RUMMAGE SALE.

The Rummage Sale means more than ever now—it is in connection with this Rebuilding Sale.

—After stock taking comes the Rummage Sale. It's short—it's sharp and decisive. It clears out every bit of odds and ends in the house that stock taking brings to light. It puts prices on them that have no bearing on the value of goods. The Rebuilding Sale has developed more odds and ends than ever—naturally would. The sale this time will be notable as an assemblage of bargains absolutely without a peer in any sale you've ever known.

—But you know these sales—so why go into further detail—except to tell prices.

STRIKERS HELD FOR CONTEMPT.

Judge Keller at Charleston, W. Va., Imposes Fines.

In the miners' contempt cases at Charleston, W. Va., yesterday Judge Keller held John Richards and his associates guilty of contempt and fined them $5 and costs each, holding them committed until the fines were paid or bail given. Richards is president of District 17, United Mine Workers. Judge Keller first decided the question of jurisdiction, holding that having jurisdiction of the non-resident parties against whom the bill was filed gave the court jurisdiction over anybody who was confederated with them, no matter where such persons resided. The testimony, he said, clearly proved a confederation between the defendants named in this case. On the question of what it took to constitute a violation of the injunction order he held that it did not require entry upon the property forbidden, but that to go near enough to it with such force as would have the effect to intimidate the men who were at work in the mines was such a violation as was contemplated by the court. He held that Richards in gathering several hundred men together and marching through the country to the neighborhood of the mines of the plaintiff company and there camping upon ground upon which they had a right to assemble and making threats against the men at work, such as the testimony showed had been made, had violated the injunction, and that those who marched with him and supported him in what he said and did were equally guilty. At the same time he did not think they had intentionally violated the order and he would, therefore, not deal with them harshly, but would make their fine light. At the same time, however, he wished to say that the trial and the publicity given this matter served to put everybody on notice of the meaning of these injunction orders, and if there should be any further violations he would visit severe punishment upon the offenders. Five defendants, Samuel Washington, Joe Smith, R. L. Bass, James McIver and Joe Preneel, were discharged, it not being shown that they were in the confederation. WATTERSON NOT A CANDIDATE. Louisville Editor Tells Why He Will Not Ask Office. A dispatch from Louisville yesterday says: Henry Watterson, who has been spoken of as a democratic candidate for governor of Kentucky, and also for President of the United States, caused a sensation in political circles of the state tonight by announcing that he was not a candidate for the governorship, that he could not fight a machine, and that he could not hold an office that could be purchased with money. In an address to the democrats of the state he says, in part: Since so much has been said on the subject without authorization of mine, it seems proper that I should in some public manner declare that I shall not be a candidate for governor of Kentucky. Although I have never had a machine, I am not a stranger either to the character or the efficacy of machine methods. Nor do I lack some points of vantage in case I wanted to construct a machine for my own purpose. But no unclean dollar has ever passed my hand, either coming or going, and I am too old to turn rascal. Sometimes I have declared that I should like the people to write "Governor of Kentucky" on my tombstone, but I should rest ill in my grave if there were the suspicion of a stain upon a letter of that honorable epithet. I stand upon my record, such as it is, and profoundly grateful to my fellow citizens of every way of thinking for their confidence and favor, often in the face of serious differences of opinion, profoundly hopeful of the future of the party and the state, I shall continue to labor under my own roof tree until my race is run, a free man, a Kentuckian and a democrat. HENRY WATTERSON. Louisville, Ky., August 13, 1902. Mr. Watterson's attitude greatly simplifies the race for the gubernatorial nomination, and it is believed that his action will have the result of giving Governor Beckham a clear field. DAMAGE TO A WASHERY. Strikers Tear Down a Wire Fence Around Warnke. A dispatch from Wilkesbarre, Pa., last night says: A number of workmen who were returning from the Woodward mine tonight claim a volley of stones was fired at them, but no one was hurt. A number of boys were seen on a hill near by, and it is thought they were the guilty parties. The owners of the Warnke washery, at Duryear, have asked Sheriff Jacobs to protect their property. Yesterday a barbed wire barricade was built around the wash-

ery. Last night some unknown parties tore it down. A crowd of 500 men and boys collected around the washery today, as it was expected operations would be resumed. When a number of deputy sheriffs reached the place the crowd dispersed. It is said an attempt will be made to resume work tomorrow. The presidents of the local assemblies of the United Mine Workers of the Wilkesbarre district met here today and adopted resolutions condemning Rev. Father O'Reilly of Shenandoah for his criticism of the officers of the United Mine Workers. President Mitchell and the district presidents were educated for their efforts to better the condition of the miners. President Mitchell addressed a personal letter to the Shenandoah clergyman, taking exceptions to certain remarks alleged to have been made by him in his church last Sunday. Rev. O'Reilly sent a curt reply, saying that Mr. Mitchell had no right to criticize his sermons. Representatives of the big coal companies here think it would be a useless trip for a committee of the Citizens' Alliance of Wilkesbarre to go to Atlantic City to see Senator Quay and have him use his influence with the presidents of the coal-carrying railroads to bring about arbitration. The local operators are of the opinion that it is too late to talk about arbitration now, as those in control of the trade think it can only be a short time until the miners make up their minds to return to work. TRIAL OF PAYMASTER PENROSE. Lieut. Com. Winder Tells of Shortage in Cash Box. A dispatch from Erie, Pa., yesterday, says: The sixth day of the trial by court-martial of Paymaster C. W. Penrose proceeded today. The evidence of General Pay Inspector J. A. Mudd concluded for a time the prosecution on the charges of fraudulent returns and embezzlement. The first witness today was Lieutenant Commander Winder, in charge of the Michigan. His evidence was concerned with the opening of the cash box on board the ship by Mudd, who found that there was a shortage of about $8,902. Paymaster Penrose was at this time in Erie, from which place he had been ordered to join the ship at Mackinac Island. His leave of absence expired on July 1, but he did not return until July 8 at noon, when he was immediately placed under arrest pending investigations of the shortage found by Inspector Mudd. Local Manager Hunter of the Western Union Telegraph Company was placed on the stand to produce a copy of the message to Penrose ordering his immediate return to ship, but Hunter could not swear as to time of delivery. Major Waller, counsel for defense, is putting up a stubborn fight. Girls in Games. Choose any of the games in which women are interested, and it would be possible to detect deteriorating influences in those who devote to them a disproportionate amount of enthusiasm and energy. It is this all-absorbing tendency of modern games, far more than the mere effect physically or morally of any one game, that is to be deprecated. In athletics, as formerly in book learning, women especially require to aim at a sense of proportion, and that consciously before the best results can be obtained. Athleticism among women is without doubt a reaction from the ideals of the blue-stocking. E. W. Grove. This name must appear on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets. 25c. per box. 10c. per box.
