Agriarian Legislation Will Block German Reciprocity Treaty.

The action of the German Reichstag on the meat inspection bill Wednesday has not removed the cause of the delay in the initiation of negotiations for a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Germany under the terms of section 4 of the Dingley tariff act. An effort was made by the German embassy last spring to lay the foundation for such a treaty, animated by a desire to secure equal advantages with France in the matter of trade with the United States.

These efforts came to an abrupt halt because of the determination of our State Department to make the abandonment of some of the severe restrictions of the importation into Germany of American meat and other food products, one of the leading features of the proposed treaty, a condition which was unable to make any such concessions without legislative authority from the Reichstag. The Imperial government promised to submit a bill to the Reichstag which would satisfy our demands. The bill was prepared during the past summer.

While it did contain some features of relief, it could scarcely be regarded as satisfactory to our government. Western sausage makers protested bitterly to the Agriculture Department. They were supported after the details of the bill, against the sweeping exclusion of American sausages from Germany, thus cutting off an important branch of trade for our country. At the same time casting most injurious aspersions upon the purity of the American product.

There were other objections the subject of complaint to the department by our merchants, manufacturers and packers. On the whole, the bill as presented by the German executive branch might have been tolerated. But the amendments which have been placed upon it by the agrarian element, and which are almost certain that it cannot be accepted as a basis for a reciprocity treaty. One condition as to the importation of fresh meat alone is regarded as impracticable, namely, that the slaughtered animals must be sent over whole, and with the intestines attached.

It is believed that a formal decision has not been reached as yet, but our government will be obliged to declare that it will not accept the bill as presented, and must therefore decline to undertake negotiations looking to a reciprocity treaty. In such a case, it is expected, the sole hope of the United States Senate to ratify any French reciprocity treaty, which promises substantial advantages to its rivals.

SAUER RESPONSIBLE

Jury Holds Him for Action of Grand Jury.

CAUSED THE DEATH OF JAMES ALLEN

Altercation in a Saloon Leads to Fatal Assault.

THE DEFENDANT IN JAIL

Coroner Carr held an inquest at the sixth precinct station this morning in the case of James Allen, the former saloon keeper, who died at Providence Hospital yesterday morning from the effects of a blow delivered by William Sauer, a marine. As stated in The Star at the time of the occurrence, the men participated in a discussion in McNamee's saloon on 8th street southeast, after leaving the saloon where they met on G street opposite the marine barracks. There they had some words, and Sauer struck Allen and knocked him down.

The jury returned a verdict holding Sauer for the action of the grand jury, and he was committed to jail. Attorney Mitchell was present at the inquest as counsel for the prisoner.

Testimony of Physicians.

Dr. Frank T. Chamberlain testified that he attended Allen at the Casualty Hospital. He was brought to the hospital the 12th of this month, said the witness. When he reached the hospital he was suffering from shock. Witness described the condition of his head and told of the treatment given him in the hospital. The doctor said he was in the hospital when the operation was performed on the right side of the head, where there was a fracture of the skull. During the operation the patient was in a condition to make any statement concerning the manner in which he received the injury. He was very much excited, and it required several men to hold him while his hair was being shaved preparatory to the operation.

Dr. Sothoran Key testified that last Sunday afternoon Allen was brought to Providence Hospital for an operation to be performed for his relief. He was very much excited, and it required several men to hold him while his hair was being shaved preparatory to the operation. Witness described in detail the various changes in Allen's condition during the operation. He said that when he reached the hospital he was suffering from shock. Witness described the condition of his head and told of the treatment given him in the hospital. The doctor said he was in the hospital when the operation was performed on the right side of the head, where there was a fracture of the skull. During the operation the patient was in a condition to make any statement concerning the manner in which he received the injury. He was very much excited, and it required several men to hold him while his hair was being shaved preparatory to the operation.

Coroner's Statement.

Deputy Coroner Glazebrook testified that he performed the autopsy on the body of the deceased at the morgue. The emaciated condition of the body showed that the man had gone through severe illness. There was a discoloration of the right eye. Witness found evidences of an operation having been performed. Six or eight square inches of bone had been removed. The brain showed there had been a blood clot beneath the skull. Dr. Glazebrook told the jury that the skull of the deceased was about a half an inch thick. He said that the thinnest skull he had ever seen. One part of it, he said, was not more than three-fourths of an inch thick. He said that was unquestionably the result of the injury. Both sides of the skull were fractured.

