

GOOD ALL THROUGH.

Read Tomorrow's Star-It Will Be a Model Newspaper.

In every city there is one newspaper that speaks more to the people of the community than does any of its contemporaries, that devotes itself particularly to local interests and to subjects that affect the consistency which it represents. In Washington the Evening Star occupies this position. Its large and constantly growing circulation proves how closely it is identified with District interests; but it has also special facilities for covering the entire news field in the most complete and satisfactory manner. The Saturday Star, with its sixteen pages, affords an opportunity for the publication of special articles, upon a variety of subjects, which furnish attractive reading for Saturday and Sunday. It is the aim of the management to make each Saturday Star better than the issue of the week previous, so far as its features are concerned, and at the same time not to curtail in any respect its general and local news matter. That this purpose has been accomplished is evidenced by the steadily increased demand for the Star both in the District and in the villages and towns in the immediate vicinity. Washingtonians have long felt it impossible to do without the Star and the feeling has now communicated itself to all the neighboring towns. The Star is the paper of the people, and its great popularity is the result of honest endeavor to give the whole news in a fair and impartial manner. Here are some of the features for tomorrow's Star: TO EARTH'S CENTER (Illustrated). The famous Yellowstone Park and its countless and wonderful geysers. Staff correspondence of THE EVENING STAR.

FOOT BALL ON THE ISLAND.

The Columbia Athletic Club Team to Play the Haverford College Boys.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock the football team of the Columbia Athletic Club will meet that from Haverford College, Pa., on the grounds on Annapolis Island, in what should be the most exciting game of foot ball that has taken place here for months. The visitors are one of the best college teams in the keystone state, playing a very scientific game, and will undoubtedly make the Columbia boys move lively in order to retain their present record of successes. They are experts in all the fine points, tricks and moves of the sport, and play a team game said to be wonderfully effective. This is the first time in which the home team seems to be deficient, and in the game which was won Wednesday at Annapolis from the St. John's College eleven by the score of 20 to 0 it was quite apparent that the entire strength of the team was not developed at the proper time, as, for instance, when there was need for a heavy rush to win the game. The practice, however, to be obtained from tomorrow's game will undoubtedly be of great benefit to Columbia, and even though the local team should suffer defeat it will be benefited by the game. The following are the players: Raines, center; Lewis, right guard; Wade, left guard; Wells, right tackle; Harkon, left tackle; Harlan, left end; Hecker, right end; Dashiell, full back; Veazy, half back; Butterworth, eight half back; Emory, quarter back.

High Tide in the Potomac.

The heavy rains we have been having here lately and the strong east wind yesterday and the day before ran the tide in the Potomac last night away as high water mark and river men found that the wind changed a few miles out in the bay, and that the flood would result. The water mark, however, was not reached until the morning and the danger had passed. At Alexandria last evening the tide was two feet over the wharves. In consequence of this the Alexandria ferry boat did not make its last scheduled trip. The Norfolk steamer Excelsior, after proceeding as far as Cornfield Harbor, was forced to return, owing to the severity of the storm. The northwest wind today is keeping the tide down.

Five Dollars for His Fun.

Judge Miller told Joe Davis today that if he had been wrong instead of playing marbles he would not have gotten in trouble. Joe is an eighteen-year-old colored boy, and while he was playing marbles a little colored girl, daughter of One-legged Jim, the bootblack, threw some water in the ring. Joe struck her. The girl's mother went after him for it and she gave her to understand that he would repeat the dose on her if she said much. Joe paid $5 for his fun.

A collision took place yesterday between two freight trains on the Union Pacific, between two freight trains from Portland, Ore. Engineer Jack O'Brien was instantly killed and Fireman W. H. Brown was slightly injured and crushed. Both engines and their box cars were badly wrecked.

The passenger train on the Utah and Northern road collided with a switch engine about thirteen miles south of Ogden, Utah, yesterday. John D. Mitchell, fireman of the passenger engine, was killed instantly. The train was crowded with passengers, but none received serious injuries.

