"Hechts' Greater Stores," 513-515 Seventh Street.

Over 300 women's suits and skirts at about half price.

The makers of women's ready-to-wear suits and skirts have frightfully overproduced, and the market is literally "gorged." Such was the condition of affairs found last week when the buying manager of the suit department was in New York.

Over 300 garments bought at a sacrifice from two of the foremost New York makers will be put on sale tomorrow, and the offering holds out to you greater savings than you have ever known.

Phenomenal millinery business.

Millinery selling reached high-water mark last week. Seemed as though this was the only millinery store in town. Night and day nearly a hundred work people, all adept in their line, "worked like beavers" to turn out the orders for Easter hats, and not a person was disappointed—not one did we break our promise.

$2.95 for hats worth $5. $4.95 for hats worth $7.50. The hats in these two lots cannot be equalled at the prices.
