Bowling by Saengerbund and Business Men's Club.

PROPOSED CUT IN BASE BALL CIRCUIT

Brooklyn Owners Blocking League Plans.

ON THE GOLF LINKS

With the possibility of sliding into second position in the District Bowling League confronting them the Saengerbund bowling team last night went at the task of capturing the three games necessary for the achievement of that result in great style. In the first two games they bowled scores over 800, winning easily and being apparently in control of the match to capture the three. In the final game, however, the Business Men spruced up a bit and ran an 800 string themselves, defeating the home team, and maintaining the percentage in the league standing which they held on entering the contest.

While there were, as stated, three games over the 800 mark, there were no strikingly large individual scores, the good team scores having been accomplished by steady work of all of the men. Smithson's 181 in the last game was the highest score of the match.

The opening game was very evenly contested for the first few frames. Business having a slight lead at the close of the third. A series of errors by the Saengerbund gave their adversaries the required opportunity and the Saengers forged ahead, not to be again in the game. Crist ran a triple, while Spiess had two doubles.

IN BASE BALL CIRCLES.

League Plans Blocked by the Brooklyn Owners.

John T. Brush of Cincinnati and Frank de Haas Robinson of St. Louis and Cleveland, two of the four members of the circuit committee of the National League, remained in New York yesterday. They had a conference, and then Robinson, who has been delegated the working member of the committee, went in search of the representative of the Brooklyn and Baltimore clubs. He found Charles A. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn organization, who told him that Messrs. F. A. Abel, "Harry" Von Der Horst, "Ned" Hanlon and himself had decided to stick together on a refusal to talk further on the subject of the proposed club until the league remit the $200,000 placed on Brooklyn in the Wrightley case.

"I am disappointed," exclaimed Robinson, "over what has occurred, but I shall not relax my efforts. If the circuit is not cut, it will cost the league $200,000 next season."

It is understood that besides the remittance of the fine of $200,000, the club owners want the league to give to Brooklyn McGraw, Robinson and Sheppard. The valuation that Frank de Haas Robinson of the circuit committee has placed on the Baltimore club is $33,500. Washington wants $45,000 to get out, Cleveland $40,000 and Louisville $12,500. These figures were authorized by given out yesterday by one who attended the conference Saturday. Louisville's price is low because its assets are not considered so big as those of each of the other three clubs, especially as it has no grand stand.

There is no way by which the league can collect the fine of $200,000 imposed on Brooklyn. That club cannot be expelled for not paying it, as the league constitution says that no club can be expelled except by unanimous vote of the clubs. It was on this subject that Chris Von Der Ahe, formerly the owner of the St. Louis club, at one time "let up" the league.

"If the league wants fight," announced the Brooklyn-Baltimore syndicate yesterday, "it can have it."

Adrian C. Anson was still in New York yesterday. He was the league to adopt the Anson bill, and says that in his efforts he has the co-operation of President Freeman of the National League, who says that some other clubs are with him.

MAKING RAPID PROGRESS.

Work of Changing Motive Power on Anacostia Railway.

The work of changing the motive power of the Anacostia branch of the Washington Traction and Electric Company to the underground electric system is progressing as rapidly as possible, but it is learned from an official source that the portion of the line which is to benefit the residents of Anacostia and vicinity, between that section and 4 1/2 street and Maryland avenue southwest, will not be completed before some time after January 1 next. It has not been found possible to have the line ready by Christmas, as was at first thought might be done. The city portion of the route named is being completed, and the overhead trolley wires are being placed on the Anacostia bridge. The manner in which the wires are to be strung on the bridge is different from that previously adopted by the Capital Railway. In the present plan, which it is expected, will give much more satisfaction than the one referred to, there will be a wire over each of the tracks on the bridge.

