CURRENCY REFORM DEBATED

Discussion in the House Yesterday Afternoon and Last Night.

Representative Overstreet Predicts a Majority for the Bill of About Thirty-Six—Democratic Stand.

The debate on the currency bill continued in the House yesterday afternoon and last night.

Mr. McCleary (Minn.) remarked upon the change which had come over the democrats. In past Congresses they had always seemed eager and anxious to offer a free silver proposition as a substitute for anything that happened to be pending. During the debate now a democrat had come forward with a free silver substitute.

Mr. McCleary made himself the target of a fusillade of questions from the democrats by the assertion of the proposition that during the whole century not a single silver dollar had been coined on private account. During a message to the Senate Mr. Sulzer (N. Y.), Mr. McCleary said that neither Mr. Sulzer's father nor grandfather had ever seen a silver dollar except as a curiosity.

"And if you and your party associates keep on," retorted Mr. Sulzer, "neither will my grandchildren." (Laughter.) "That depends upon the grandfathers," observed Mr. McCleary, and renewed laughter.

Mr. Boutelle (Ill.) in his remarks devoted considerable time to showing that both Jefferson and Jackson were directly opposed to the present democratic theories of finance.

Mr. Gilbert (Ky.) in opposing the bill read a letter from the controller of the currency in answer to an inquiry as to whether the bill would be $2,700,000. The total tax collected from national banks last year was $2,744,000.

Mr. Berry (Ky.) said if the republicans had declared for the pending bill when they got together to fool the people at St. Louis here would not be enough republicans in the House today to get a roll call. He predicted that the bill would yet unhorse the republican party.

Mr. Taylor Leaves His Associates. After some further remarks by Mr. Lewis (Ga.), Smith (Ky.) and Jett (Ill.) against the bill and Mr. Graft (Ill.) for it, Mr. Thayer (Mass.) concluded the debate for the afternoon with a ten-minute speech in favor of the bill. He said he regretted to differ from his colleagues, but his conscience compelled him to dissent.

He spoke of the Chicago platform of 1896 as a great mistake made by a portion of the democratic party created by the bill defended by Jackson and protected by the immortal Russell of Massachusetts, at the sacrifice of the financial stability of the country. He said that if the question of silver at 16 to 1 could be left to the democratic voters unaccompanied by illustrious names they would reject it by an overwhelming majority. The time had come, he said, when the financial interests should be relieved from continued agitation of the financial question, which had been hanging over the country for the past eight years like a funeral pall. Mr. Thayer declared that the republican party had not had the courage to bring in this bill if the little band of heroic democrats in 1896, in the spirit of self-sacrifice had not declared for the gold standard. Mr. Thayer was liberally applauded by the republicans.

At 5 o'clock the House took a recess until 8 o'clock.

The Night Session. At the night session the following members made speeches: Messrs. H. C. Smith (Ill.) and Gibson (Tenn.), in favor of the bill, and Messrs. Sheppard (Texas), Shackelford (Mo.), W. E. Wilson (Ill.), Burnett (Ala.), Allen (Ky.), McLean (Miss.), Ridgely (Ky.), Breazale (La.), Little (Ga.), Talbert (S. C.), Stokes (S. C.), against the bill.

At 10:15 the House adjourned.

The Probable Majority. Representative Overstreet of Indiana, in charge of the bill, says that the informal canvasses thus far made showed that the bill would pass on the final vote next Monday by a majority of about thirty-six, in case the full strength of both sides was present. This is based on the calculation that the full republican vote, 185, and eight democratic votes will be recorded for the bill, and the several other democratic members will refrain from voting. Mr. Overstreet says it is established beyond question that not one republican vote will be recorded against the bill. There will be an amendment to the present form of the bill, except the substitution of "July" for "June," in designating a statute referred to in the bill.

Representative Richardson of Tennessee, the democratic floor leader, says it cannot be definitely stated yet whether a substitute or amendments will be offered by the democratic side. There has been some suggestion that a substitute or amendments, embodying an affirmative position, should be presented, but there are parliamentary objections to this course, as the special rule governing the debate will not permit changes outside the committee of the whole, so that no record vote could be secured. The matter of a democratic caucus on the bill is also open, with the indications that no caucus will be held.

KING'S PALACE. An Immense Stock of Beautiful and Useful Presents.

King's Palace is one of those local establishments which are not only attractive to the holiday purchasers, but equally so to the general purchaser. It is one of the largest houses in the District. Indeed, it is claimed by the proprietors that its single floor space is the largest here. This space is on one floor, so there are neither stairs to climb nor elevators to be taken. Of course, just at this season the firm is making a specialty of Christmas goods, and its experience of nearly fifty years, having been engaged in business here about that length of time, enables the proprietors to provide about every article desired by those in search of Christmas gifts and seasonal goods. The main store of this establishment are located at 812 and 814 7th street, with a branch house at 715 Market space. But all this store room is not sufficient to enable the firm to display its entire stock, and the building adjoining the main stores on 7th street, No. 810, has been secured, in which an immense stock of toys is arranged. A very large stock of toys is also displayed at the branch store on Market space, and at this place is also shown one of the greatest and best assortments of hats, suits, cloaks and like goods to be seen in Washington. Of course, all such goods and toys are sold at the lowest possible prices, and the proprietors claim that its single floor space is the largest here. Of course, just at this season the firm is making a specialty of Christmas goods, and its experience of nearly fifty years, having been engaged in business here about that length of time, enables the proprietors to provide about every article desired by those in search of Christmas gifts and seasonal goods. The main store of this establishment are located at 812 and 814 7th street, with a branch house at 715 Market space. But all this store room is not sufficient to enable the firm to display its entire stock, and the building adjoining the main stores on 7th street, No. 810, has been secured, in which an immense stock of toys is arranged. A very large stock of toys is also displayed at the branch store on Market space, and at this place is also shown one of the greatest and best assortments of hats, suits, cloaks and like goods to be seen in Washington. Of course, all such goods and toys are sold at the lowest possible prices, and the proprietors claim that its single floor space is the largest here. This space is on one floor, so there are neither stairs to climb nor elevators to be taken.
