Commissioner Boardman.

The President's choice of Miss Mabel Boardman as the Republican party's representative on the Board of Commissioners of the District is strategic. As in the nomination of Mrs. Gardner to the Federal Civil Service Commission he recognizes the achieved place of woman hereafter in the higher as well as lower ranges of politics and civic responsibility.

"Scraps of Paper."

The President, in his latest statement of the government's position toward the anthracite coal commission's award, has hit the center of the target. Until both capital and labor understand that compacts formally entered into for peaceable settlement of industrial strife must be kept there never will be domestic peace.

The Catholic Charities Conference.

Today, at the Catholic University, many hundred delegates clerical and lay, from all parts of the country, will meet to share for five days in the deliberations of the sixth biennial session of the National Catholic Conference of Charities.

Judges and Lawless Motorists.

The amount of business for the courts which lawless use of motor vehicles is creating bears a fair ratio to the equally striking gain in manufacture and use of such vehicles.

Women as Internationalists.

Women are intense nationalists and history shows to what lengths of maternal sacrifice they will go as patriots, and as cheerleaders of the passions and aspirations that have gone with patriotism.

New York City

By O. O. McIntyre.

The Midnight Frolic.

New York, Sept. 11.—Gay life of the metropolis at its highest pitch is registered at the opening of the Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic atop the New Amsterdam Theater.

Not even the horseshoe circle at the opening of the Metropolitan Opera House has a more representative gathering. It is flamboyant, flashy, ultra. The very small roof makes for exclusiveness just like the tiny cafes of Paris.

After the theater the procession arrives. The gowns represent the last word in the dressmaker's art, and there is a billow wave of white shirred men in silk hats and white gloves.

There is an hour of dancing before midnight when the curtains are parted and the performance is revealed. Mr. Ziegfeld's success has been founded on his selection of stage beauties and artistic lighting and scenic effects.

At the opening this week there were very few present who have not gained more or less fame in the public eye. At one table was Mrs. Lydia Hoyt, who has just been selected as one of the most beautiful women in America.

During the dancing a voice singing to the dance music was heard, and instantly recognized as that of Mrs. Caruso. Then again there came another voice. It was the great Caruso himself.

At another table sat the perennially youthful Miss Billie Burke. With her was her husband, Mr. Ziegfeld, the producer of the show.

He Needed the Money.

An old white-whiskered patriarch was standing on Fifth avenue the other afternoon trying to sell four fluffy white puppies, two of which he held in his hands and the other two he held out of his side coat pockets.

Another Concern Trick It.

At Thirty-ninth street and Seventh avenue, another project of the same sort is operating. That concern is after $200,000 which the owner, an agent told the writer was to put on the market an amusement device similar to the "old mill."

Glass Lost His Job.

Montague Glass, the writer, landed in New York from England at 11 and went to work as a clerk in a law office at 12th street.

Robbing Vaudeville.

Nearly everything from steel to silk mills has been hit by the petty thieves of late, but now comes the vaudeville theatrical field.

Passing Days.

The summer days are nearly done—they fall behind us one by one—and having fallen, come no more, but join the ages gone before.