Ends in a Quarrel.

Allen called Sauer a "bar," and the latter went out of the place. For a minute or two the witness went out and found Allen and Sauer engaged in a quarrel. He heard Sauer say to Allen, "You ———, take back what you said," and Allen denied that he had said anything against Sauer. Witness then saw Sauer strike Allen on the head with a bottle. Sauer was standing on the sidewalk, and Allen was on the sidewalk. Sauer was holding a bottle in his hand, and he threw it at Allen. Allen was struck on the head, and he fell. Sauer was standing on the sidewalk, and Allen was on the sidewalk. Sauer was holding a bottle in his hand, and he threw it at Allen. Allen was struck on the head, and he fell.

An Eye Witness.

William H. Miller, 818 G street southeast, told the jury that he was near 8th and G streets the night of the trouble, when he saw a man and a citizen standing near the curb. He heard the man say, "Take it back," and then strike the citizen. Witness said he was about twenty-five or thirty feet from the men when the blow was struck. So far as he could see, the man who struck Allen had a bottle in his hand, and he threw it at Allen. Allen was struck on the head, and he fell. Sauer was standing on the sidewalk, and Allen was on the sidewalk. Sauer was holding a bottle in his hand, and he threw it at Allen. Allen was struck on the head, and he fell.

The Verdict Rendered.

The prisoner did not care to make a statement and the case was submitted to the jury. After the jury had returned the verdict the body of the deceased was removed to his late home, No. 733 13th street southeast. The funeral will take place from St. Peter's Church Monday morning.

Mr. Polk Miller in Dialect Recital.

Mr. Polk Miller of Richmond, Va., will appear next Tuesday evening at the Western High School, in one of his dialect recitals, consisting of stories, sketches and songs illustrative of old times in the south. Mr. Miller has been a regular performer at the central figure, "White Man's Burden," in the hoister dialect. Polk Miller is a negro dialect. Joel Chandler Harris says of him: "He is the humorist the country has been looking for. I know of no one who can more aptly depict the real negro character as more faithfully render the true negro dialect. There is a live 'nigger' hidden somewhere in Polk Miller's dialect, and you can see it in his recital, and go to dancing when Polk Miller strikes the string."

The entertainment is in no sense a lecture, but an evening of story and song; entertainment entirely out of the usual run. Mr. Miller is never tiring, for he is in the habit of reciting his own recitations and recites them with humor.

It pays to read the want columns of The Star. Hundreds of situations are filled through them.

Palais Royal Cash Prices.

HOUSEKEEPERS are asked to investigate—to learn the difference between credit store and Palais Royal prices. Please make Monday the day of investigation. Read of the "specials" quoted below, then come and see the goods. Note that "specials" really mean special. For instance, one of our 1000 contracts was made with a leading manufacturer of Germany to supply 20,000 yards of Table Linens to retail at or about the popular prices of 50c and 75c yard. Other Linens, Towels, Bedwear and Housefurnishings were bought in the same way. We term such lots "leaders" or "specials." Some are told of below:

10,000 Yards Linens.

Note qualifications: Every thread warranted all pure linen. Free of dressing—the future wear guaranteed by the maker to us and by us to you. 43c yard is a less price than the merchant to the jobber.

43c.

10,000 Yards Linens.

Fine Bleached Satin Damask, 72 inches wide. The quality costing you $1 yard at most credit stores. Remember that the merchant who gives credit generally asks it. He pays more than we and tacks on more profit. Has to.

69c.

5,000 Dozen Towels at Usual Wholesale Prices.

You know the towels usually retailed at 12 1/2c and 25c. They are here at 9c and 10c—the usual wholesale prices. Coming direct from the makers in vast quantities, bought and sold on a cash basis, the Palais Royal "Specials" are all that are claimed for them.

9c for the usual 12 1/2c Hemmed Linen Towels, 18x36 inches. Nearly 200 dozen sold to hotel proprietors since their arrival here—little more than a month ago.