The work of replacing the trolley wires between Anacostia and Congress Heights with a double trolley line is in progress today. It is stated that the electric cars between Anacostia and Congress Heights are to be operated as a separate line from the city portion of the branch when the new road is completed, as is now the case. This will be practicable to run the cars through to the heights on account of there being but a few squares of distance between Anacostia and the heights provided with a double track. A transfer station will therefore have to be established, probably at Anacostia. It is understood to be the intention of the railroad company to double track the entire distance between the places mentioned later on, if permission can be obtained from the District Commissioners.

BURGLARY CONFESSED.

Young Man Does Not Know Why He Committed Crime.

Rudolph Thiele, a young man who lives near Silver Hill, Prince Georges' county, Md., was arrested yesterday by Detective Hartigan and Deputy Sheriff Aron Smit on the charge of burglary. It is alleged that he entered the house of Mr. France, near Silver Hill, through the second-story window Saturday night, and carried off $125. The officers recovered $100 from a woman living on 11th street, just south of Pennsylvania avenue. Thiele, who is twenty years old, admits his guilt and says he does not know why he committed the robbery. He was taken to Marlboro' by the deputy sheriff.

NEW RECORDS MADE.

Annual Ladies' Golf Tournament of the Chevy Chase Club.

The beautiful weather yesterday favored outdoor amusements, and the annual ladies' tournament of the Chevy Chase Golf Club, over the links of an excellent shape, was in progress, and the ladies took every advantage of the opportunities offered, and as a result close scores and clever playing followed. There were sixteen entries. The first prize went to a "Witch" lady, Miss Kitzmiller of the Edgewood Golf Club of the smoky city, whose score was as follows:

Out..... 7 6 4 8 8 6 10 2—
In..... 5 7 6 6 5 6 6 5—110

Her gross score of 110 establishes a record for the ladies' links, the one previously being held by Miss Mowry, with a score of 117.

Miss Parrish of the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club won second prize, with the following score, which also broke the previous record:

Out..... 7 5 6 4 10 7 6 7—
In..... 7 6 7 7 6 6 6 4—112

The following are the next best scores handed in:

Miss Patten, Chevy Chase Golf Club: Out..... 6 8 4 10 7 6 8 7—
In..... 9 6 7 7 6 6 6 5—119

Miss Lee, Chevy Chase Golf Club: Out..... 7 7 8 5 11 10 8 12 5—
In..... 10 9 8 9 6 8 7 6—143

Miss Munroe, Chevy Chase Golf Club: Out..... 9 7 9 5 12 8 14 9—
In..... 6 7 10 7 10 6 8 5—142

Visitors to Play the Institutes.

A party of 150 students of the Pennsylvania State Normal School of Bloomsburg, Pa., arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. They are at the Elsmere and Ox-bow hotels. The school basket ball team is in the party, and will try conclusions with the Carroll Institute team this evening. The game will be played in the Carroll Institute gym. The party will remain in the city until Friday. It includes Dr. P. Welsh, principal of the school, and eight of his faculty.

THE MUSICAL SEASON

It Has Commenced Most Brilliantly in New York.

Secret of Paderewski's Hold Upon His Audiences—The Opera—The Arion Concert.

Special Correspondence of The Evening Star.

NEW YORK, December 18, 1899.

When Paderewski comes to town all the pianists leave. Paderewski has already started across the continent, Hamburg, the muscular young Slegfried, made his last appearance here for some time last night, and the rest have either given up coming or are scattered elsewhere. Paderewski gave his second recital Saturday afternoon in Carnegie Hall before an audience numbering probably 4,000, and calculated to represent over $6,000. A grand piano alone occupied the stage, and presently the sole performer appeared, and was, unassisted, more than to find him in a few minutes to weave the spell, and then every one sat in rapt attention until he finished. His program included Brahms, Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin, Rubinstein and Liszt—surely a wide enough range to test the comprehension of any player; yet in all of these his pre-eminent genius was plainly shown. After the tension of listening is over you ask what are the sources of his power. Why is it that he can arouse an intensity of enthusiasm experienced, even by "listeners and real interest in piano playing among the unmusical, which not one of the other pianists, however talented, though they are, can begin to excite? There are many reasons to be assigned, but one is most obvious—his absolute understanding of the composer's inmost musical thoughts and his complete ability to portray them through his entire mastery of the technical possibilities of the piano. Surely no work of art can be more instructive than the varying intensities of mood of a great musical genius can be found than Schumann's "Carnival." Here he made a set of pictures—what Schumann has done is thought—all his most intimate reflections on carnival day, the glittering outward show, the somber undercurrent of varied human life. And as the composer painted it so Paderewski disclosed it to his audience. His completed enchantment, his means of other pianists, is his personal triumph in his complete mastery of the heart of the composer first, and never in the least degree obtruded Paderewski and his accompaniment in the composition, the singing tone, the one thing needful in playing; his use of the pedals; his varieties of touch; his massive fortis; his whisper-softness; his great sense of the measure; his most poetical reach of the heart's throes. It is a noble triumph of the highest art.

