GOOD-BYE, FORT HUNT

National Guardsmen Will Leave With Regret.

JUST THE BEST CAMP EVER

Lieut. Brown, Instructor, Recipient of Present.

VETERAN COMPANY THE DONOR

Regulars Are Both Glad and Sorry to See the Citizen Soldiers Depart.

Special From a Staff Correspondent by The Star's Dispatch Boat Fairbanks.

PORT HUNT, Va., August 8.—"Good-bye, Fort Hunt!" It would be very safe to say that a deeper feeling of regret pervaded the guard tonight than has been felt at any camp heretofore.

This was very well proven by the remarks of a group of officers standing outside the barracks, after having presented themselves to the three gentlemen at the pavilion.

"This has been the nicest camp I was ever in with the guard," one said. "There has been the kindest feeling throughout the entire encampment. There has been nothing but good fellowship and the guard will benefit immensely by it."

"Nobody wants to go home. Everybody here is satisfied. Everybody here is glad to see the guard go. It is a pity that we have to leave. We have had a very good time here. We have had a very good time here. We have had a very good time here."

The good weather, the good food, the splendid regular army officers who have acted as instructors for two weeks and the very happy disposition of the regulars of the 47th Company Coast Artillery Corps were the chief factors in making the camp at Fort Hunt one that will never be forgotten by those who have been fortunate enough to be here.

Token of Appreciation. The feeling existing between the guardsmen and the army officer instructors is evidenced by an incident in camp today.

Lieut. H. G. Brown, who has been working very hard with the men of the 2d Battalion, 2d Regiment, was asked to visit G Company's street. He found the company lined up and its officers, Capt. Sayer and Lieuts. Reynolds and Weirich, awaiting him.

"Lieut. Brown," Capt. Sayer said, "Private Greeley has something to say to you." From the ranks stepped Private Joseph P. Greeley, bearing a large white box.

"Sir," he said, "the members of this company have noted with pleasure the interest you have taken in our welfare, and have unanimously decided that some token of our appreciation should be tendered to you. This token which I am about to give you in behalf of the company should not be measured by its money value. There goes with it the feeling of good fellowship and sincere wishes for your future happiness and prosperity. I have, sir, the pleasure of presenting you in behalf of the company of 2d Regiment, National Guard of the District of Columbia, this set of military hair brushes, with the knowledge that they will be appreciated in the spirit in which they are given."

Taken By Surprise. Lieut. Brown was taken by surprise and it was several moments before he could make a reply. He talked to the men directly from the shoulder and said a few things that they will be proud to remember to the end of their days.

"I do not believe in waiting for a man to die before the good things are said of him, and so I will tell you, as I have said in my report, this battalion is the finest militia battalion I have ever seen and this company is the best of the three companies, I believe. You have shown in every way that you are all good soldiers. In the little matters of military courtesy you have done splendidly. As I have told you on the parade ground, it is the good work of every individual that makes a good company."

"If we should ever need you to defend your country you would not be the first to be called on. You would be placed right on the firing line, as the first relief."

A similar feeling exists between every officer of the company and the officers instructing it. The guardsmen have done their

CHILD ACCUSES HER COUSIN

DAVIS IS GIVEN BEATING BY ANGRY WITNESS.

Charge of Criminal Assault Lodged by Eleven-year-old Girl in Police Court.

James Davis, thirty-one years of age, received a severe beating at the hands of Leo Brown of 1633 Kramer street northeast, yesterday afternoon, and was later locked up by the police of the ninth precinct on a charge of criminal assault on his eleven-year-old cousin, Minnie M. Davis.

He will be taken to the Police Court tomorrow for a hearing. The girl is held at the house of detention as a United States witness.

Davis has been living at the home of the girl's father, William H. Davis, at 204 G street northeast, as a member of the family. He has been a frequent companion of the little girl.

Yesterday afternoon Brown and Charles Reynolds of 1228 Maryland avenue north-northeast, corner of 14th street and Blandensburg road, Brown and Reynolds stopped the couple and talked with them and hurried away. The others followed to the corner of 14th street and Maryland avenue, where Brown gave Davis a severe drubbing. The latter made his escape, however, and ran to the corner of 13th and I streets, where he was overtaken again and the drubbing was repeated.

The police of the ninth precinct heard of the matter a short time later. Davis' arrest followed.

The girl was escorted to the station house by Policeman Andrews and there made a damaging accusation against her cousin. Later the father of the girl visited the police officials. He said her mother had asked for all kinds of suggestions and recommendations. The practical work of the battalions brought out several very good suggestions and the officers were unanimous in expressing their good opinion of the work of the camp.

Many Sad Guardsmen. Late tonight, when the bugler stood on the steps of the guardhouse and blew "taps," there were a great many sad guardsmen. They have had a good time here and many of them have made new friends, the free outdoor life making it an ideal place for the kind of friendships men like. The little families of four who have been bunking together in the barracks will be broken up at 4 o'clock tomorrow morning when reveille is blown.

