Forfeited Collateral.

Corporal M. J. Nash of the United States Marine Corps arrested two men, conveyed them across the river and delivered them to the police authorities of the fourth precinct station Saturday. The men gave their names as John R. Hart and James Schneider.

According to the statement of the corporation this morning to Assistant District Attorney Given, these two men were caught taking some vegetables from the government garden across the river from the barracks. While they were digging potatoes, it is alleged, the corporal came on them and ordered them to follow his direction, emphasizing his remark by drawing a six-shooter. The men were conveyed across the river and then turned over to Officer Green.

The men were charged with larceny, but when the cases were called in the court today there was no response, and they were declared to have forfeited $10 collateral each.

Held to Be Disorderly Conduct.

"An affray is disorderly conduct," was the holding of Judge O'Neal in the Police Court this morning. The point came up in the case of Henry Simms, who, together with William Johnson and Frank Thomas, was charged with disorderly conduct. Officer Witt of the sixth precinct station, who made the arrest, testified that the trio were engaged in a fight in Jackson street northeast when he came up and took them into custody.

"I ask that this case be dismissed. This is an affray, with which they are not charged," said the attorney for the defendant.

"Isn't an affray disorderly conduct?" asked Judge O'Neal, pointedly.

"No, sir, fighting is not disorderly conduct," said the attorney.

"It is disorderly conduct. This man must pay $5," concluded Judge O'Neal.