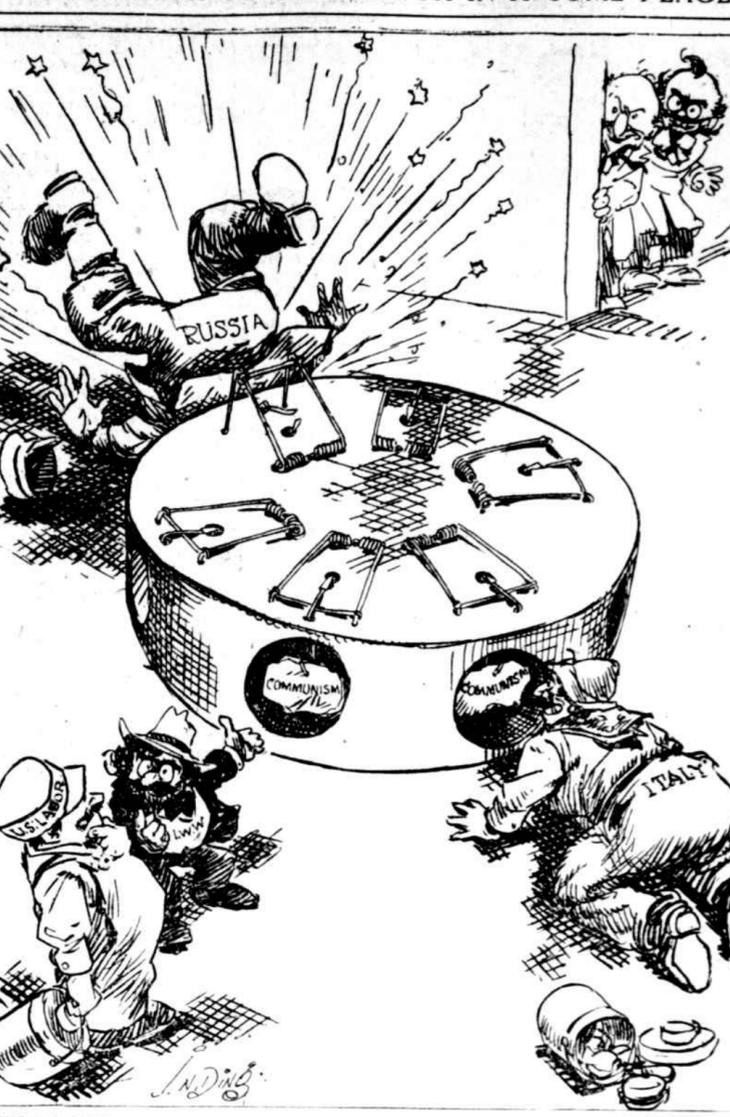

An Hereditary Quarrel.

To the title of his death the late E. H. Harriman anthematized "T. R." was well remembered; they fell afresh with the second generation.

Not Enough Cooks.

Curb Salesmen Go Back to Ballyhoo To Sell Stocks on Wall Street and Use Underground Phonograph as Aid

By RAYMOND G. CARROLL. New York, Sept. 11.—Ballyhoo methods have been introduced into stock-selling on the streets of New York.

"Get off my head!" came a voice from under the west pavement, last night, in Broadway, north of Fifth street. Persons jumped with astonishment. Eyes searched the street. Then some one laughed and remarked that the surprise was engineered from a ground floor office.

The rent of this office costs us $50 a day," said a salesman of whom I asked if the method of stock-selling had been a success. "We have an average of 500 persons in here each day. I have sold $3,000 worth of stock. That man over there has sold $5,000 worth."

Following is the reason offered by one New York "working girl" for wearing silk.

"Laundry is the big item when I wear gingham dresses. In a New York office a gingham dress lasts but a day. It costs at least $1 to be laundered. That is $6 a week. Our salaries range from $15 to $20 a week and after car fare and food it is not much left."

Florida Women Begin Registering for Ballot

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 11.—Four hundred and twenty-four women had registered at the courthouse in the district registration places in the various city wards up to Saturday, according to reports from Frank M. Ironmonger, county supervisor of registration.

By George Perry Morris.

The Old School Diplomat Wins.

The resignation of Lord Derby as British Ambassador in Paris and the appointment of Lord Hardinge as his successor marks restoration to this important post of a diplomat trained in the school of the past and with wide experience.

Vahky—Labor's Specialist in Public Utility Strikes.

If you read of the negotiations now under way in New York City, in which Gov. Smith, Mayor Hylan, Samuel Gomper, former Secretary of War Garrison and Judge Mayer figure, you will see another name emerging in the news story of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit strike.

G. Lansbury's Pecuniary Resources.

The Herald of London, edited by George Lansbury, admits recent charges that it is partly financed with gold received from the Russian Soviet government.

From Diplomacy to Law.

Having had a much-needed rest and time for recreation, Hon. Frank L. Polk, former Under Secretary of State, is settling down in New York City to resume for a time an active life.
