General Lew Wallace, the author of "Ben Hur," writes of this newest book:

"In my judgment, the six greatest English novels are "IVANHOE," "THE LAST OF THE BARONS," "THE TALE OF TWO CITIES," "JANE EYRE," "HYPATIA" and "THIS ROMANCE OF CROLY'S." If Shakespeare had never been born; if Milton, Byron and Tennyson were singers yet to be, and Bacon, Darwin and Ruskin unknown — still the six works named would of themselves suffice to constitute a British literature."

TAKEN TO CLEVELAND

Remains of Adelbert S. Hay in Lake View Cemetery.

SERVICES TO BE HELD AT 4 O'CLOCK

The Secretary Will Not Return to Washington.

GOING TO NEWBURY, N. H.

CLEVELAND, June 25.—The body of the late Adelbert S. Hay arrived here at noon today from New Haven, Conn. The casket was conveyed from the union station directly to Wade Mortuary Chapel in Lake View cemetery, where services will be held late this afternoon. Secretary Hay and family were driven to the home of Samuel Mather in Glenville.

Kruger Sent No Wreath. AMSTERDAM, June 25.—The members of Mr. Kruger's entourage deny the report cabled to the United States that Mr. Kruger has sent a wreath in memory of former United States Consul at Pretoria Adelbert S. Hay.

Secretary Hay Will Go to New Hampshire. Mr. E. J. Babcock, private secretary to Secretary Hay, arrived in Washington this morning. He was with the Secretary in New Haven and left the burial party at New York last night to come direct to Washington. He informed Chief Clerk Michael and other anxious inquirers at the State Department that the remains of young Mr. Hay were expected to arrive at Cleveland at 12:30 o'clock today, and would be removed to the chapel at the cemetery where the funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Samuel Mather of Cleveland, a brother-in-law of Secretary Hay, has been entrusted with the arrangements for the funeral. He has been authorized by telegram to purchase a suitable floral tribute for the officers and employees of the State Department and have it placed on the casket.

Mr. Babcock said today that Secretary Hay had rallied from the prostrating effects upon him of the death of his son, and that he, as well as the other members of the family, are bearing up wonderfully well under their affliction.

In the cabinet meeting today some time was spent in talking over the deep affliction that has come to Secretary Hay. The President had a letter from Secretary Hay yesterday after the funeral at Cleveland and this afternoon he returned to Newbury, N. H., with Mrs. Hay and his children. How long he would remain there was not indicated. The tone of the letter showed that the Secretary was bearing up bravely. The cabinet did not seriously discuss the gossip of Mr. Hay's possible return in hand and with executive commissions. The President and other cabinet members would advise against it. The President has written to Secretary Hay expressing his sympathy in the great sorrow that has come to him. Acting Secretary Hill has the business of the State Department thoroughly in hand and with executive commissions. It is said to be no good reason why Secretary Hay should not remain at Newbury for some time.

Expressions of Condolence. Expressions of condolence and sympathy continue to flow in from all quarters. In addition to the large number already received at the State Department almost as many more were directed to Secretary Hay at New Haven. Among these were messages from President McKinley and Secretary Hay's colleagues in the cabinet. Lord Lansdowne communicated through Mr. Balfour to the British charge of embassy here, and other messages came from Ambassador Choate, Ambassador Cambon, the Spanish, Japanese, Danish and Korean ministers in the Belgian charge d'affaires. The great number of senators and many other persons. It is now learned that a number of governments of foreign nations had arranged to pay an extraordinary tribute to Adelbert Hay by causing their representatives in this country to attend the funeral services in their full official capacity, but this purpose has been defeated through the decision of the family of the deceased to have a private funeral.

TELEGRAMS OF CONDOLENCE. Messages of Sympathy Sent to Secretary Hay.

The following are among the great number of cablegrams and telegrams of sympathy addressed to Secretary Hay on the occasion of his son's recent death: From Sandringham Palace, Sir F. Knollys, private secretary to his majesty the King of England, says: "The King shares deeply in your terrible loss. He had the pleasure of knowing your son in London."

From the Elysee Palace at Paris the president of France sends the following message: "Sincerest sympathy."

Lord Roberts telegraphs from London: "Deep sympathy with you in the tragic death of your son. His kindness and courtesy to our prisoners in Pretoria will ever be most gratefully remembered."

The Earl of Roslyn expresses his deepest sympathy in memory of many kindnesses and strong friendship.

Lord Laurenceford: "Our hearts go out to you in deep sympathy and sorrow."

Sir Henry Irving: "My deep and most profound sympathy with you and Mrs. Hay and your family under this terrible affliction which has come upon you."

Mr. Whitehead Reid: "We are grieved at the sad news as from a personal calamity and send our most sincere and affectionate sympathy. His promise was so fine and his performance so ample for his years that the untimely death is so doubly cruel."

President Arthur D. Hays Sulzberger, University: "Pray accept heartfelt sympathy from a friend of your son who was proud to know him. He lived long and well enough to leave his mark upon the world and to help every one who knew him."