The business portion of the town of Lovensville, Pa., was destroyed by fire Wednesday night. Eighteen houses, including six stores and the Hawn Hotel, were burned. Loss, $75,000. Insurance, $5,000.

SOCIAL MATTERS.

Some New Wedding Presents—Personal Notes of Interest.

The wedding season of this year is remarkable for the profusion, excellence and adaptability of the gifts that are presented to the bride. It is quite customary for several male friends to club together and buy a full set of table silver—the "possession" silver—forks and spoons are so very desirable—and this makes the united offering of importance in the eyes of the bride. The more the more beauty of the isolated article presented is thus being put into wedding presents at this time. A lady purchased for a bride this week a lovely and elegant set of silver. The bride's article in preference to some bit of bric-a-brac because she knew that the bride was going to keep her home in the city. The bride's set with square rooms in the five-dollar gold piece. The early autumn cold and rain have made Washington people practical minded in the best of wedding gifts.

Mrs. Wintona and Miss Nellie Windham have returned to the city from Williamsport, Mass., where they spent a most delightful summer in quiet retirement. Mrs. Windham is looking very well and is feeling all the buoyancy which a long holiday and a change of air and her childhood and young girlhood should cause. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Thompson have returned to the city from a sojourn they made in the Shenandoah valley during the summer and early autumn. They are pleasantly located for the season at the corner of Connecticut and De Sales street, in the house that they call "The Homestead." Miss Thompson is in New York city visiting her mother and Mrs. Thompson is in morning last season and went out very seldom into society. They expect to mingle with the society of friends in the winter. Mrs. Thompson will keep Saturday afternoons at home during the winter.

Lieut. and Mrs. R. M. G. Brown have left the house on K street and have taken possession of their new home at 1765 P street. Mr. and Mrs. Leahm Hornally have returned to the city and are located at No. 1765 P street for the present, as the house they are building on Rhode Island avenue is not near completion. They expect to move to New York.

Mrs. S. P. Lee arrived here from Maryland yesterday with the body of her husband, Col. Lee. Yesterday, Mrs. Lee with her friend, Mrs. Fassett, at No. 1203 New Hampshire avenue. The funeral services were held at the residence of Mrs. Lee, 1203 New Hampshire avenue, yesterday.

Hon. E. P. Howell, editor Alliance Constitution, wife and daughter, Miss Rosa, with Mrs. Lyons of Atlanta and Mrs. Annie E. Martin of New York. Mr. Howell is visiting his relative, Mr. Judge Miller, at Johnson Park. They left this morning for Georgia.

Dr. P. S. Roy of this city and Miss Alice H. Fitch of Frederickburg, Va., were married at St. George's Episcopal Church, Frederickburg, yesterday. The bride is the daughter of Senator Wm. A. Little and Mr. B. Minor of this city. Rev. J. K. Mason performed the ceremony.

Miss Mary Sherman is the guest of Miss Laura Smith, Mount Auburn, Cincinnati. Mr. and Mrs. Clark Maxwell of Winchester, Va., are at the Lidge and will remain for the winter.

Miss Lathrop of New York, who has been with her sister, Mrs. William Howard Mills, for two weeks, returned home today. The next correspondent of the Home Journal says: Mr. and Mrs. William Endicott are at present the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Parsons. As they were married in Lenox last autumn, they are celebrating the anniversary of their wedding here.

Mr. T. F. S. King of Georgetown and his daughter have returned from a visit to Asheville, N. C. Miss Jennie Wells left for New York this morning to take a two years' course of study.

Mrs. H. H. Lee of Indianapolis is visiting friends at 1333 Vermont avenue. Hon. J. A. McMillan is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McGarrick, 1700 F street. Mrs. E. A. McGarrick, Mrs. J. E. Hogan, J. E. Hogan, M. J. Sullivan and Andrew McGarrick. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Waters left for the north.

Miss Lizzie Graham of Philadelphia and Miss Ethel DeLoach of New York are visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McGarrick, 1700 F street. Miss Jeffrey leaves here on the 27th for Denver, but Miss Graham will remain in Washington until the entire extent of the winter. The Misses Walker, of 2223 K street.

