

CITY CLUB OFFICERS TAKE OVER REINS IN INAUGURAL SESSION

President Stringer Announces Elaborate Program for Year.

New officers and members of the governing board of the City Club were installed last night at the annual inaugural meeting at the clubhouse, Thirteenth and G streets northwest.

In formally taking over the reins of authority, the new president, Henry E. Stringer, announced a comprehensive program for the coming year. He presented a platform of eleven specific planks.

Outlines Plans.

Included in these plans were enhancement of club spirit, maximum of club activity, establishment of a club budget system, sinking fund and retrenchment of expense, enlargement of the forum and group activities, extension of the entertainment program, installation of bowling alley, centralization of committee activity and enrollment of the full 2,000 membership authorized.

The new president announced four appointments: E. C. Graham, finance committee; Charles D. Rosen, house committee; M. D. Rosenberg, legal committee, and W. J. Eymon, budget committee.

George Indorses 50-50 Ratio.

Former Senator Thomas P. Gore endorsed the 50-50 tax ratio and suffrage for the District, but declared his opposition to the bill.

During the fourteen years I was in the Senate I voted for the 50-50 ratio for the District and I hope it may yet prevail. I am against the rent act because it strangles the fundamental economic law of supply and demand.

Earlier in the day the board of governors of the club held their first meeting. Charles W. Semmes was unanimously elected a member of the board to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Claude H. Woodward, former president of the Kiwanis Club, who was elected second vice president and his place on the board of governors was filled by James R. Mays, superintendent of Garfield Hospital.

Girl Disappears After Quarrel

Father Says Daughter Aimed Gun at Mother and Then Left House.

Fleeing from home after quarreling with her parents, pretty Miss Ula Robins, 20-year-old government clerk, is being sought by Washington's 300 policemen and 20 policemen.

The city-wide search was begun after the girl's father, George A. Robins, 2514 Twenty-fourth street northeast, had reported her disappearance to the police office, permission to accompany a "boy friend" to a church service at 2 o'clock Sunday morning" by her parents, Miss Robins, according to her father's statement, leveled a revolver at her mother and several hours later left the home.

Records at the Postoffice Department, where she is employed, show that she has not been at her desk in the performing division since Saturday. The father and the young man with whom she claimed to have the early morning church engagement, also are employed in the Postoffice Department.

The girl, according to the father, had threatened on several previous occasions, to run away.

VETERAN REPORTS THEFT OF MEDALS

Medals won by valor in the civil war and gold G. A. R. badges, one of them diamond-studded, were stolen from Charles Haber, commander of the Virginia and North Carolina division of the Grand Army of the Republic, during the veteran's visit to witness the dedication of the Grant Memorial, according to a letter received by local police yesterday from the National Soldiers' Home, Va.

Other thefts reported to the police are: Louis Goldberg, 501 D street northwest, loss of gold watch, value $50. Lee Brown, 624 Maryland avenue northeast, theft of clothes, value $35. Henry C. Fowler, 416 Fifth street northwest, theft of $33 cash from his pocket. Mrs. Anna White, 415 Fourth street northwest, theft of gold watch valued at $25. Susie Wright, colored, 1534 Fifteenth street northwest, theft of $50 cash.

TWO KILLED AS AIRPLANES CRASH OVER POTOMAC RIVER

The navy and was praised last night by superiors as an expert engineer, and "indispensable man." Miller was head of the propeller testing division of the Bureau of Aeronautics. He had been in Washington since 1918. He is survived by a wife.

A concert which was to have been given last night at the Anacostia air station (NOB) for broadcasting was postponed as a mark of respect to the dead aviators.

Deafening Noise Sends Rescuer Out in Boat

A deafening crash spread the first message of the fatal air collision which caused the death of two naval fliers and the wrecking of two naval airplanes yesterday afternoon, according to residents of Glebeboro Point, near the scene of the tragedy.

It was this crash which prompted E. H. Eaton, who resides along the river front, not far distant from the scene of the crash, to launch his rowboat and proceed toward the two mangled wrecks.

Eaton, accompanied by John Goodman and A. Jarbow, also residents of the vicinity, rescued Comdr. Johnston and Machinist's Mate Jacobs from their perilous position on top of their wrecked plane.

SERIES OF THEFTS LAID TO HICKS

Police Say Alleged Mail Box Looter Has Confessed to Robberies in D. C.

Police believe they have another "serial robber" in the person of George Emmitt Hicks, whom they arrested yesterday while he is said to have been in the act of removing the contents of a mail box at the Morton apartments, 1442 K street northwest, serving Messrs. Mullen, Darnall and Springman, who arrested him, say his tactics greatly resemble those of Charles Joseph Lauzon, who recently confessed to robbing 209 Washington apartments.

George G. Fowler, 1820 Sixteenth street northwest, while passing the Morton apartments noticed Hicks' actions and notified the police, who arrested him before he left the place.