FEELING AMONG NAVAL OFFICERS.

Sentiment Regarding the New Service.

The general feeling among naval officers is that Secretary Long made a happy solution of the so-called Sampson-Schley controversy in so far as it concerns the medal to be struck in commemoration of the West Indian naval engagements. Following the strict letter of the statute, the Secretary has provided a general battle medal and has in that way obviated the criticisms that might have resulted from a medal commemorating only the battle of Santiago and making either Sampson or Schley the particular hero of that memorable occasion. The friends and partisans of Admiral Schley would naturally object to such official recognition of Sampson in the single battle of Santiago and the friends of Admiral Sampson would have equal objection to the honor of Schley undue prominence for that victory.

The act of Congress authorizing the Navy Department to prepare and award medals directed that they should be distributed for services rendered "in the naval and other engagements in the waters of the West Indies and on the shores of Cuba during the war with Spain." There is absolutely no mention of Santiago, and naval officers feel that it would be unjust to officers and men who participated in other engagements to award them a medal which commemorates but one battle, though that battle overshadowed all others in importance.

The board has decided from a medal of the Navy has approved of which were engaged in blockade duty shall have the medal in their case, meritorious service medals as well as the man who actually participated in the fighting. Everybody who was in the West Indian campaign at all, either before or after the cutting of a medal of one kind or the other. Hobson and his men will get meritorious service medals, according to Secretary Long, for the Merrimac incident. And in addition, they may receive battle medals when they can show that they were aboard the New York or other vessels which actually engaged the Spanish.

The act of Congress required the Secretary of the Navy to designate the actions in the West Indian waters, participation in which would entitle the officers and men to a medal. This matter being referred to the board, they reported that these actions were: the capture of the Spanish steamer Cardenas, the capture of the Spanish steamer Cardenas, the capture of the Spanish steamer Cardenas, the capture of the Spanish steamer Cardenas.

ROCKVILLE AND VICINITY. Suicide of Charles Beal, a Victim of Special Correspondence of The Evening Star.

ROCKVILLE, Md., June 24, 1901. Charles Beal, who resided about a mile from Laytonsville, this county, committed suicide about 11 o'clock this morning by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. The ball entered his right temple and death is believed to have been instantaneous. He was the son of the late Cyrus Beal, and was twenty-two years of age. Several months ago the young man suffered an attack of the grip, and ever since he has been subject to frequent spells of despondency. About ten days ago, while in one of these melancholy moods, he attempted to take his own life by taking a large quantity of arsenic, but he was saved by prompt medical attention. He continued in low spirits, however, and when he failed to put on his appearance at dinner today the suspicions of his mother were aroused and she instituted a search. The young man's dead body was found in the loft of the house, and beside it lay a revolver, with one shell exploded.

Young Beal was well and favorably known in the Laytonsville neighborhood, and his appearance and manner today were not taken in your case the entire service might infer that such violations and abuses are winked at. The department gives full weight to your report, and you are, however, guilty of a serious offense, committed in violation of law and regulation. St. John's day was observed by the Rockville Masons, who attended in a body upon divine services at the Rockville M. E. Church. A sermon was preached by Rev. J. H. Balthus, assistant pastor of the church. About fifty members of the order were present.

The Inmaculate Conception Alumnae held their fourth annual reunion last Friday night, and at the same time tendered a reception to the newly graduated class of 1901. It was composed of the following young ladies: Misses Loretto Sullivan, Mary Mangan, Mary E. Reilly and Margaret Carter. A sermon was preached by Rev. J. H. Balthus, assistant pastor of the church. About fifty members of the order were present.

The program of the evening opened with a piano solo, "Annie Laurie," by Miss Louise Dale Leeds; then a song, "Alma Mater," composed by the president, Mrs. H. D. McMan, and read by Miss Genevieve Saffell. Miss Callen sang a corset solo, followed by Mrs. Katherine Cook in a recitation; soprano solo, "Forgotten." Covies, Miss Whitesell; solo, "I See an Arrow in the Air," Mr. Jas. J. Nolan; contralto solo, "He Was a Prince," Tynes, Miss Chenoweth; violin solo (a), "Romance Sans Paroles," Thorne; (b), "A Hongroise." Hausser, Miss Harry E. King; soprano solo, Miss Pearl Evans; quartet, "For You" (Victor Harris), Miss Mary Mangan, Mrs. Jordan, soprano; Mrs. C. P. Clark, Miss Grace Maher, contralto; baritone solo, "I Wait for Thee," Hawley, Mr. Wm. Clabaugh. The program closed with address by Rev. S. F. Ryan. The accompanists were Mr. E. E. Muth, Misses Kearon, M. E. Mully and Leeds. Before sitting down to the banquet the reason of the construction of the Washington and Rockville electric railway in front of Mr. Offutt's property, the commissioners had granted the right of way for the construction of the road. Judge Henderson held that the commissioners were not responsible for any damage that may have been done by the action was not properly brought against them.

