

THE EVENING STAR. WASHINGTON. WEDNESDAY, January 10, 1900. CROSBY S. NOYES, Editor.

THE EVENING STAR has a regular and permanent staff of writers much more than the combined circulation of the other Washington dailies.

In order to avoid delays, on account of absence, letters to THE STAR should not be addressed to any individual connected with the office, but simply to THE STAR, or to the Editor or the Business Department, according to tenor or purpose.

Yesterday in the Senate. The expectation was that Mr. Hoar, by a day and a half, would be in the discussion of the Philippine question.

The Taylor-Goblet fund may reach proportions which will cause the small anti-hiberto conspirators in Kentucky to go permanently out of business.

The Molluque case has not yet reached the point where it may call for some expert expurgation.

Not Literary. "Is your friend a literary man?" "No," answered Miss Gwynne. "He's just a writer. He's too bald-headed to be a literary man."

The Forlorn Hope. "To tell you the truth, your mission here, nor quail at what the cynics say; for what the present calls 'n.g.' is 'Posterity of Marks' 'o.k.'"

A Little Reciprocity. "What we want to do is to treat the Filipinos as we treat the Cubans," said the philanthropic gentleman.

Approval. "What makes you keep scolding about politics?" exclaimed Mr. Blykins, irritably. "You talk as if you would be glad if there were no politicians."

None the Best of It. "The audience was a trifle severe in its comments on the essay your wife read."

The Journey. "You've gotter hab some troubles in dis rough ol' world of ours. You've gotter fight de bumbly bee, sometimes, to pick de flowers."

Beveridge Demolished a Tradition. Wash. Cor. New York Tribune. If anything was really felt of that once potent tradition of the Senate that a new member should for a year at least be silent and not heard, it was completely demolished today when Mr. Beveridge of Indiana delivered a speech on American policy in the Philippines.

A Suggestion for Wm. Lloyd. From the Providence Journal. William Lloyd Garrison, who hopes that the Filipino rebels can hold out against our soldiers, might be appointed a committee of one to visit the homes of the five American soldiers who were shot and horribly abused while they were prisoners.

Sound Money and the South. From the St. Louis Star. If the building of the Nicaragua canal and the taking care of our new possessions will help the children of the south, is it not possible that the establishment of the monetary system of the country upon a solid and unchangeable standard of gold and silver will help the children of the south?

Ponder This Awhile. From the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette. While Pettigrew and other "anties" are airing their opinions in the Senate, the devoted Tagalogs are another sort. Increased numbers. Every Atkinsonian outbreak in this country puts new life into the revolution, which would have expired long ere this but for the false hopes held out to the Little Americans who are doing.

Cruel Senator Beveridge. From the New York Mail and Express. The anti-imperialist view of Senator Beveridge at the present moment is amusing. The young Indiana senator last week introduced a Philippine resolution aggressively supporting the United States and lo! the anti-imperialist venom is poured upon his offending head.

Even a Woman CAN PAINT. With these ready-mixed paints we're selling for 15c. Any color—ready to use. Just right for the busy small painter. Jobs around the house. We have NORRIS J. WALKER, 800-806 Fla. ave. Phone 1502. Jan 12d

In London. Would it not justify the government there in suggesting to the United States through its formal representatives that this was going rather far for a neutral power, especially one that had received so marked favors at England's hands during its own revolutionary crisis?

Such actions as this by the New York municipality degrade the public organization, reducing it to the plane of petty, local politics. But what better can be expected when the councils are chosen under the Tammany method, when the lash of the absent boss is felt even across the ocean.

The Proposed River Pollution Inquiry. It seems assured that the House committee on interstate commerce will report favorably the bill providing for a commission to inquire into river pollution, and such a report is expected to lead to the passage of the measure.

Shooting Stars. "Is your friend a literary man?" "No," answered Miss Gwynne. "He's just a writer. He's too bald-headed to be a literary man."

The Forlorn Hope. "To tell you the truth, your mission here, nor quail at what the cynics say; for what the present calls 'n.g.' is 'Posterity of Marks' 'o.k.'" upon the native mind, there would be little or no cause to make the Filipino not of the Tagal elect respect the acts or laws of the administration. Suspicion would soon breed revolt, which in turn would necessitate a stronger hand at headquarters, leading to a succession of steps toward monarchy.

Far better for the Filipino is that the power at Manila should be vested in a government capable of enforcing its decrees and of keeping its promises, than in the coterie which has assumed the name of the people and can furnish no guarantee of peace or fidelity.
