

not have it if he can prevent it. It looks as if he would succeed.

FIGHT ON INSTRUCTION.

Bryan Boomer Forese Trouble at the Meeting Tonight.

Special Dispatch to The Star.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 28.—Although delegates to the democratic state convention to be held here today were slow in arriving, the early comers made it clear from the start that the Bryan boomers of Connecticut could not force an endorsement of the Nebraska through the convention without a bitter fight. The belligerent attitude of the "ants" led to a general movement for harmony, and it looked at noon as if the convention would meet and adjourn without mention of Bryan's name.

CROWDS ADMIRE PROCESSION

Fifth Avenue Thronged to Watch Gorgeous Spectacle—Congratulations From the President.

Special Dispatch to The Star.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The pontifical mass, in which two cardinals, the papal delegate and almost the entire hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church in America attended, to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the diocese of New York commenced at 10 o'clock this morning in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

A UNIT FOR TAFT.

Colorado Republicans Indorse President Roosevelt's Administration.

PUEBLO, Col., April 28.—The republican state convention called to select delegates at large to the national convention at Chicago was held here today.

Delegates-at-large to the national convention were chosen, as follows: Crawford Hill, Denver; Dr. Hubert Work, Pueblo; William Lenox, El Paso; Horace De Long, Mesa; Thomas Walsh, Arapahoe; W. A. Drake, Larimer.

ARKANSAS REPUBLICANS.

Convention Will Not Likely Reach Nominations Until Late Today.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 28.—A large attendance of delegates and visitors was on hand when the republican state convention was called to order here today.

Conspicuous among the delegates was Gen. Powell Clayton, formerly ambassador to Mexico. Capt. C. N. Rix of Hot Springs was elected temporary chairman.

PENNSYLVANIA REPUBLICANS.

Delegates Arriving for the Big State Convention Tomorrow.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 28.—Delegates to tomorrow's republican state convention began to arrive this afternoon, and the hotels are beginning to assume a convention appearance.

BOLD ROBBERY AT CHICAGO.

Head of Company Forced Into Vault While Man Steals $1,000.

Special Dispatch to The Star.

CHICAGO, April 28.—W. T. Garrett, president and manager of the Monarch Discount Company, 86 La Salle street, was forced into a vault in his office at noon yesterday by a man who then stole $1,000 from the cash drawer.

Building Permits Issued.

Inspector Ashford issued the following building permits today:

To G. N. Bell, one three-story brick apartment house, at 1827 Lamont street northwest, estimated to cost $30,000.

LUPO GETS FIFTEEN MONTHS.

Had Turned Informer in Baltimore "Black Hand" Cases.

BALTIMORE, April 28.—Salvatore Lupu, who turned state's evidence in the so-called "Black Hand" cases, was today sentenced to fifteen months' imprisonment in jail.

Admiral Evans' Condition.

PASO ROBLES HOT SPRINGS, Cal., April 28.—Rear Admiral Evans passed another restful night and took his usual treatment this morning.

POPE'S BENEVOLENCE

Blessing Received at the Catholic Celebration.

GENETARY'S GREAT DAY

Pontifical Mass Celebrated by Cardinal Logue.

CROWDS ADMIRE PROCESSION

Fifth Avenue Thronged to Watch Gorgeous Spectacle—Congratulations From the President.

Special Dispatch to The Star.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The pontifical mass, in which two cardinals, the papal delegate and almost the entire hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church in America attended, to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the diocese of New York commenced at 10 o'clock this morning in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

An impressive procession of clergy and laity around the cathedral block preceded the service. All the morning the prelates and the guard of honor of the archbishops and bishops assembled in the archbishop's house at Madison avenue and 50th street.

The crush of those who wished to attend the mass or witness the magnificent procession of the cathedral and hunt in the neighboring side streets. Every point of vantage was occupied and the 150 policemen in charge had their hands full with the way clear for the line of march.

Stately Procession.

Five thousand tickets of admission had been issued, and this number would comfortably fill the cathedral. Many thousands more persons had sought for tickets in vain, and a large number of those waiting patiently outside the cathedral this morning were there in the hope of being admitted when the favored 5,000 had passed in.

The crowd made a black setting, from the midst of which arose the gray and white of the military and hunt in the while far aloft lazily fluttered the huge Stars and Stripes, hung between the spires.