Mrs. J. M. McElhiney has closed her cottage at the seaside and is now with her interesting family at 1112 New Hampshire avenue for the winter. The marriage of Mr. D. J. Waters and Miss Mollie C. Connor was celebrated at St. Aloysius Church yesterday evening at 5:30 o'clock. The bride wore a handsome traveling costume. The bridesmaids were Miss W. F. Hogan, J. E. Hogan, M. J. Sullivan and Andrew McGarrick. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Waters left for the north.

Miss Annie McElhiney, who has been in Denver for the past six months for the benefit of her health, is improving rapidly and has decided to spend the winter there.

AN "ELECTRIC ROCK." The Curious Discovery Made in Central New York. L. A. Dixon of Solus, N.Y., has just discovered a wonderful ore called "electric rock." It is a kind of quartz, and is so called because it astonishes all who see it, and electric electricity in particular. The rock is of a dark slate color, and is somewhat lighter in weight than sandstone. It is composed of iron, aluminum, calcium and other minerals, and particles of gold are also found sometimes.

Mr. Dixon says it will generate unlimited power and give any desired amount of incandescent light. For illuminating business places and for domestic use it is infinitely cheaper than kerosene—in fact, after a building had been wired and the batteries prepared the cost would be merely nominal and the light would be equal if not superior to that produced by the ordinary gas or oil.

The making of a battery is very simple. The rock, in quantity and for whatever purpose desired, is placed in jars containing a solution of sulphuric acid. The jars are sealed and water. The circuit is then completed and the battery is ready for active business, and the inventor claims that one charge of 400 pounds will last for a year. The rock is so abundant that at least one year before leaving its force and that it is perfectly harmless, making insulation entirely unnecessary.

A nine-pound piece of the rock has been ringing a bell since last November. A piece weighing half a pound was placed in a pint tumbler and the wire attached to a call bell, which it caused to ring as long as an alarm clock. The test was made in the presence of several gentlemen who pronounced it a wonderful discovery.

Big Stake for Trotters. C. J. Emery of Cleveland, Ohio, in connection with Thomas and Frank Kestelmeier, has inaugurated the largest stake ever offered for trotting horses. It will be a guaranteed stake of $50,000, probably for three-year-olds, foals of 1880, although the time limitation has not been definitely decided upon. The total payouts for each horse will be placed in a hidden fund, which will be less than three-fourths of 1 per cent. The place and date of trotting the race will not be definitely decided upon for some time. A number of entries have been received, and the intention of entering from five to ten horses each as soon as all settlements are made. The stake will be held in the American Trotting Horse breeders' association.

The Canadian government has not invited the Argentine and other South and Central American republics to visit Ottawa to consult with the government regarding the proposed trade. Gov. Gwynne of the Province of Ontario is a candidate for United States Senator at the next session of the legislature. The business portion of the town of Lovensville, Pa., was destroyed by fire Wednesday night. Eighteen houses, including six stores and the Hawn Hotel, were burned. Loss, $75,000. Insurance, $5,000.

SHOOTING STARS.

WASHINGTON, THIS MORNING. There is no city such as this. We have a special rule; And you'll not find it in Washington, A single street car name.

THE WRITERS AND TYPE WRITERS. Patricia Mamma—Anxiously: "I hope, my son, you are not going to marry your type writer?" Son—practically: "No, mother, I am not. It is one of those jangled steel and iron concerns that I don't do, where any man could well enough to marry."

A love letter is nearly always loaded.—WASHINGTON STAR. And makes a loud report, When he is in court, And you'll not find it in Washington, A single street car name.

A trade mark—Price 80 cents. The McKinley Bill is a bigger thing than the Bill McKinley. The gentleman who pulled a pistol during the row at the Republican conference in Alexandria yesterday over a box of cigars, evidently thought that the row was so much smoke there ought to be a little fire.

"A life on the ocean wave" was not worth insuring in yesterday's storm. In order to draw the minds of the people from the chaotic condition of Buckeye politics, the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette publishes the following and pauses for a reply. Here, too, add any six of these figures together and make 21:

Mr. Jagg, candidate for legislature in Iowa, and Mr. Frost, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor of Wisconsin, are both prohibitionists. This is no joking matter.