Nothing but the opera can compete with Paderewski in interest, and that begins to-night. The announcement for the week—"Romeo and Juliet," "Carmen," "Tannhauser," "Faust" and "Lohengrin," do not indicate any revolutionary purposes, but the part of the management. The personal interest is in the reappearance of Calve in "Carmen" and in the composer painted it in the first appearance in New York of Alvarez, the great French tenor. The old favorites, except Jean de Reszke, are all there—Nordica, Ennes, Schumann-Heink, Saleza, Van Dyck, Plancon and Eduard de Reszke. The advance subscription is the largest ever known for the entire season. It is sold out for the season, and the prospect (if Jean de Reszke will only come late) is for the most brilliant opera season New York has ever known.

The Arion Society gave its second concert of the season for members only in its elegant club house last night. The members have an auditorium seating about 1,000, a male chorus of 100, and import their own conductor, Herr Julius Lorenz, from Germany, to take charge of the choir and assist. The voices are of fine quality and thorough training has resulted in great effectiveness. They sang part songs by Brahms, and three compositions by local musicians, Grunwald, Spielter and Louis V. Starr, the last a battle hymn for chorus, tenor solo and orchestra, showing fine technical knowledge and much skill in composition. The society had the aid of Fraulien Schroeder, first cellist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. That such concerts can be given without public subscription is a striking evidence of the deep interest in music felt by the leading Germans of this city.

I saw Mme. Gaskel, who is to sing in Washington on January 2 with the Choral Society in The Mosses. She sings the same part for the first time with the Oratorio Society in New York on December 23, and the next week in Boston with the Handel and Haydn Society. This demonstrates for her work indicates the general confidence felt in her oratorio work and prefigures a brilliant performance for the Choral Society.

RELEASED ON BAIL.

Former Cashier of Army and Navy Club Before the Court.

William W. Sheed, former cashier and bookkeeper of the Army and Navy Club, who was arrested on a charge of embezzlement, as published in yesterday's Star, has been released on $500 security. The warrant for his apprehension was sworn out more than a month ago, but the detectives were unable to find him until yesterday. They learned that he had been in different cities from time to time, and recently they were informed he was at his mother's house at Riverdale, a short distance from Hyattsville. Detectives Muller and Baur took Deputy Sheriff Vincent with them yesterday and went to the home to arrest him. Sheed objected to accompanying the officers on the ground that they were without jurisdiction. When he learned that the Maryland officer would take him to Baltimore he withdrew his objection and came here to stand trial.

It is alleged by club officials that Mr. Sheed's shortage will amount to about $700. The defendant, the officers say, admitted having failed to turn in the $16,400, and amount charged in the warrant. Attorney Sillers appeared in court today as counsel for Mr. Sheed. The case was continued until next Wednesday.

Will Filed or Probate.

The will of Kitey Mobley Roberts, dated November 23, 1898, has been filed for probate. The testatrix "gives and bequeatheth" her little daughter, Kitey Helen Roberts, to the care of the mother and sister of the testatrix, Camelia A. Mobley and Cornelia M. Fagan, respectively. Certain jewelry is left in trust for the little daughter. The remainder of the estate of the deceased is left to Cornelia A. Mobley.