19c for the usual 25c Huck Towels. Warranted every thread pure linen. Heavy weight and extra size—22x14 inches. The best wearing 25c Towels at 19c.

19c for the largest and best Bath Towel generally retailed at 25c. It's very heavy and is guaranteed also 20x26 inches. Sewed floor for table linens and towels.

Sheets, Pillow Cases, Blankets and Comfortables.

Here's a stubborn fact—can supply you with Lockwood Sheets and Cases, hand-torn, hemmed and ironed, and ask you less price than you can buy the materials for. And can prove it's the best time of the year for you and us to buy California Wool Blankets and Comforts.

55c for Full-size Lockwood Sheets, measuring 81x100 inches. And 15c for Lockwood Pillow Cases of regulation size, 45x36 inches. Housekeepers need only calculate the present cost of "Lockwood" to know these prices are astonishing.

$2.50 pair for California Wool Blankets that retail during the season at $4.50 pair. Full 114 size, weighing 25 pounds, $1.29 for the usual $1.98 Comforts, filled with pure white cotton, covered with all-wool, in art designs and colors.

NAPOLEON'S FAMOUS REMARK.

And its Bearing Upon the War in South Africa.

"Passing entirely the merits of the British-Boer war," said a United States artillery officer of high rank, "and the various valuable, and otherwise, individual opinions of the different correspondents as to the 'warfare of the future,' I am most forcibly struck by one substantial fact. It is this: 'That, however may be radically changed the tactics and the methods of conducting a battle on the field, the great, underlying principles of war are still not only undisturbed, but accentuated to a forceful degree by this contest, as were the great principles of naval evolution in the Spanish-American war.'

"Nearly one hundred years ago the greatest of military masters, the immortal Napoleon, made his famous remark that 'God was on the side of the general with the heaviest artillery.' Today we paraphrase that axiom by substituting 'high-powered' for 'heavy.' Artillery will decide the day in South Africa, as it did at Wagran and Austerlitz, and in most of Napoleon's battles. He was every sailor on board, he made this arm the feature of his marvelous armies. Mark my prophecy: 'Old Oom Paul and his advisers must have chosen the Napoleon words, for special attention was given to the secret importation into the Transvaal of great quantities of naval ordnance, high-powered guns. The execution of these batteries, and the consequent destruction of the British, are a constant reminder of the British, while it is admitted that the long-range naval guns alone saved Ladysmith from annihilation or capture by the Boers. The Boers, the shrapnel shells of the Boers fused at 5,200 yards, while those of the British fused at 4,100 yards, leaving a zone of nearly three-quarters of a mile in which the British were entirely at the mercy of the Boers, before they could even get in a position to miller and fire. And since the people have chosen the British for abandoning their guns, it is a wonder that the fragments of their flesh and bones could be gathered together and buried.

"Americans are born artilleryists. In our various foreign wars, and in our civil war, this fact has been as completely demonstrated as it is in the handling of small arms by instinct. But we cannot afford to rest on this superiority of the man behind the gun. The Modem is now an intricate piece of breech mechanism of frightful life-destroying potency and startling projectile penetrating and carrying power."

THE PALLID MAN QUAILS.

Chased by New York Police and the Terrible Result.

"It is up to you, now."

The pallid man turned more pallid, and glared wildly around for an avenue of escape. Pennsylvania avenue or any other old avenue. They were closed.

"It is up to you, now."

The pallid man wondered why Prosecutor Osborne, after convicting Molnoux, had come down to Washington post-haste on the Congressional Limited to prosecute him. It had been "up to Cornish." Now it was up to him. He thought of his crimes, and his knees shook in a manner that would have made the hair on his back stand on end. He bled his wrists after chewing up thirteen sofa pillows and one soft couch (41.80, reduced).

"It is up to you, now."

The pallid man recalled his last murder. It was on a dark night. The place, Long bridge. The hour, midnight. As he had thrown his writhing victim, a young and beautiful maiden cast, tied in the sultan's specially prepared Bosphorus bag, the pallid man, Harry A. Lewis, had shrieked, "What? What?"

"Your necktie. Up to your chin, your ears and the rim of your remaining locks on the rear fire-escape of your billiard ball. Pull it down."
