

VIGOROUS IN OLD AGE.

Mary E. Brown of Concord in Her 83d Year.

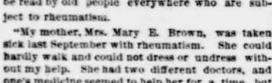

The Mother of Ten Children, Five of Whom are Living.

The Good Old Lady Has Quite Recovered—Paine's Colery Compound Did It.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 10.—Very few women in their eight-third year are as hale and vigorous as Mrs. Mary E. Brown, one of Concord's oldest and most beloved inhabitants. She is now living a happy old age at her home on Grove street, in full possession of her mental faculties, bright and cheery as can be.

Mrs. Brown's maiden name was McCauley. She was born in Fryeburg, Me., in 1811, of a good New England family. Her husband, who was engaged in the shoe and leather business in this city, died in 1838. She is the mother of ten children, five of whom are now living, one of whom is Mrs. H. W. Ferrin of Concord.

Mrs. Brown, although so well now, suffered some time ago, as old people often do, from rheumatism, but she was cured by Paine's Colery Compound, the discoverer of which is held in grateful memory by scores of people here.

MRS. MARY E. BROWN.

The following letter from Mrs. Ferrin appeared last week in the "People and Patriot," and should be read by old people everywhere who are subject to rheumatism.

"My mother, Mrs. Mary E. Brown, was taken sick last September with rheumatism. She could hardly walk and could not dress or undress without my help. She had two different doctors, and one's medicine seemed to help her for a time, but it was not to last. She then took some sarsaparilla, but without benefit. Mr. Sabin of St. Albans, who is visiting my mother, advised her to take Paine's Colery Compound and recommended it very highly. Mother took it and was cured several bottles. She is now in her 83d year, and is as hale and vigorous as ever. I think it superior to anything that she has ever taken and shall get more of it."

Mrs. Brown's case and others like it are well known here, and there is a great demand for Paine's Colery Compound in Concord.

RESTORED TO HEALTH AFTER A SEVEN-YEAR SIEGE.

"Seven years ago I had realized I was a victim of catarrh," said Mrs. J. H. Howland. "I had all the disagreeable symptoms of the condition. Sometimes my bowels were so constipated that I was not expected to live more than a month longer and my friends advised me to give up all hope."

"I went to Dr. Ferrin, in three weeks I noticed a wonderful improvement in my health and today I am better than I have been in seven years. I am satisfied that I would not be living today if I had not gone to him when I did."

IT IS THE SAME AS HUNDREDS OF OTHERS.

Children suffer from Catarrh the same as grown people, yet but few parents give it any attention, as did the parents of Earl Sprague of 176 Laurel st., Indianapolis.

"My father, in speaking of his case, said: 'More than thirty years ago I was afflicted with a complaint which I now complain with. It was a complaint of the bowels, and it was very much distressing. My appetite was much impaired, and I did not care to play like other children. He took cod liver oil, but it did not do me any good, and I was very low when I recovered.'"

THE POOR NEED HELP.

Many Cases of Destitution and Sickness Throughout the City.

The destitution and sickness throughout the city is a matter of which the police are unable to relieve even half of those who are really suffering for want of the necessities of life. This morning the police lieutenants reported to Major Moore the fact of the large number of persons in distress. In the fourth and fifth precincts the number in want of relief is unusually large, while in the second precinct the number is also large.

The first two precincts mentioned comprise the northern and southwestern sections of the city, with the exception of the water front and river work for their living, and the fact that the river has been closed against the winter season has added to the large number of cases. In the second precinct there are a number of persons who are really suffering for want of the necessities of life, as well as others who occupy the tenement houses, as well as others who are on the outside of the city.

JEALOUSY AND BLOODSHED.

How the Social Positions of Master and Slave Were Reversed by Time.

From the Houston (Tex.) Post: "Hold her head!" "Yes, sir!" The person uttering the above command was Mr. P. Tolomey, a handsome young man of dark complexion and of decidedly aristocratic appearance, who has attracted some attention during the last week by the splendor of the rig he drives around the blue-blood quarter.

He is a young man who had sprung from a hind to attend his master and who had meekly done his bidding, was Henry Wilton. This is the first visit of Cape Rhode Island, but their great grandfathers lived here more than a century ago, and then Wilton was the name of the master and Tolomey that of the slave.

The reversal of their respective social conditions reads like a romance. Anthony Wilton lived here before the revolution was of great descent, but did not succeed in life until he took to being in rum and slaves—a business which laid the foundation of the colossal fortunes possessed by many of the landed gentry of the city.

TRIALS OF A BORROWER.

Improvidence Resulted at a Loan Office Where Cash is "Lent the Same Day."

From the N. Y. Herald: "A gentleman suffering from financial disability took a loan office to negotiate a borrow upon his furniture. In the advertisement it stated that the money would be lent the same day by a Choctaw lady, without removal and upon the note of hand of the borrower. All this looked pretty fine in print.

"I've got $10,000 worth of personal property," said the would-be-borrower, "and I have to meet a wash bill of $3.50 coming due tomorrow noon. Can I get it out here so as to be in a position to meet the collector without a blush?"

The manager of the loan office was strangely silent. The would-be-borrower became nervous and thought he hadn't said the speech right for the money. He said: "I am a person of poor but honest parentage, temporarily embarrassed. I need the sum of $3.50 to meet an unjust liability. Then the borrower walked into the outside room and said to the office boy:

"What's the matter with the manager? Can't he talk?" "I guess it's because you haven't paid the entrance fee. No person is a member of this society before he has paid the entrance fee. The borrower apologized and deposited the money. Next he repaired to a barber and had his hair cut.
