INDIGNANT CITIZENS IN MUSICAL CIRCLES

Residents of Eckington and Vicinity Left in Darkness. Vigorous Resolutions Adopted at a Meeting Last Evening. Motive Power on the Eckington R. R.

The North Capitol and Eckington Citizens' Association held its regular monthly meeting last night at Heffer's Hall, No. 1628 Lincoln avenue. The street lighting question was the principal topic of the evening. Eckington and West Eckington have been without any street lights for about two months, and it was stated that the consequence women residing in these sections have been compelled to remain in doors, fearing to venture out after night-fall, even to visit their near neighbors. Much warmth of feeling was displayed during the discussion, and so much of the proceedings as related to the light question partook more of the nature of an indignation meeting than of the ordinary business meeting of a citizens' association.

After a full and free interchange of views on the subject by Messrs. Letzell, Serven, Brown and other members, Mr. Letzell, chairman of the committee on street lighting and sidewalks, submitted resolutions, which were unanimously adopted, and a copy of the same was ordered to be transmitted to the District Commissioners, with as strong a letter as the secretary could write.

The resolutions recited that the territory known as Eckington and West Eckington has been without public street lights for nearly two months, and, as the proposition was ordered by the Board of Public Works to the support of the city government, and to maintaining public lights throughout the city, many times over the amount fairly required for the same, the share of the expense of maintaining the government under which they live, it was resolved that the citizens of Eckington should then and there demand of the government that they be made to pay in an act of justice, against which they, as taxpayers, should be held to the full extent of their property. The Commissioners are requested and urged without delay to put into operation in the two sections named some system of street lighting.

Mr. A. R. Serven, chairman of the committee on railways, reported that the committee had in conference with the superintendent of the Herdip Company, with a view to having a line of herdip run west, but that it was not probable that the arrangement could be made in that direction before next fall, the spring and summer months of this year having been made up before the committee saw the superintendent.

About Forfeiture of Charter. Mr. Serven further stated that an interview had been had with District Attorney Birney in regard to the status of the proceedings which were understood to have been commenced against the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railway Company for forfeiture of charter for that section of its line on North Capitol street south of New York avenue, over which a car has never been run. He said that Mr. Birney stated that the company had not complied with his attention having simply in the meantime the matter incidentally by the Department of Justice, in a letter transmitting a communication from Attorney General Serven to the Belt Line, but no directions have been given him to institute proceedings, and the facts in the case are in his possession.

He stated, further, that if the North Capitol and Eckington Citizens' Association would place the facts before him, he would investigate the matter, and if the facts proved to be as stated would take such prompt action as seemed to be warranted. The committee assured Mr. Serven that this would be done without unnecessary delay.

A Modern Motive Power. In regard to the bill before Congress to require the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railway to adopt a modern motive power, Mr. Serven stated: "It appears that the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railway Company have been made to the District committees of the House and Senate by the agents of the company that it is the company's intention to equip their lines with compressed air motors within the next sixty days. That such representations were made with a view not only to prevent action on the pending bill, but to secure certain extensions of the tracks of the company asked for in 75 petitions, and signed 1,886 names, have already been presented to the House, and 176 containing similar petitions presented to the Senate, remonstrating against such extensions, and urging the passage of the bill requiring the road to put in a permanent modern style, too."

As an endorsement of the position assumed in these petitions the railway committee adopted the resolutions, which were unanimously adopted and ordered to be transmitted to the District committees in Congress.

The resolutions earnestly urge the committees on the District of Columbia of the Senate and House of Representatives to favorably report to their respective houses and secure at the earliest possible date the passage of the bill known as Senate bill No. 1886 and House bill No. 5220, requiring the Eckington and Soldiers' Home Railway Company to adopt an approved modern motive power on all its lines.

That action upon said bill should not be delayed because of representations made by the management of said company of their purpose to equip the line in the near future with compressed air motors, as such proposed equipment with anything to be tried by the owners of the system, to demonstrate, if possible, to the Eckington Citizens' Association, that such equipment, the practicability of air motors for street car propulsion."

It was further stated in the resolutions that the passage of the bill referred to will in no wise prevent or interfere with such proposed experiment, ample time being afforded by the bill for such an experiment to be tried by the owners of the system, to demonstrate, if possible, to the Eckington Citizens' Association, that such equipment, the practicability of air motors for street car propulsion."

As an endorsement of the position assumed in these petitions the railway committee adopted the resolutions, which were unanimously adopted and ordered to be transmitted to the District committees in Congress.

News comes of the continued success of Mr. Homer Lind of this city, who is broad with the Carl Rosa Opera Company. The Liverpool Courier, speaking of a performance in that city, says: "But the most commendation was undoubtedly earned by Mr. Homer Lind, who now gave indubitable evidence of much ability and versatility. His voice is of pleasant quality and his intonation singularly distinct. He imparted quaint humor to his work, and the success achieved was largely due to him. The familiar song, 'I'm a Roamer,' was exceedingly well rendered." The Northern Gossip, Tyneside, in speaking of a performance of "Hansel and Gretel" says: "It was the universal opinion that Mr. Homer Lind was not only one of the most promising positions among the great artists of the future."
