

WOMEN PRESSING BATTLE IN HOUSE FOR END OF WAR

Peace Workers Make Stand on Disarmament Bill Before Committee

By CONSTANCE DREXEL. Women have taken a hand in the question of disarmament now agitating both Senate and House of Representatives. There is no question that seems to be receiving more serious attention on the floor and in the committee rooms of Congress, and it was to be expected that women would allow the opportunity of unity of telling where they stand to pass unnoticed.

Their opportunity came yesterday morning at a hearing on the Brooks resolution before the Committee on Foreign Affairs. Edwin B. Brooks is a Representative from Illinois. His resolution is very brief and reads as follows:

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the President be, and he is hereby, authorized and empowered, at his discretion, to invite the governments of all nations to accredit delegates to an international conference to be held in the United States, to consider ways and means of bringing about joint disarmament.

The hearing before the committee to which a resolution is referred gives people a chance to say what they think about it, and then the committee is expected to report favorable or unfavorable to the measure. It is an opportunity for a chance to come to a vote on the floor.

Hearing lively. The hearing this morning was a very lively affair. Democratic and Republican members of the committee frequently interrupting the speakers to hurl questions at each other.

"If you want disarmament," spoke Representative Flood, of Virginia, "why didn't you go into the league of nations?"

"The American people said what they thought about that scheme last November," fired back a Republican Representative.

"That's because you fooled them about Article X," which is the matter with Article VIII, which is about disarmament," the controversy raged.

Mrs. Jessie Hardy MacKay, of New York, legislative chairman of the "Woman's Peace Party," was speaking gently but firmly reminded the gentlemen of the committee that women were not interested in the political advantage that might be considered.

Gives Women's Side. "Whether the American people were or were not correctly informed," she said, "neither here nor there. We simply know that we have not gone into the league of nations, and we women think it perfectly fitting for the American people to call their Chief Executive—whether it be President Wilson or President Harding—to call a disarmament conference such as the Brooks resolution suggests."

Mrs. MacKay, as well as other speakers, referred to the provisions of the Hensley naval act of August, 1918, which authorizes the President to call such a conference.

"We are not technically at war," it was pointed out, "therefore the $200,000 appropriated for this purpose by this act is right in the Treasury, ready for the President to use. The Brooks resolution simply asks him to call a world disarmament convention."

Other Speakers. The other two women speakers were Mrs. Henry Villard, of New York, president of the Women's Peace party, and Miss Ethel Smith, legislative chairman of the National Women's Trade Union League, who spoke as a representative of the American Federation of Labor.

"The working women know what it means to make the clothing, and even the guns and ships for the war," she said, "and what it amounted to," she asked, "The majority of Congress did not think it would gain the end by entering the league of nations. We have a perfect right to look to that majority to find some other way, and this resolution is a step."

Members of the committee declared that the women had made a fine showing, and they were most impressed with the common sense of the testimony.

In 1920 William Penn formulated a plan for a league of nations and advanced a social philosophy as applicable today to the present situation as regards armaments and war as it was in Colonial times, representatives of the Society of Friends of Philadelphia yesterday told the House of Representatives of the favorable action on the Brooks resolution authorizing the President to call an international conference on disarmament.

William P. Harvey, of Philadelphia, secretary of the field force of the Society of Friends, presented to the committee for its deliberation William Penn's league of nations.

Harvey said that differences with Canada over 100 years ago had been settled by arbitration.

"If a nation looks for war it will have war," he declared, "and if it looks for peace it shall have peace. It is largely in a state of mind that we continue to arm, we are going to have another outbreak."

He pointed out that while in the appropriations for the fiscal year 1921, 20.5 per cent was provided for armaments, that in the appropriation for the fiscal year 1922, 35.5 per cent was for this purpose. In disarming Germany, he said, the allies had done that country a "prodigious service."

Harvey C. Wiley went into details how chemistry and physics today were using their best energies to invent big guns only to be scrapped when the other fellow invented something still more dreadful.

A lively tiff arose during the testimony of Mrs. Villard, who is a frail, little white haired lady, 75 years old, wearing a little blue bonnet in the fashion of grandmothers of yesterday. Mrs. Villard is the daughter of William Lloyd Garrison and expounded some of her father's theories of non-resistance and relying upon protection from her high heels.

"Mrs. Villard," Representative Moore of Indiana got up in courtesy to the speaker, "you say you represent the Women's Peace Party. When you were young, your organization was formed and what it did during the war?"

"She was prosecuted during the war," whispered Congress about the matter. "Oh no, she was not," objected the other.

Tries to Help U. S. And 'Misses,' Too, By Bachelor Tax

Mrs. Clara Sears Taylor, member of the Washington Rent Commission through appointment by President Wilson, yesterday proposed that Congress levy a tax on bachelors.

Pointing out that the United States now has approximately 10,000,000 bachelors, more than any other country in the world, Mrs. Taylor estimated such a tax would yield $20,000,000 or more a year.

