TRACTION MERGER DENIALS

"THE STREET" CLINGS TO BELIEF IN CONSOLIDATION.

No Immediate Action Anticipated, But Bound to Come, Is Purpose of Gossip.

The possible consolidation of the two street railway systems of the city seems to have a fascinating interest for many people. The consequence is that merging or consolidation rumors are in the air when street railway matters are considered.

This was well brought out in the course of the speech made by Commissioner Macfarland the other evening at the dinner given by George E. Hamilton, president of the Capital Traction Company, to Clarence E. Norment, recently elected president of the Washington Railway and Electric Company.

As might be expected on such an occasion, about all the men who are actively interested in these systems were present. The chance to interest the company mightily, to say nothing of securing a possible risky market for the talk current, was too good to pass by, especially with such a clever after-dinner talker as is Mr. Macfarland. It need not be supposed that a further talker was given to his allusions to gossip on the subject of a possible coming together of the two systems by the fact that the Commissioner had been in the confidence of the Commissioners of some public supervision over traction companies. Instead, however, of conferring such supervisory power upon the Commissioners, Congress chose to pass it over to the interstate commerce commission, so that the end was gained that the Commissioners were left.

Opinion on "The Street."

However, the reference was made with perfect good humor and was taken as such, and resulted in producing from Mr. Hamilton a denial of any purpose on the part of the Capital Traction Company to merge or unite with anything. Since then Mr. Norment has also added his contribution to the literature of denial—so, in fact, does everybody connected with the subject.

However, the general opinion of what is known as "the street" on this subject is that all denials of consolidation or community of interests between these two companies at some time in the comparatively near future must be taken in a Pickwickian sense. Even "the street," however, has not got down to particulars. Perhaps, as the people are not thought to be near for the accomplishment of that purpose, there are no particulars. There may never be an organic union of the two systems, but it is not wise to believe, that does not mean that the coming together will not take place in a real and vital form.

Observers Scented Movement.

At one time it was thought the preliminary steps were being taken when some market observers thought they saw an indication of an effort to bring the market figures for the securities of the two companies, or, at least, the principal securities, to something like equality, so that the discrepancy between what is bid for the stock of the Capital Traction Company and for the preferred stock of the Washington Railway and Electric Company might not be as great as it has been and is still.

Whether there was such a movement or not, there are no indications of it at the present time. In fact, there is nothing heard in the talk of brokers and others that shows there is anything of the sort contemplated. What is most commonly heard now in regard to the street railway systems is that the respective managements are endeavoring to administer so as to produce satisfactory results both to the stockholders and to the public.

VETERANS TO CELEBRATE.

Anniversary of Destruction of Cervara's Fleet to Be Observed.

The tenth anniversary of the destruction of Admiral Cervara's Spanish fleet in Cuban waters by the American blockading squadron will be celebrated July 3 in Grand Army Hall in the nature of a Fourth of July affair by Porter, Roosevelt and Barry garrisons of the Army and Navy Union. Two weeks later it is proposed to celebrate the siege and surrender of the city of Santiago under the auspices of the same organizations. It was on July 17, 1898, that the yellow and red flag of Spain was hauled down from the government building in Santiago and Old Glory hoisted while the military bands played the Star Spangled Banner and the assembled American troops cheered.

Tentative programs for the events will be presented at a meeting of Porter Garrison, Army and Navy Union, to be held tomorrow evening in Grand Army Hall. It is understood the department command, the G. A. R., the United Confederate Veterans and the Spanish War Veterans will be invited by the chairman of the committee, William A. Hickey.

POLICEMEN TO SERVE

INSPECTORS TO ENFORCE CHILD LABOR LAW IN DISTRICT.

It is considered likely by the Commissioners that it will fall to the lot of two members of the police force to serve as inspectors to enforce the child labor law enacted at the last session of Congress. This law, passed at the last session of Congress, but failed to carry with it an appropriation to pay the salaries of the two inspectors named in it, and, following the opinion offered yesterday by Corporation Counsel Thomas, the Commissioners are not empowered to permit any one to work for the District without compensation. Commissioner Macfarland has recommended that two members of the metropolitan police department be designated to carry out the provisions of the law. Mr. Thomas says the latter method is within the rights of the Commissioners.

AGAINST CONCEALED WEAPONS.

Maj. Sylvester Renews Activity on Return From Chiefs' Meeting. Maj. Sylvester, who recently returned from the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, having a law enacted which will reduce the violations of the law against the carrying of concealed weapons and give the police a better supervision over weapons. It is his intention to ask the Commissioners to have a law enacted which will require all dealers to make daily reports of sales, and which will also deal with traffic in such weapons between individuals.

In the first place, says the superintendent of police, all names and addresses of purchasers should be reported to the police within twenty-four hours of the date the sales are made, the reports to be made to the superintendent of police bureau of firearms, his intention being to establish such a bureau as soon as the law is enacted.

Maj. Sylvester thinks the law should compel individuals to obtain permits to dispose of revolvers. Such a requirement, he would give the police an opportunity to trace all such weapons and when murder is committed and the revolver abandoned the record would be of assistance in making investigations. The Commissioners will be asked to embody the ideas of the superintendent in a law covering the general question of traffic in weapons.

Charge Not Sustained. After a trial yesterday lasting for fully an hour and a quarter, during which between forty and fifty witnesses appeared on both sides, the charge against Sidney H. Cooper of keeping a dangerous and vicious dog was dismissed. Mr. Cooper is secretary of the Park View Citizens' Association and the charge against him was laid yesterday by Judge Kinball of the Police Court.

The complainant in the case was Dr. C. S. Robbins, Mr. Cooper's neighbor, who stated that a dog owned by Cooper attacked him when he attempted to drive the animal out of his home. Beyond this one instance the prosecution failed to show that the animal made any other attacks on anybody, and the charge was dismissed because of the failure to show that the dog had made more than one attack or had been consistently vicious.

The District is in the market to buy real estate. At the last session of Congress appropriations were made for the purchase of sites for two new public school buildings and ground adjacent to six schools already constructed, and it was announced by Maj. Jay J. Morrow, Engineer Commissioner, today that proposals will be asked shortly for this necessary land.

The money to purchase this land becomes available July 1 next. It is the desire of the Commissioners to secure the sites at the earliest practicable date and to start the preparation of the plans for the new buildings to be erected as soon after the first day of July as possible, in order to relieve the congested school conditions.

Locations for Sites.

Bids will be asked for sites within the following territories: For site for building to relieve the Franklin and Thompson schools, in the territory bounded by K, 10th, M and 14th streets.