Through the scene the stately procession slowly began to move a few minutes before 11 o'clock. At the head came the altar boys, the choir and the organ and cross bearers. As they swung into 50th street from Madison avenue hats were doffed, and the crowded street became a sea of heads.

The red and purple cassocks of this first group, beneath the white surplices, struck a gay color note. Behind them came the black and blue cassocks and berets and white surplices. The monsignori, in purple cassocks and berets, came next, followed by the archbishops and bishops in their purple and red vestments, and the cardinal, the celebrant of the mass.

The cathedral Cardinal Logue, as the celebrant, took precedence over Cardinal Gibbons, who preached the sermon, although the latter's rank in the sacred college is higher than that of Logue. He applied the archbishop's throne and Cardinal Gibbons the other throne. Archbishop Farley and the papal delegate, Mr. Dionisio Falconio, had the next seats of honor.

Message From the Pope.

A message was received from Pope Pius X congratulating Archbishop Farley and the Catholics of New York.

The message follows: "To Our Venerable Brother, John M. Farley, Archbishop of New York.

"Venerable Brother: Health and apostolic benediction. The recurrence of memorable events in the history of your diocese is at all times an occasion of joy, and the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the archdiocese of New York, whose development has been extraordinary, must call forth unusual rejoicing because the concord and unity which have distinguished the past four years bears ample testimony that the highest expectations have been abundantly fulfilled.

"For these reasons, and as a mark of special honor, it affords us great pleasure to give to you and to your devoted flock the apostolic benediction.

"Given at St. Peter's, Rome, the 9th day of April, 1908, in Pius X. Pope.

Scores of communications reached the archbishop from ministers, and laymen of all denominations, including Archbishop Greer, Rabbi Silverman and Rev. Dr. C. L. Jefferson.

President's Congratulations.

President Roosevelt wrote as follows: "My dear Archbishop: Let me take occasion on the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the diocese of New York, to extend you my hearty congratulations and my warmest wishes for the future of yourself and of your diocese.

"Sincerely yours,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

At the close of the mass Mr. Falconio, who represents the Vatican, imparted the papal blessing.

In the mass Cardinal Logue had as assistant priest the Rt. Rev. Mgr. John Edwards, V. G., and as deacons of honor the Rt. Rev. Mgr. James McGarry, P. R., and the Rev. Mgr. Charles McCready, P. R., as deacons of honor of the Rt. Rev. Mgr. James McGarry, P. R., and as subdeacon, the Rev. Richard O. Hughes.

At the mass there was a banquet in the cathedral college. Six hundred and fifty prelates and priests were invited to attend. Mgr. McGarry was toastmaster and the program of speeches was as follows: Address to Cardinal Logue by Mgr. McGarry and response by the cardinal; address to Archbishop Farley and response by the archbishop; "Our Country," by Cardinal Gibbons; "The Holy Father," by Mgr. Falconio; "The Province of New York," by Bishop McQuade; "The Religious Orders," by Mgr. Charles H. McKenna.

This evening at 8 o'clock pontifical services will be celebrated in the cathedral with the Rev. Mgr. John Edwards, V. G., Bishop John J. Glennon of St. Louis as preacher.

Prelates at Centenary.

The prelates here for the centenary are: Cardinal Logue of Ireland.

Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore.

Mgr. Falconio, papal delegate.

Archbishops: St. Charles: Keane, Dubuque; Ireland, St. Paul: Burches; Montreal: O'Connell; Boston: Quigley; Chicago: Glennon; St. Louis: Browne, Cloyne.

Bishops: Hendricks, Cebu, P. I.; Mar-

HOLD SERVICES FOR THE DEAD

FUNERALS OF J. EDWARD LIBBEY AND CHARLES B. CHURCH.

Final Rites in Tribute to Memory of Honored Citizens of This City.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 3653 P street. The cortege moved to the Congress Street Methodist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Thomas O. Crouse, the pastor. Interment was in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery.

The Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District of Columbia today paid tribute to the memory of two of its members, who died within a few hours of each other last Sunday morning—J. Edward Libbey, the president, and Charles B. Church, a charter member. The funeral of each occurred at 2 o'clock this afternoon in different sections of the city, attended by representatives of the association, and by members of other organizations with which the deceased were affiliated.

The funeral of Mr. Libbey took place from the family residence, 36