Mrs. Taylor would have the tax range from $1 to $5 a year per unmarried male, according to age. Here is the way she figured it: 3,850,000 bachelors, 20 to 24 years of age at $1, $3,850,000; 3,800,000 bachelors, 25 to 24 years of age at $2, $7,600,000; 1,000,000 bachelors, 45 to 64 years of age at $4, $4,000,000; 150,000 bachelors, 65 years of age and over, $5, $750,000. Total, 10,000,000 bachelors, $20,000,000.

"Great Britain and France have experimented with the bachelors' tax," said Mrs. Taylor. "It isn't a totally new proposal. It would put a premium on good citizenship which means assuming family obligations."

On the other hand, it was pointed out that the bachelors' tax might mean a loss instead of a gain in revenue. It was pointed out that the tax might goad unmarried men into marrying and a married man under income tax laws gets a $2,000 exemption while a single man gets only a $1,000 exemption.

Woman Will Fly Here With Electoral Vote

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 14.—Mrs. H. M. Wheeler, the Lincoln, Neb., grandmother who was recently selected to carry Nebraska's electoral vote to Washington, was busy today preparing for her 1,300 mile airplane ride to the Capital. Heavy snow and prospects of colder weather fail to daunt her.

Afrimen here say the trip is practically even if much colder weather should develop. Miss Beas Furman, reporter for the Omaha Daily News, which is financing the trip, will probably accompany Mrs. Wheeler.

Wreckage of Tugboat Indicates Crew Lost

GALVESTON, Tex., Jan. 14.—With the discovery of life belts and signal flags from the tug "Captain Talbot" late last night in addition to bits of wreckage washed ashore earlier in the day, hope for the lives of seven members of the crew was practically given up today by searchers.

The "Captain Talbot" was one of nineteen vessels included in equipment of the United States Engineering Department.

It sailed from Sabine Pass for Galveston Sunday and failure to arrive on schedule time caused a search to be started. Rough sea was believed responsible for the wreck.

In Pennsylvania there are 416,000 illiterates, and of these 79,125 are in Philadelphia.

ATE DOG'S FOOD SAYS GIRL WIFE IN COURT SUIT

Mistreated Because Her Brother Fought Against Germans, Complaint.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—"I was forced to snatch my daily food from the mouth of the family dog, or else starve. Because my brother fought against Germany, my husband and his family, who sympathized with Germany, took spite on me and often beat me. My husband, whom I married when I was only 16 years old, gave me only one dress and one coat in two years. My food was usually placed in a dish on the floor, and they always called the dog first, so that I had to snatch it from his mouth to eat."

This was the testimony given today by Mrs. Emma U. Helm, 18 years old, before the Supreme Court of Queen's County, in her effort to have her marriage with Frederick B. Helm annulled. Justice Faber granted the application for annulment and directed that her husband pay the young woman $15 a week alimony for the support of herself and 16-month-old child.

The only time, she said, that her husband ever gave her any money was when members of a Lutheran society took her away from her parent-in-law's home. On this occasion he handed her a $5 bill. When she married, Mrs. Helm testified that she weighed 145 pounds, and when she left the Helms' home she tipped the scales at 95.

Says Gillen Acted On Own Initiative

The so-called Goff-Gillen publicity campaign for forcing an immediate and drastic cut in the tonnage price of government ships yesterday lost one of its parents, Commissioner Guy D. Goff declaring that Martin J. Gillen, financial adviser to a large New York shipping concern, had made public statements on the plan without his consent.

The difficulty arose when Gillen, financial adviser to J. Heroldante, president of the Green Star Steamship Corporation, announced that Commissioner Goff had introduced before the Shipping Board a resolution that would reduce the price of tonnage to $47.50 a dead-weight ton.

Privacy Violated. Yesterday Gillen flooded the House and Senate offices with copies of a nicely printed brochure setting forth the Goff resolution and a formal discussion "prepared in cooperation with Martin J. Gillen" by Commissioner Goff.

The average wages of teachers in the elementary and high schools in Connecticut for the school year 1919-20 was $1,100, which is less than the average wages of the bell boys in hotels amounting to $1,150, and of barbers, $2,500; of carpenters, $2,288; of ordinary day laborers, $1,372; of automobile washers, $2,496; of maids, $1,120.

Mrs. Hammerstein Riled by Tactics of Opera Employees

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The Manhattan Opera House turned into a soap factory! Can you imagine such a lowly step for the house of song and art?

No matter, Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, widow of the famous Oscar himself, said today that she will welcome the manufacture of soap within the classic structure rather than submit further to the "unjust and picayune tactics" of the international alliance of theatrical employees and motion picture maching operators.

Now Mrs. Hammerstein is very much determined to carry out her "soap factory" idea. She stoutly maintains that she is not bluffing nor seeking to force any issue by talk. According to her every provision she has staged recently has brought about an overcharge by the theater employees. The last and most unbearable offense, she declared, occurred today when a proprietor sent in a bill for twelve hours overtime and could only account for two hours.

Cummings Funeral To Be Held Today