IN A CHICAGO HOTEL. Guest: "Bring me a porthouse steak." Waiter: "Can't do it, boss. It's a Palmer House steak or nothin' in dis yer hotel."

CONSUMPTION CURED. "Did you know," continued the agent for the vermin exterminator in his appeal to the dairymen, "that the bacillus of tuberculosis in large numbers was in every can of milk you send out in your wagons every morning?"

"No! You don't mean it!" earnestly inquired the dairymen. "True as gospel," solemnly asserted the agent. The dairymen got up and went to the back door.

"Mary," he called to a buxom girl at the crock, "Marty, put another water in that milk to draw even one of those darned bacilli. I guess I don't want none of your pizen," he said, as he came back, "but you can stay to supper if you want to."

HONOR TO VON MOLTKE. All Germany Will Celebrate His Ninetieth Birthday Tomorrow. The emperor's birthday present to Count von Moltke is a marsh's basin of silver, embellished with imperial eagles set with diamonds. The count arrived in Berlin yesterday. He was met at the railway station by an enormous crowd of people, who cheered him the entire distance from the station to his quarters.

Two thousand persons were present at an entertainment given by the Student's Association in honor of their country's greatest military and artistic notables. A letter was read from Von Moltke thanking the students for their compliment, and the students in reply sent their congratulations.

All Germany is alive with preparation to do honor to the birthday of the military hero, the venerable field marshal is the only military man of the day whom the emperor really reveres, and his birthday is the most important day in the life of the nation. There has been for many years a friendly approaching affection between young Williams and the veterans general, the good will of which is being cordially reciprocated by his eminent subject.

In the army, all agree in their admiration of Von Moltke and the testimony to his abilities is the fact that he is the only military man of the day whom the emperor really reveres, and his birthday is the most important day in the life of the nation. There has been for many years a friendly approaching affection between young Williams and the veterans general, the good will of which is being cordially reciprocated by his eminent subject.

BREAKS DOWN AT TIMES. Birchall's Fortitude Subject to Occasional Lapses. Birchall, the Woodstock murderer, is still in the best of spirits. He talks with his guards as freely and apparently with as light a heart as he did before the trial. At intervals he paces up and down his cell for exercise, varying the pastime by smoking a cigar and looking out of the cell window. At times, however, when alone, he utters a low groan and his hand quivers through his frame, although he never so gives way to his emotion as to shed a tear. These fits of despondency do not last long, and he soon drives away his sorrow with the weed or in conversation with his guards.

The Rev. Dean Wade is a constant attendant upon the prisoner. To him, it is said, Birchall still writes a great deal of his letters. Birchall spends three or four days writing his autobiography. The work will be of respectable proportions, and he is intended to write about 4,000 words. In the preface he says that the book is not written for the purpose of securing fame, but that he might make some provision for his family. It will contain a complete story of his life, which has been varied and exciting. He has plenty of reading matter to while away the hours. He gets ten or twelve papers regularly and is well posted on current events. He is also constant in receipt of letters, tracts and religious books, but finds very little time to read them. Of one book in particular, the life of a convict, who died in Kingston penitentiary, he has received no less than seventeen copies. His wife calls on him as often as the regulations allow. He no longer receives his meals from the hotel, but he does not live on prison fare by any means. His wants in this respect are attended to by a special class of convicts, the purpose of which is to supply the necessities of the prisoners. He wears his own clothes and is always clean shaven.

The traffic committee composed of representatives from the Adams, Wells, Fargo & Co., American National, Northern Pacific, and Southern and United States express companies is holding a meeting in Chicago to complete the schedule for the advance in eastern rates. Gov. Hill addressed a large crowd at Millersburg, Ohio, yesterday.

In the Ohio senate yesterday afternoon eleven members filed a protest against the action of that body in rejecting the bill for the reorganization of the judiciary. The bill was passed by a vote of 10 to 11. The protest was signed by Messrs. McKinley, Sherman, and others.
