"I use it for shaving purposes," he said to Judge Miller. "There's no doubt about that," added the judge, "but the razor here is a razor here for any purpose. I'll take your personal bonds, but the razor will be confiscated."

"Judge, for God's sake, let me have the razor," said Michael. "I've carried it for seven years and it never got me in trouble before," said the judge, "unless you can show that you are going to leave the city."

AFFAIRS IN GEORGETOWN.

Mr. Kongia's Death Came From a Clot on the Brain. Canal News From Both Ends of the Waterway—A Pleasant Program—Other News.

Yesterday an examination of the remains of Mr. Geo. Kongia, who died in the early morning, was made, and a great clot of blood was found upon the brain. This indicates, Doctors Peter and Ritchie say, death resulted through a hemorrhage of the brain. The strange actions of the deceased on the afternoon of the day preceding the end were, no doubt, brought about by the condition in which the brain was at that time. It was about 4 o'clock when his family discovered him unconscious, and physicians were at once summoned to exercise their skill in bringing him back to consciousness. Their efforts were only temporarily successful. He was aroused, but quickly relapsed into the lethargic condition, and about ten hours later died.

How Ashes Are Collected in a Neighboring City. The mayor of Philadelphia sent to the Commissioners today through the department of public works the following letter relative to the collection of ashes by the municipality:

"The collection of ashes is under municipal control. The regulations require that they shall be placed on the sidewalk near the curb, in suitable vessels not exceeding one hundred pounds in weight, and not exceeding three per week. The contractors are required to remove them once each week in tight carts or wagons covered on top with canvas covers. The specifications for next year will require their removal before 12 o'clock noon. We have no means of ascertaining the cost, as their removal and the cleaning of the streets are under one contract.
