A SAILOR'S SUICIDE

Howard J. Chute Puts a Bullet in His Head. Shortly before 7 o'clock this morning a woman ran out of a house at the corner of 7th and D streets southeast screaming for help.

F. T. Hapwood was passing at the time and he ran to the woman's assistance. She told him a man had shot himself and begged him to come into the house and see the man.

Awake in the third story heavy breathing was heard. Looking to the door, they found a young man stretched out on the floor, his head resting in a pool of blood, while his right hand clasped a still warm 32-caliber revolver. The man's name was Howard J. Chute, a U. S. A. man in the gunners' class.

In the adjoining room carefully placed on the bed a cap was a note which stated that his brother had shot himself in the head, directly in front of the Summit House, which commands a picturesque view of the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers.

He also made a request to be buried from the ship. The man still breathed a messenger was hurriedly sent to the navy yard for a doctor.

Surgeon Edward H. Green of the training depot hurried to the spot and found that the bullet had entered the head about an inch and a half above the temple and had lodged in the brain. He was taken at once to the Naval Hospital, where he died about 10 o'clock.

The house where the suicide was committed is a lodging house for the better class of sailors. Last night the deceased came home quite late in a state of intoxication, and after a long and sincere friendship. The joyous friends of the deceased, appear to be of good social position, and many of them have expressed an intention to leave the army after the boys during the present encampment.

A CAMP OF INSTRUCTION. The encampment will not be all fun, as Capt. Williams intends to make it one of instruction as well. Reveille will sound at 6:30 in the morning, and will be followed by a drill in the rifle and bayonet, which the boys will be wide awake and have good appetites for breakfast, which is the next thing in order.

Sometimes for Political Purposes and at Others for Schools. Robert E. Gilchrist, colored, who gave his occupation as a preacher and whitewasher, was charged before Judge Harper this morning with a charge of political conduct.

It was testified by Officer O'Neal of the Capitol police force that Gilchrist had been in the habit of begging money from Senators and Representatives, and giving them such amount of money that he had complained of his conduct to the police.

Wm. C. Cox testified that he knew Gilchrist, and that he had been directed to eject him from the Capitol and to keep him there until he had been removed from the city.

It has been decided to name the encampment Camp Miller, in honor of ex-Lieut. L. F. Miller, who was with the rifles until recently, and who, while he was compelled to leave the company on account of change of residence, is now residing in Washington, D. C.

The company is in excellent condition at the present time, and is being drilled in the new dress uniform and on this account the boys are taking even greater interest, if such is possible, it is highly probable that the company will be in the neighborhood of Harper's Ferry being regarded and well suited for the maneuvers of the 23rd.

It is a very practical and business-like appearance to the members of the company, and will be called Camp Miller.

THE ORDWAY RIFLES

Gen. Ordway having, as is well known, failed to obtain the necessary appropriation from Congress for a brigade encampment, it has become necessary for those organizations desiring an encampment for this season to foot the total expense thereof themselves.

Among the several companies of the brigade that have decided to take this step is company D of the fourth battalion, popularly known as the Ordway Rifles. In charge of this company is Capt. J. M. Williams this company will assemble at the Market armory, on Monday, August 8, in heavy marching order, preparatory to their march on Monday, August 15.

The camp will be pitched on the same site as last year, in the Camp Hill, directly in front of the Summit House, which commands a picturesque view of the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers.

MEMORIES OF LAST YEAR. Those members of the company who were in camp last August at Harper's Ferry were spoken to highly of the manner in which they were treated by the proprietor (Mr. Lightner) and guests of the Summit House, that the newer members of the company are full of enthusiasm and everybody's anticipating good time.

It was a remarkable fact that the company had not been in camp for two years before, and that many of the boys had never seen the place to which they were to go. The boys were taken to the hotel, and it is pleasant to relate that many of the officers of the company had been in the place to which they were to go.

Commander W. W. Reisinger of the Dale stated to a reporter this morning that the detachment was a very steady young man, of excellent character, and that he had been in the States service three years and a half. Recently, at his own request, he had been transferred to the 23rd Infantry, and he had been in the place to which they were to go.

A CAMP OF INSTRUCTION. The encampment will not be all fun, as Capt. Williams intends to make it one of instruction as well. Reveille will sound at 6:30 in the morning, and will be followed by a drill in the rifle and bayonet, which the boys will be wide awake and have good appetites for breakfast, which is the next thing in order.