At headquarters the prisoner was quizzed briefly by Inspector Clifford L. Grant, to whom he is said to have confessed to a series of robberies during the past several months.

He had only a few dollars at the time of his arrest and a bank book showing $50 on deposit in a local bank. He is said to have admitted robbing the following:

Grace Kyser, Ella Sherborn and Annie Krvas, Apartment 3, 322 First street southwest; James J. Ballou, 1712 Seventeenth street northwest; Mary Louden, 1924 Seventeenth street northwest; C. G. Humphries, 1429 Harvard street northwest; Edna Sprout and Viola Marling, 1428 K street northwest; Lucile Burroughs, 1201 Q street northwest; Addie Brown, 3224 H street northwest; Irley R. Pollard, 1191 E street northwest.

Holland Giant Sued for $1,500

Hat at $15, Shoes Costing $13 Among Items Mentioned.

Such little things as a $15 hat, a $43 pair of shoes—size not mentioned, three suits of clothes costing $95 each and one foot-pan costing $6.50, are contained in a bill of particulars filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday with a claim against Albert Kreamer, otherwise known as Van Albert, the Holland giant, by Bernard A. Myers, a New York attorney.

Kreamer, whose head towers nine feet above the ground at the Rubin and Cherry carnival at Camp Meigs, will have to stop down a bit and see his pay envelope attached, as a writ was issued by Clerk Morgan Beach after Myers had furnished a bond of $3,200 to guarantee Kreamer or account any court action that might be premature.

Myers claimed altogether $1,570.31 as representing money and property advanced to the giant from February 23 to April 18, 1921, when he was on tour. Attorneys Brylawski, Wolf and Clayton appeared for Myers.

D. C. FAILS TO ASK ENOUGH MONEY FOR SCHOOLS, HE SAYS

Representative Towner Addresses Parent-Teachers Unit.

"The best public schools of the nation should be in Washington." This was the standard set for Washington school supporters by Representative Horace M. Towner of Iowa, in an address to the Parent-Teachers Association of Peabody School last night. More than a hundred parents heard the address.

Declaring that the public schools in this city have been neglected, both by citizens and Congress, Representative Towner said, "Congress exercises no direct control over the schools of any other city in the United States. As the governing body of the richest nation of the world, it ought to see to it that the one city in which it does have control has the best schools in this nation. They should be models for all other cities."

South Carolinians Meet.

A one-act playlet, "A Social Success," written by Miss Julia Dial, daughter of Senator Dial, was presented before the South Carolina State Society at the Thomson Community Center last night. Those who took part were: Miss Dial, Mrs. Q. B. Newman and William Smith. Representative W. F. Stevenson, of South Carolina, spoke.

Never Saw Other Plane, Says Pilot Johnston

Lieut. Comdr. Johnston, pilot of one of the colliding planes, told the following story of the wreck as he directed rescue work of the sunken seaplane from the deck of a naval tug.

"I was going South following the river course at top speed when suddenly we were jolted terrifically. My goggles were jarred from my eyes and my engine began to wobble badly. The power was gone and I felt the plane turning on its side. As best I could I maneuvered a landing immediately. We were about 500 feet up at the time of the jarring. I had no idea of what had caused the jarring until Jacobs called my attention to the wrecked plane midway in the river behind us. It was my first knowledge that there was a plane in the vicinity.

"Jacobs later told me he had seen the plane a minute before but had thought we were much higher than which came from shore. When we arrived at Selden's plane it was apparent there were no hopes of saving the other men."

New Zealand Woman Writer Sees Collision

Miss Nellie M. Scanlan, who represented the New Zealand newspapers at the conference on the limitation of armament, witnessed the aeroplane crash while motoring back to this city from Mount Vernon.

Miss Scanlan explained how the two planes were maneuvering when suddenly the wings of one of the planes seemed to touch the other and the smaller machine of the two, tilted over and fell sideways and like a giant toy hurled from the sky tumbled awkwardly into the river.

Bill to Raise Teachers' Pay Reported to Senate

The bill to raise the salaries of school teachers made its debut in the Senate yesterday when it was reported favorably by Chairman Capper, of the subcommittee in charge of the public schools of the District.

The compensation should be large enough to attract the most efficient teachers and a high type of citizen, the report stated.

Legislative authorization of standard salaries of employees is provided. At the present time the salaries of employees are fixed annually by appropriation bills.

Authorized standard salaries are provided for activities which have developed in the school system

IRISH LEADERS EXTEND TRUCE

DUBLIN, May 5.—The truce between the two sections of the Irish republican army has been extended to Wednesday through mutual agreement between Arthur Griffith, head of the Dail Eireann and Eamonn De Valera, leader of the rebel forces. It was also agreed that no public meetings should be held during the truce.

The armistice was originally to expire Monday afternoon, but it was felt that the extension would give the leaders of the two factions more time to work out a permanent peace settlement which would unite the army behind the provisional government.
