CARDINAL GIBBONS ABROAD

A Significant Interview With Him Published in Paris.

He Describes the Interest of the Pope in the American Church—His Relations With Mgr. Satolli.

The correspondent at Rome of the Baltimore Sun sends an interesting letter under date of August 8, which was published yesterday. The portion relating to Cardinal Gibbons will be of interest to a large number of readers in Washington. His visit to France, says the writer, in speaking of the cardinal, has given the French press an occasion of considering his great position in the ecclesiastical world, and of appreciating his importance in the United States. The Osservatore Romano of Rome, which has displayed an interest in the cardinal quite justifying its name, again returns to him, and in order to deny more the attacks of the so-called "liberal" press on him, quotes a lengthy interview which the cardinal had with a writer in the Paris Gazette. One of the editorial staff of that newspaper, profiting by the presence of Cardinal Gibbons in Paris, sought an interview with him, and among other things, questioned him regarding the impressions he received in Rome upon his presumed contrariness to the apostolic delegate.

The cardinal replied with remarkable definition of language and preciseness. He could not say that he had any special impression of Rome, which, indeed, he has always been the same, and would not have been surprised if he had conversed at length with the pope, said the cardinal, "who received me with his ordinary kindness. I found him full of health and vigor, and more cheerful than I might say younger, than ever, if youth were a synonym of activity, vigor and endurance. I cannot, for it would be a culpable impropriety, say that there is the smallest degree, speak of the various conversations I have had with the holy father, and that the journals have recounted is incorrect.

The Pope's Interest in America. "But it is permitted to me to tell you that I have treated with the pope on the questions which more particularly interest America, and that Leo XIII follows up the religious movement in the United States with an almost prophetic comprehension and with a notable benevolence.

"The hopes which the pope founds upon the American church will, I am firmly convinced, be realized for the greater benefit of Catholicity even in other countries. They are already realized in part. Not only do the number of conversions among Protestants in the United States increase multiplied and Christian education in every grade spreads with a rapidity which gives cause for great hope in the future.

You know how our honest shoes are made, and prices—know what WE say is true. We'll meet all advertised prices and give better shoes than any of the up-town stores can offer.

NEW POLICE REGULATIONS

Important Changes as to Overhead Wires and Cutting the Trees.

An entirely new set of police regulations will shortly be issued by the Commissioners.

For a long time they have been hard at work revising the old regulations. They were found contradictory in many instances, and failed to cover very material points in numerous instances. So it was decided to reissue the regulations, and incorporate in the new set everything of importance to the citizens and the welfare of the city.

Letters have been sent to the heads of the department inviting the chief engineers of the street-cleaning, water, and fire departments to give their views on the regulation which he thinks necessary.