The cook stoves were taken down and the mess in the kitchen will be almost useless for breakfast in the morning. The cooks have dug little ovens in the ground and with the aid of camp kettles will prepare the mess in the morning. It would be impossible to use the stoves, as they would not cool in time for the quartermaster to put them aboard the steamer.

The plans are to have the troops start aboard the steamer at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. This will be followed, if possible, by a march to the beach, where the men will have fought in the thickets around Fort Hunt, who have pumped shell after shell into the water, and who have waved signals from fort to fort will land in Washington before noon.

BLODGETT UNDER ARREST

Charged With Threats and Assault With Dangerous Weapon.

Charges of threats and assault with a dangerous weapon were preferred against James Blodgett, twenty-one years of age, arrested last night by Policeman Allen of the ninth precinct and placed behind the bars.

Blodgett is a friend of "Ducky" Holmes, alleged murderer. It is charged that last Wednesday night he shot John Roys the leg.

Roys is a nephew of Mrs. Gertrude Hunt of 14 1/2 street southeast. Mrs. Hunt charged that while at her house a few days ago Blodgett threatened violence to the whole family. He went to the vicinity of the Hunt home and did some shooting before warrants for threats could be served upon him.

The young man made no effort to secure a bondsman last night and was placed behind the bars to await a hearing in the Police Court tomorrow.

Blodgett occupied rooms over a Chinese laundry at 309 H street northeast.

Fish Chased Ashore by Whales. From the Boston Transcript.

A serious menace to health is threatened at Nahant by the large quantities of fish which have been thrown up on the beaches and rocks, following, it is believed, the appearance of porpoises and large fish supposed to be whales.

Although the fishermen gather them as the tide recedes many are overlooked. It is the opinion of the natives that the fish which include mackerel, hake, pollock and herring, all small in size, have been forced ashore by the larger fish which have invaded the waters recently.

GENERAL STAFF GIVES DANCE

Gen. Harries Refers to Exercises of Past Two Weeks as a Gratifying Experiment.

Special From a Staff Correspondent by The Star's Dispatch Boat Fairbanks.

ARTILLERY DISTRICT OF THE POTOMAC, August 8.—By the time copies of The Sunday Star are delivered to the homes in Washington tomorrow morning the National Guard of the District of Columbia will be wide awake and practically ready to start for the city. The only thing that makes uncertain the time of arrival of the troops in Washington is the necessity for loading on the steamer and the steam barge the camp equipment, impediments and baggage. All the property of the National Guard is to be removed from the Potomac forts tomorrow morning. The hauling of the tentage to the wharves will be started as early as 5 o'clock.

The camps tonight are quiet, most of the men retiring early, preparatory to hard work for a brief period, breaking camp. After the muster yesterday morning everybody naturally was interested in the everyday life of the troops for the two weeks since they were ordered to do nothing practically to themselves, save to do necessary packing and to make farewell visits to the regulars, with whom the guardsmen have become very friendly. The final concert by the brigade band attracted a large audience, the music being greatly enjoyed.

General Staff Gives Dance. The principal social event of the evening here, and perhaps of the encampment, was the reception tendered by Gen. Harries and staff to the regular officers stationed at the forts and house guests. The reception began at 9 o'clock. The major house, formerly known as Warburton, originally the home of George Digges, and in which George Washington was frequently entertained, was completely transformed here and there this evening. A force of electricians and detachment of regular soldiers, the latter from the Puritan and the Onelda, were employed to produce the rest of the night of the major house a veritable fairy wonder. Flags and bunting were generously used for decorative purposes. The electric lights, gas lamps, and gas jets, were put in use, with lamps of higher candle power. Electric fans were so located as to produce the rest of the night of the major house a veritable fairy wonder. The effect of the whole being most pleasing and patriotic.

The brigade band orchestra was located on the elevated porch of the main or dancing floor. During the evening refreshments were served from a tent, on the main floor we have previously mentioned when the last of the guests departed. The affair was conceded to be one of the most elaborate in the history of the post.

Names of the Guests. The names on the invitation list includes those of Lieut. Col. William H. Coffin, Mrs. Coffin, Mrs. Mansfield, Capt. William R. Doores, Capt. Philip S. Golderman, Mrs. Golderman, Miss Grace Perry, Capt. George E. Conolly, Mrs. Conolly, Capt. John L. Roberts, Jr., Mrs. Roberts, Miss Jenkins, Capt. Samuel J. Morris of the Medical Corps, First Lieut. John P. Terrell, Mrs. Terrell, First Lieut. Philip Matthews, First Lieut. Horace F. Spurgin, Lieut. George A. Anderson, First Lieut. James H. Cunningham, First Lieut. Frank Leeco, Capt. and Mrs. E. N. