The Government of the Pycoon having use for the money of their enemies, set aside the law and ap-pointed a class of men called "brokers" to act as agents for the purchase of the desired amount.— Should your Imperial Majesty find it necessary or convenient to violate any of the laws of Japan, you will do well to employ a "broker" as your agent, for you may then violate the law with impunity, and even with an appearance or innecence. For the Standard. MR. EDFOR !- I see by the Standard of this date, that Gov. Vance is having his tickets printed on yellow paper, a low contemptible trick, originated no doubt by Spelman, McRae & Co., and intended only to frustrate the intention of the law, and

There are hundreds of honest, hard working poor men, who are new working for the State, subject to the control of Goe. Vance—thereby keeping out of the army, and earning a scant but honorable living for their families—who with blacet hearts and loy-al purpose, endorse your course and principles, and if left untrammeled would vote for you. But Gov. Vance is too keen to allow that. He and "dirty Spelman" knew how to fix them; and now these men will have to vote against their judgment and wishes, or if Gov. Vance is re-elected, yield their place to insufficient men, and go to the army, leaving their families to suffer at home, or to use one of Gov. Vance's chaste expressions, "eat the grass off their husbands graves." But I think, Mr. Holden, that your duty to those persons thus situated, and also to yourself, demand that you should give them a chance of voting as they please, without the fear of punishment, thereby doing justice to a worthy class of our citizens (the mechanics) assisting the law in its purpose to allow every man the privilege of voting a close ticket, and using nothing but an honorable effort to counteract an with egotistical remarks, having reference to his hospitality to soldiers and his liberality to their families. This subject brings me to the main object of my communication.

Without intending the least disparagement to his election.

Major Stipe was remarkable in 1860-61 for his support Mr. Holden for Governor.

I would remind his traducers that so far as his pecuniary affairs are concerned, that he has a sufficient amount of property to entitle him to a seat in the House of Commons if elected, or the Senate either; that he has acquired it himself by honest industry and perseverance; that he has always supported his family, paid his just debts, &c, which we think is enough for our purpose. He is well known in his neighborhood for his energy of character, for his unflinching perseverance in his undertakings. As a public servant he is prompt in action and faithful in the discharge of his duties .-He is a true patriot and the people's and soldiers'

If Vance is re-elected, there will be introduced a OPEN TICKET.

Raleigh, July 25, 1864.

We have five candidates in Forsyth County for day, vulgarly called stumping the County. We having had a Conservative mass meeting at Winston on the 28th May for the purpose of nominating two suitable candidates to represent us in the Commons, Major W. B. Stipe and Col. W. H. Wheeler were unanimously chosen as the Conservative candidates, and a series of resolutions were adopted as a sort of platform, and which were founded on a strictly constitutional basis. Since that time, J. H. Hester and J. W. Cole, Esqrs., have declared themselves as the Destructive candidates in opposition to Messrs. Stipe and Wheeler, and Dr. E. Kerner, one of the present members, has declared himself and undertakes to steer between the two extremes and be elected to the next Legislature on the grounds of being a Vance man, and pleads that as the people have elected him once it s due to him that he be elected at least once more, and says it is at least the custom. The Doctor labors bard to prove to the people that he did not, while in the Legislature at its last

Mr. Cole as not much of an orator, so the burden of the opposition falls on Mr. Hester. He admits vention in 1861, and voted for Messrs. Masten and Belo, the secession candidates for delegates in opposition to Messrs. Patterson and Wilson, the Union candidates; refused to vote for Vance two

Mr. Hester's speeches are largely interspersed

Mr. Hester, I would state upon the authority of the good people of the neighborhood and of my own knowledge, that Maj. Stipe has done as much for soldiers and soldiers' families as any man of his ability in Forsyth County, and has said as little about it himself, and I would further add, that as some of the Destructives of this County, envying the Major his well earned popularity, and having no charge to bring against his character, but hoping by some means to defeat his election, refer to his having once failed in business, saying that some years ago he was broken up, &c., and sneeringly remark that a man not capable of managing his own concerns is incapable of managing State affairs .-Of course this is a trivial affair and not worth noticing in a paper, but I know it will be used and capital tried to be made of it among the uninformed in distant parts of the County to operate against strict attachment to the federal Constitution, and when the old government was broken up he took as firm a stand upon the Confederate Constitution, and is determined to be elected or defeated on a constitutional basis, denouncing the dangerous encroachments of Congress and the Executive at Richmond, and endorsing Wm. W. Holden in his fearless and straight forward course of warning the people from time to time of their danger, and will ated mind, connected with sound patriotism and inblemished moral character. He will support Mr. Holden for Governor.

Mr. Cole says but little, and I know but little of Mr. Cole says but little, and I know but little of Mr. Cole says but little, and I know but little of Mr. Cole says but little, and I know but little of Mr. Cole says but little, and I know but little of Mr. A. THOMPSON.

FELLOW-CIVILENS:—At the request of many political friends, I annuunce myself a candidate to represent the people of the County of Rockingham in the Senate of the people of the County of Rockinguam in the Scales of the State.

I was opposed to secession originally, thinking it would bring on us the worst calamity that ever befell any people. I am opposed to a second secession, as I think that would be alike dreadful in its consequences.

The war being on us I am in favor of prosecuting it to successful termination, and I am proud to say that

North-Carolina has shown as united a determination to do so as any State in the Confederacy, and would to-day stand first on the Roll of Honor and Patriotism, but for the misrepresentations of some evil disposed persons of the mo-tives of some of her best people, that have been too readily believed by the Executive at Etchmond, and not sufficientbelieved by the Executive at Etchmond, and not sumotestly denied by our own Executive at Raleigh.

I am in favor of negotiations being set on foot to obtain pessealf possible on honorable terms, "holding the sword in one hand and the clive branch in the other."

In one nand and the clive brunch in the other.

I am opposed to the suspension of the writ of kabers corpus, as respended by Congress; and when we are told it was senected to control an expression of sentiment in North-Carolina, to control our elections, and to murgle certain presses of the State, I. think it is high time we should areals in tones of thurden against such expression. should speak in tones of thunder against such encroachshould speak in tones of thunder against such encroachments on our personal freedom.

I think the representative should be field to a strict account by his constituents, and that they should know how he votes on all questions relating to the public interests.

I hold it is the right of the people to hold such meetings as they may deem to the interest of themselves and their country, whether peace or other meetings, and at them to speak and act freely, so that nothing is done in violation of the Constitution of the Confederate States, the Constitution of this State, or the laws of the land.

I believe we should have the moral courage to assume the position taken by Gov Brown, Vice President Steph-the position taken by Gov Brown, Vice President Stephens, and W. W. Holden, Esq., if we would retain our civil liberty as well as do-all that we can to obtain our independence. It is, therefore, upon the great issue of the day, civil liberty or a military despetism.

As I do not expect to be able to canvass the County, I As I do not expect to be able to canvass the County, I have thus given you in the form of a circular some of my views upon the issues now pending; and in conclusion, will say, if elected, I will do all I can to advance the interest of North-Carolina, to maintain its ancient sovereignty, and to see the liberty and freedom of the citizen respected. Yours, most respectfully,

JONES W. BURTON.

Leaksville, N. C., July 18, 1864.

TTO THE VOTERS OF DAVIDSON COUN-Ly, Citizens and Soldiers.—We, the undersigned, respectfully announce to you that we are caudidates to represent you in the next Legislature of North-Carolina.— Our principles are structly Conservative. We are for peace upon such terms as will satisfy a majority of the people, and will, if elected, use every effort to procure it. We are and will, if elected, use every effort to procure it. We are not afraid to trust the people, and will therefore yote to submit the question of "Convention or no Convention" to them it they desire it. We will do every thing in our power to advance what we believe to be the best interests of North-Carolina. We hope our friends at home will give information to their friends in the army. ty.-At the solicitation of many soldiers in the army, as well as of many friends at home, I announce myself a candidate for the House of Commons from Chatham County. I have received no solicitations from the Rahabites, the American Heroes, or the eligarchs, or those who stay at home to make money out of the families of the soldiers, and occupy their spare time in abusing better men than themselves as disloyal. I stand fairly and squarely platform of Stephens and Brown, of Georgia, and W. W. Holden for Governor against the world; and I believe that without the election of suck men to office we will never have a permanent peace. So far as the soldiers are con-cerned, I do not wish to appear to boast, but I will say that I have done as much for their families, or more, according to my means than any Vanceite in the County of Fellow-citizens and soldiers, go to the polls on the day of election, and vote for true Conservatives, if you would have peace and be a free people. Do not be intimidated, but stand up for your rights. JOHN A. McDONALD.

A CARD. In coming before the public for this honorable and responsible position, I can but say that it was not sought for by myself, but through the strong and numerous solicitstions of my friends, I have consented to become a candidate. I shall not attempt to canvass the District, or visit the army, as the time is now short, and the people have something else to do than to be annoyed with candidates. I am well known to the people, having lived amongst them for the last is or 20 years, and all the promise I cao make is, that if elected, I will serve them faithfully and impartially, to the best of my ability. Not having the power to look into the future, I cannot say what I shall do in every particular, but one thing I will say, I shall endeavor to act with and earry out the principles of the true Com D. STRADLEY. Hendersonville, N. C., July 14, 1844.

PELLOW-SOLDIERS AND CITIZENS OF GREENE COUNTY .- I am again solicited by my friends to become a candidate for a seat in the House of Commons of the next Legislature of North-Carolina. . In coming before you for re-election, I trust you need no proof that I have at heart only what I conceive interest of our common country. I am a Conservative of the "straitest sect." I am opposed to the military being sopreme to the civil laws. I am in favor of a speedy and honorable peace. If elected, I shall serve my constituents and State faithfully, as I have done heretofore.

Very truly your fellow-citizen,

H. H. BEST,

Snow Hill, Greene county, N. C. 86--td.

TO THE VOTERS OF MOORE AND MONT-■ GOMERY.—I adopt this method of informing you that I am no longer a candidate to represent this Senatorial District in the Legislature. My reasons for decining to be a candidate are, first, I find my health will not allow me to canvass the District, which might be necessary; and secondly, Montgomery claims the Senator; and thirdly, Mr. BRIGHT, the Conservative candidate, is a high toned gentleman, and a man of character, ability and inflitence. I would urge all true Conservatives to rally to his support. I feel sure of his election, and I believe he will make an energetic, useful, and able Senator. JOHN A. BARRETT.

[From the North-Carolina Presbyterian.] THE PRIVATE. LUOLA. Here's a song for the private, the gallant and true, Though others may plan, he's the one that must do: The world may the deeds of the leaders proclaim, Here's a wreath for his brow, a song for his fame.

Of the "wing he's outflanked"-" the fort overthrown; And the pman is sung to the leader alone. Is a fort to be stormed, a charge to be made, A mountain to climb, a river to wade, A rampart to scale, a breach to repair, Neath the blaze of artillery-the Private is there He might tell what he suffered in cold and in pain,

I learn from the telegraph, near by the train,

Of the glory some General by valor has gained,

How he lay all night long with the wounded and Or left with his blood his tracks on the snow, But never from him the story you'll know. He fights not for glory, for well does he know The road to promotion is weary and slow; His highest ambition's for freedom to fight,

To conquer the foe or die for the right! Should he fall, perchance to-day and to-morrow, If is messmate will sigh at evening in sorrow; But onward they march, far, far from the spot And the name of the Private is lost or forgot.

But oh! on his struggle the pale stars of even Look down from the glittering path-ways of Heaven; And angels descend to take his death sigh, And the name of the brave is emblazoned on high. Then here is a song for the good and the true, Though others may plan, it is he that must do, The world may the deeds of the leaders proclaim, Here's a wreath for the Private a song for his fame.

[From the Richmond Examiner.] It is not generally known that the Japanese have a Commissioner in this country or the especial purpose of reporting the progress of the war, and the improvements in military science. Through the extreme courtesy of his Highness Prince Daigaku-Nokami, the Commissioner, we are permitted to lay before our readers the following extracts (kindly translated for us) from a report recently forwarded by him to his Imperial Master. From it cur friends will learn in what high estimation our affairs are held by the Japanese officials: FROM THE GREAT CITY OF RICHMOND, THE CAPITAL OF THE POWERFUL REPUBLICK OR THE SACTORNY RARRARIANS. To the Tycoon, the High and Mighty Sovereign of the Empire of Japan, the Brother of the Sun Moon and the Stars, before whose glory alt earthly princes hide their faces:

SIRE: Your Commissioner having been sent to this great country of the Barbarians, charged by your Imperial Majesty with the duty of noting and reporting the events of the bloody war now being waged upon them by the powerful nation of Yankees, who dwell in the North, and live by thieving and deceit, humbles himself in the dust as he prepares to lay before your Imperial Majesty the result of his observations. Your Commissioner, a ter encountering many difficulties and dangers by both sea and land, at last reached the great City of Richmond, the capital of the Barbarians. I lost no time in presenting my credentials to the Barbarian Government. Speaking the language of the country but imperfectly, I was fearful that I would experience some difficulty in making known to the officials the mission with which I am charged. Fortunately, I was informed by an officer of great respectability that the Chief Mandarin who controls the intercourse of the Republick with other nations had in his employ an efficial who could speak Japanese, and that employed him some time since, in the hope that your Imperial Majesty would condescend to recognize the existence of his government, when the official's abilities would prove useful.

The next day was appointed for my reception by the Mandarin, whom the Barbarians call Benjamin. Accordingly I presented myself at the Palace of the Official, which is a large, high building of white stone, containing many rooms, and was at once ushered into his presence. The Mandarin, a hort, fat man with a profusion of good ernaments, received me with great delight. Had I permitted im to so, he would have gotten down on his knees and kissed my feet. The honor I respectfully but firmly declined-your Imperial Majesty slone being entitled to it. He pressed upon me from the beginning of the interview, his extreme admiration for the empire of Japan and its institutions, and extolled the advantages which would rise from a treaty between your Imperial Majesty and the Barbarian Ruler. He also urged me to endeavor to persuade your Imperial Majesty to recognize the existence of his government. He offered me every facility that we in the power of his government to bestow, and even went so far as to urge me to accept a position on the staff of the Barbarian general on duty at the capital. This is a mark of great distinction- a similar offer being made to every foreigner who arrives in the South. All do not accept it, or the Barbarian commander might soon have connected with his person a force sufficiently large to enable him to take the field. I orders from my Imperial Master to take no part in The Mandarin impressed me greatly with his ability and dignity. I found him quick, intelligent, and thoroughly versed in all the tricks of diplomacy. I at once saw from his countenance and bearing that he was not a countryman of the Barbarians, and this at once accounted for his superiority to them. I am informed that he is a member of a sacred race in all Barbarian countries-a race noted for energy, honesty, ability and patriotism. My interview with the Mandarin convinced me that the Barbarians are fortunate in possessing such a man. I would suggest to your Imperial Majesty the policy of allowing Jews a free entrance into Japan and license to dwell therein. It would be the part of wisdom to cause your present Prime Minister to disembowel himer hall, and formally ushered into the pr sence of the Great Ruler of the Barbarians. He would not allow me to salute him with any of the honors due to his august rank but made me sit down in his presence, and offered me a small roll of tobacco, which is called a cigar. This, though I understood it to be a great honor, I was forced to decline, as the interpreter told me it would make me sick .-I am at a loss to imagine why the Barbarian Tycoon should have wished to make me sick. I shall enquire into the matter. The natives of this country are passionately fond of smoking cigars. I have been told that the best cigars are in the possession of the Tycoon and his Chief Mandarin, They are smuggled into the country by men who make their living by disregarding the laws and who send these cigars as presents to the Tyeoon and his Mandarin, and who, by this means, are no longer violators of the laws, but promoters of the public good. Respectable persons have assured me that the country would scarcely defeat its enemies if these officials did not receive their cigars. It is an improvement in the science of government, for which the Barbari-ans deserve great credit.

My interview with the Tycoon was highly satisfactory, and before I left his presence I was convinced that of all Barbarians he is the greatest -He has succeeded in exploding the old, absurd no tions that the people are the source of power, and that rulers are but their servants, and has showed them the true system of government, which consists in disregarding their will and refusing to grat-ify their wishes. He is mild and gentle towards his enemies, but governs his people sternly and firmly. As a military leader he has no superiors. His early education, and his position as commander of a regiment in a recent war won him a reputation inferior to none. He has not been slow in manifesting his ability to control the military affairs of his country, and the remarkable skill and genius with which he directed the events that culminated at Vicksburg and Missionary Ridge, have placed him high in the affections of his country-backs," as the paper money of the enemy is called.

men. In point of economy he is a shining example to his people. He lives in the plainest and simplest style, and is careful to do all in his power to decrease the burdens of his country. Sometime ago a party of men, whose business it is to make laws, endeavored to force upon him a quantity of golden coins, but he indignantly and patriotically refused to accept it, and administered a withering rebuke to all persons who were unwilling to sacrifice their personal ease to the good of the country.

As a financier he stands unrivaled. The adoption of his views has caused money to be as plentiful in his country as leaves in the forest. His foresight is wonderful. At the beginning of his career he clearly foresaw the character of the present struggle, and at once took prompt energetic measures to prepare for it. In his estimate of men he is never mistaken. Mandarin Benjamin, the Mandarin of the Treasury, and the New Commanding General who remains on duty at the seat of Government, all attest the correctness of his judgment. In all things he is a model ruler, and happy are the people whom he governs. After my interview with the Tycoon I was conducted to the hall of the Mandarin of the Treasury, whom the Barbarians call Memminger. My object in visiting him was to gain from him information concerning the finances of the Barbarians. --Their financial system filled me with surprise and delight. When the war begun money was scarce, and consisted of gold, silver and copper coins .-When the government of the Tycoon went into power it was resolved to cast aside the plan of a few half-witted dreamers who demanded that cotton, which is the great staple of this country, should be made the basis of their currency. was resolved to print pieces of paper, which would cost the government less than would be required to buy cotton. These pieces of paper were to be declared money. Unlimited authority was given to the Mandarin of the Treasury to print them, and this official, prompted by a wise and patriotic benevolence, resolved to create such a vast amount of money that all his countrymen should grow rich. Not long since it became necessary to curtail the supply of paper money, and in order to produce the desired scarcity, the law makers set to work and devised a tedious and complicated system, which was greatly simplified by the Mandarin of the Treasury. Instead of adopting the slow method ordered by the law-makers, he at once removed the department charged with the preparation of the money to a distant city. This, for a time, suspended all work in that department, and subsequently the government having kindly allowed the enemy to interrupt the lines of communication over which the money must pass on its way to the capital, a scarcity was produced much sooner than was hoped by the law makers. I would so much pleased with it that I have determined to present to your Majesty a complete report upon the subject. I have been greatly assisted in my efforts to acquaint myself with the military system of the Barbarians by the illustrious warriour who is now at the head of the armies of the republick. Holding, as he does, the highest military position in a country that has produced so many great soldiers, I naterally supposed that he must be the greatest of them all. I was not mistaken. He, at an early day, gave evidence of the highest military genius. Unfortunately the positions in which he was placed did not allow him to exhibit this quality. The Tyready spoken, alone discovered the hidden gem; and, as soon as the great soldier had succeeded it turning over to his adversary a barren and worthless spot called Missionary Ridge, he was rewarded with the highest gift the Tycoon had it in his power to bestow. Here I not:ced a desided improvement upon the old ideas of generalship: To be a great tion to the people, and an equal degree of satisfaction to the enemy. The manner of conducting military operations excites my surprise and admiration. The troops are forced into the ranks of the army, and only the old men and the women and children are left at home. These are necessarily unprotected, and, in order to produce a good effect upon the troops, they are allowed to remain so. The government then leaves open a way by which mounted parties of the enemy are enabled to penetrate to the interiour. These parties burn houses, ravish women, murder old men and children, steal property of every description, and devastate the country. These things, though horrible in themselves, exercise a most beneficial effect upon the army and the country .-They produce an intenser hatred of the enemy on the part of the people, and cause the troops to fight more desperately in battle. They also make them more willing to remain in the field, for men without homes are content to stay where they are Should your Imperial Majesty desire, in times of war, to increase the efficiency of your troops, you have only to allow a band of your enemies to ravage and destroy their homes, murder their fathers and outrage their wives, mothers, sisters and laughters. The men who perform such deeds are called by the Barharians "Raiders," and are treated with the highest consideration. Occasionally some of them are taken prisoners. Instantly a few ignorant persons demand that the captives shall be put to death. At once the Tycoon takes the "Raiders" under his protection, treats them with the greatest kindness, and, as soon as possible, was compelled to decline the honor, having strict sends them back to their own country. The wisdom of this course is fully demonstrated by the sequel. The "Raiders," grateful for the kindness shown them, as soon as they regain their liberty, visit some other section of the country and burn, plunder, kill and ravish as before. Thus, your Imperial Majesty will see the efficiency of the troops is always preserved, and the people effectually prevented from thinking kindly of their enemies. A war spirit is constantly maintained. This course is a great improvement upon the old system, under

Nevertheless he has his reward. The people love him devotedly; for they feel that he has thrown around them the most ample protection, and will not hesitate to dare anything to promote their safety. * * The Mandarin who has charge of the shipping showed me many attentions. The Barbarians have invented a new species of war steamer, which is plated with iron, and is very formidable. These steamers cost immense sums of money and require many months in their construction. They are rarely used in actual conflict with the enemy .-

They are allowed to remain untouched for awhile, but are eventually blown up by their commanders The Mandarin assured me that by destroying them thus the Barbarians impress their enemies with a sense of their desperation, and that each such destruction is equal to a victory. It also precludes all possibility of any Barbarian commander being forced to endure the humiliation of surrendering his vessel to an enemy. Should your Imperial Majesty desire to receive instruction in this new system, the Mandarin informs me that he is willing to order to Japan any or all of the officers who have thus distinguished themselves, and I am confident the people of this country would be delighted if such an arrangement could be effected.

Deserters from the enemy are encouraged to come in, by being given employment in factories, arsenels and workshops belonging to the Government. The natives of the country find it difficult to pro cure work of any description from the Government, but any one who has been connected with the enemy, finds no difficulty in procuring such work as he may desire. This is a wise system and its advantages are every day seen. The Government is constantly reaping great benefits from it, in the satisfaction it affords the people and army.
