Interest in Mazet Investigation Lessens With Croker's Departure. SENATOR PLATT WILL TESTIFY

Croker's Son Has a Monopoly on Sewer Contracts. OTHER GOTHAM GOSSIP

Special Correspondence of The Evening Star. NEW YORK, April 24, 1899. Two-thirds of the interest in the Mazet committee's investigation departed with today's developments...

Of course there will be all sorts of excitement over the investigation of the "small fry," but Croker was the drawing card, and the show must languish with Croker absent...

Mr. Platt will testify if subpoenaed; his son, Frank, especially, is anxious to go on the stand. They expected from the first to be called, and while the young man is said to be a bit impatient now...

There are hundreds of sewer pipes to be laid in the Greater New York, and it has been asserted that the only pipe that will do the job is the one in which young Frank Croker...

There is a famine of paper money threatened in New York, due to prosperity. Government officials see it coming...
