

THE EVENING STAR. WASHINGTON. MONDAY, August 18, 1902. GOSBY S. NOYES, Editor.

THE EVENING STAR has a regular and permanent Family Circulation much more than the combined circulation of the other Washington dailies.

Mr. Lodge States the Case. The article which Senator Lodge has written for the September number of the National Magazine on the subject of the Philippine situation is at once a complete reply to the criticisms of our course in the archipelago and an unanswerable argument in support of our expectations for the immediate future.

There is but one difficulty. The anti-imperialists are not so solicitous that the Philippines should have the best treatment, or be put on the road to the greatest prosperity. Their whole contention is that the Philippines should be permitted to shape their own course.

But this is the difficulty. The anti-imperialists are not so solicitous that the Philippines should have the best treatment, or be put on the road to the greatest prosperity. Their whole contention is that the Philippines should be permitted to shape their own course.

As this Mr. Lodge so forcibly presents the American people will not hesitate. The flag will stay put in the Philippines.

The Tariff and Its Friends. "Sh!" exclaim the champions of the present tariff. "Don't talk about revision now. Let well enough alone."

Now, the difference between that agitation of the tariff question and what is today proposed by the Iowa republicans and those who hold with them is as great as you please. Friendship for protection is sincerely declared. Approval of the Dingley bill as having met the ends for which it was designed is unqualified.

But, it is asked, how shall it be determined what rates should be lowered? The reply, fairly enough, is in the form of another question. What better agency than a ways and means committee of Congress appointed for that express purpose, and in its majority constituted of men familiar with the whole subject of the tariff and as such in their work by experts?

Capitalists are generally of the opinion that combination of Cuba and Porto Rico will be a boon to the United States. For such industries as found their operations under discussion would be at pains to see that Congress had the benefit of the actual figures in deciding upon the revision of schedules in which they were concerned.

The coal operators are, of course, at liberty to conduct their business in their own way, so far as they can. But when the public is dependent on them for fuel, it looks as if they ought to be required to conduct their business in some way. Society is not interested in any sentimental objections to trades unionism which they may entertain.

It is true that much has been done for Cuba. But the island should not be left in the position of a man who is trying to run a $200,000 house on a $2,000 income.

Aguinaldo's Proposed Lecture Tour. So Aguinaldo wants to come to the United States to lecture? Or perhaps it is that he wants to see his eminent anti-imperialist friends want to bring him here for that purpose.

The Boers and the King. The Boer generals landed in England and have paid their respects to King Edward. Their reception was cordial, as was to be expected. The war is over, and new relations have been established and are to be supported.

There is the making of a warm contest among the republicans of Wisconsin, but there is great probability that Senator Spooner will get up a compromise of some sort.

tion of the lecture by the use of the usual advertising methods. It will not do to shut the little chap up in a hotel room or surround him with reporter-proof barriers.

So if Aguinaldo is to be brought here as a campaigner, to make votes for the opposition to the government's policy, the scheme would seem to have certain serious risks in it for its projectors.

Better let Aguinaldo remain at home. He will be more effective as an anti-imperialist argument at that great distance than at short range.

er they are now sworn to support, they can feel no great bitterness. This personal meeting, therefore, will help both sides to the former controversy.

The I. T. U.'s Good Work. The International Typographical Union, at its recent annual convention, did at least two things deserving high praise.

The warning against unreasonably high speed for automobiles has been terrible. But warnings however impressive, are seldom heeded for long.

The harsh words which passed while Congress was in session have all been quite forgotten. No grass will be mowed at Biadensburg this summer in order to permit a revival of the duello.

If you hear it from the University of Chicago, it's likely to be something unusual.

A number of men blush self-consciously whenever the subject of an ideal candidate for either party is brought up.

SHOOTING STARS. Youth's Unrestrained. "Don't you sometimes long for your childhood's happy days?" said the sentimental person.

The New Era. Here's to the modern farmer guy. Whose life is smooth and bright, He works and sells his crops by day And counts his cash by night.

Utterly Heartless. "So you never talk about people behind their backs." "No," answered the woman with a grim expression. "If I know anything which would annoy a friend, I always tell it in her presence. I wouldn't miss seeing her embarrassment for anything."

A Quibbler. "I can truthfully say," remarked the politician, "that I never went back on a friend." "Yet some people claim that you did not keep your promises."

Fine Sarcasm. "You, boy!" exclaimed the colored woman, "what is you gwineer do wif dat water million?"

A Nightmare of Money. Oh, it's dollars, dollars, dollars, Every way you turn, Dollars for the meat you eat, And for the coal you burn, Dollars for your clothing, Dollars for the books that put A thought into your head.

Let Milk Be Clean. From the Minneapolis Times. So many cases of typhoid are traced directly to contaminated milk that the health authorities are right in insisting upon a strict enforcement and observance of the regulations governing the conduct of dairies and depots for the sale of that commodity.

Great Expectations. From the Chicago Record-Herald. The democratic candidate for governor of Vermont says he expects to win. Now let us hear from the republican candidate for governor of Vermont.