Last Days of the Silver Anniversary Sale Will Be Made Famous Because of the Offering of

2,700 Women's $2 Oxfords

At $1.19

When we said last Sunday that the last days of this great sale would be most interesting of all, we had in mind the offering of these two lots of Women's Oxfords at nearly half price.

One lot embracing 1,200 pairs consists of the entire line of all patent leather Oxfords of a "Reliable" maker which were made to sell for $2.00. They are in all sizes of C, D and E widths; have perforated vamps and tips; military heels; wide extension soles and wide back stays. They are up to date in shape and are perfect in every way.

The second lot consists of 1,500 pairs of women's genuine black vici kid Oxfords—some with hand-sewed welt soles and some with light-weight turn soles; in all sizes and widths—and are also genuine $2 values.

As great as the lots are they will certainly not hold out long against the demand which will follow this announcement.

$1.19 a pair instead of $2.

HAD PASSED CENTURY MARK. Death of Mrs. Peavey at the Age of 104.

Word has been received by Mr. Washington D. Quinter of the death of Mrs. Peavey of Boston, the grandmother of his wife, at the advanced age of 104 years. Only two of the eleven children of the deceased are now living.

In spite of the great burden of years, Mrs. Peavey was a remarkably active woman, physically and mentally, and it was not until a few months ago that she had been in feeble health. One of her sons, Alvin Peavey, now dead, was at one time proprietor of the Kirkwood House, located at the northeast corner of Pennsylvania avenue and 12th street, where the Raleigh Hotel is located. Several other members of the family lived here in former years, and Mrs. Peavey at one time was quite a frequent visitor to this city.

Property Offered to District. Joseph I. Weiler has written to the District Commissioners offering to sell certain property adjoining the site of the new Manual Training School at 7th and 17th streets, Island avenue. He asks if there is any fund out of which the District could purchase the property, provided it was deemed to the advantage of the District to buy at this time. Auditor Petty has reported to the Commissioners that there is no appropriation available for the purchase of additional ground for the Manual Training School. He says, further, that it is deemed advisable to make this acquisition, provision therefore should be made in the estimates of appropriations which will be submitted to Congress at the approaching session of that body.

THE GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY CREW.

THE BLUE AND GRAY

Georgetown's Eight Preparing for Poughkeepsie.

WILL LEAVE HERE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

University Race Will Be Rowed July 2.

SIX CREWS HAVE ENTERED

The annual intercollegiate boat races will be held this year a week from today, at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on the Hudson river. The regatta will be of local interest from the fact that the eight of Georgetown University will be entered. It will be the only event in which the local varsity men are entered, and will be the second appearance of the blue and gray at Poughkeepsie.

The Georgetown eight will leave the city on a midnight train Wednesday, giving several days at Poughkeepsie before the race for practice on the course. The men have been training for several months, but are not in the best rowing condition, though every day sees an improvement in the team work of the eight.

The course will be the usual four-mile straightaway from Krumelton to one mile below the railway bridge.

This year there will be six events in the varsity contest. The Syracuse University being the new crew entered. The other crews represent the same universities as last year—Cornell, Columbia, Wisconsin and University of Pennsylvania. The Pennsylvania crew, which won last year, and which this season beat the eight of the Naval Academy, has been entered in England to participate in the Henley races, but Pennsylvania will be represented by another eight.

Party Going From Here. While the Georgetown crew will leave Wednesday night, its new racing shell and help going with it, the "rooters" for the oarsmen will not leave until a day or so before the race. It is expected that a party of about twenty will go from this city among the number being: Rev. John D. Whitney, S. J., rector of the university; Father Bryan, M. J. Colbert and Mr. Johnson, through whose assistance the aquatic interests of the university were so materially helped along this year.

Mr. Claude Zappone, president of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, has been coaching the local crew the entire season, will also be one of the party, while the manager of boating, Mr. William K. Johnson, will also go along.

It has been impossible to have a trial, said Mr. Zappone, "on account of the current and high water, which has made training somewhat hard. The crew this year is much better than last season, and since the commencement of training has made progress. The men are improving constantly, a change being noted every day in their rowing."

When asked about the prospects of winning the Poughkeepsie event the coach did not seem to care to say anything. It was impossible to tell just how the race would turn out. He had not heard of the condition of the other crews, which have had a hard time of it. The crew of the Georgetown eight to improve.

A small steam launch, the Allie Moore, is now attached to the university boat house, and Coach Zappone at practice maintains a seat in the bow and directs the oarsmen with a megaphone.

Fire Automobile in Germany. Consul General Guenther of Frankfurt reports that the Eagle velocipede works of that city has built an automobile for fire departments, which will be exhibited at the Berlin exposition for fire-extinguishing and life-saving apparatus. The automobile, adds the consul general, carries four men, has a speed of about eleven miles an hour, and will be used to render first aid in case of fires.
