13.—Chicago is holding its quadrennial wake of busted booms tonight. Hardly enough delegates are left to act as pallbearers. Before Senator Harding boarded his special train for Washington last night there was noise galore, even though it was strictly confined to one camp. With his departure calm settled over the lithographic landscape as delegates and convention visitors filtered through the station gates.

Those who are still here are taking stock of the happenings the last twenty-four hours. Few found much to cheer over. The majority spent the day bending a listening ear in the direction of Hiram Johnson's quarters. Not a few expected big news but these were disappointed. They had expected one of two things—a bolt or acquiescence in the nomination of Warren G. Harding, but the California Senator took his time in satisfying the curious.

Hiram's Congratulations. It was not until the forenoon that a telegram from Johnson to Harding was given out. It had arrived late at Hotel LaSalle, where Harding had been stopping. It arrived hours after the Republican candidate for President had departed East. It was supposed to have been sent last night. At any rate, it took a long time for the message to reach the hotel, although the two hostilities are only about ten blocks apart.

Nervous hands opened it and read, over the signature of Hiram Johnson:

"Congratulations to you." It wasn't much, but it cheered Harry M. Daugherty, Harding's manager, a lot. He and others interpreted it to mean that there would be no bolt and that Johnson would remain within the fold. Newspapersmen flocked around Senator Borah for more explicit information, but the Idaho Senator

Four Drowned While Bathing; Two Brothers Streams Near Capital Take Heavy Toll of Boys Seeking Heat Relief.

Deaths from drowning reached a midsummer mark yesterday, when four of those who sought relief from the heat in the waters of the Potomac and at bathing places near Washington were reported drowned. The dead are:

Ebner Shacklett, 14, of 632 E street, northwest, and his 13-year-old brother, Howard Shacklett.

William Jackson, colored, 17 years old, of 74 L street, northwest.

Lee M. Robinson 19 years old, of 1121 Duke street, Alexandria, Va.

The two Shacklett boys were drowned at 10 o'clock yesterday morning while bathing in the creek at Mount Jackson, Va., where they were visiting with their mother, Mrs. Benjamin Shacklett.

Believed Victims of "Hole." It is believed they got into a "hole" and sank before assistance could reach them. The two boys could swim but very little, it was stated.

The bodies will be brought to Washington today. Their father, Benjamin Shacklett, a conductor on the Southern Railway, was almost prostrated by news of the deaths.

Robinson was drowned shortly before noon while bathing in the Potomac, opposite the Old Dominion Boat Club's building at Alexandria. Robinson, who was with four companions, sank into a hole near a dredging machine before aid could be given.

Body Is Recovered. The crew of the police boat, Major Sylvester, recovered the body soon after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and took it to Alexandria. Funeral services will be held at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. S. C. Robinson, 1121 Duke street, Alexandria.

Jackson was drowned near the Benning bridge over the Anacostia River. Hugh Bundy, colored, of 44 L street northwest, who was bathing there with Jackson, said the boy went down suddenly while swimming in the middle of the channel. After returning from Alexandria, the police launch, Major Sylvester, was sent to the Benning bridge, but after several hours of dragging, had not recovered the body.

TREATY DEFEAT FORCES RECALL OF JUSSERAND

Veteran French Envoy Will Not Return After Paris Trip.

TO ASK RETIREMENT

Blamed for Storm Following League's Death in U. S. Senate.

(Public Ledger Service.)

Jules Jusserand, for eighteen years French Ambassador to the United States, will not return to his post here after his visit to Paris, for which preparations are now being made at the French Embassy. M. Jusserand, whose long service in this country earned him the title "dean of the foreign diplomatic corps," has become a central figure in the political storm that has swept France as a result of the United States Senate defeating the treaty. His retirement has been determined upon as necessary to help quell the tumult, which has not yet subsided.

Officials of the French Embassy have consistently refused to discuss the shifting events in France, brought about by what the average Frenchman believes to be the studied indifference of this country to the fate of her late ally. Only the attaches of the embassy, and not all of them, are aware of the fact that M. Jusserand is not to come back to this country in an official capacity. It is understood that the move, when made, will be in the form of an announcement by the veteran diplomat that he wishes to be relieved of the burdens incident to a public career.

In 65 Years Old.

M. Jusserand celebrated his 65th birthday anniversary this winter. The last forty-four years of his life have been spent in the diplomatic service and in such meritorious fashion that not even his bitterest political enemies can deny him the right of stepping aside gracefully.

The trend of opinion in France had its origin in the fate of the treaty and the league of nations before the Senate. Leaders in French politics have made the charge that M. Jusserand and Andre Tardieu, formerly his chief commissioner to the United States, failed to inform their government and people of the limitations of the Presidential power insofar as treaty making is concerned and that France, therefore, was lulled into a sense of false security and given to believe that President Wilson's signature to the treaty furnished the safeguards against future aggression and the sympathetic assistance the war ravaged country needed.

The men now attacking the course
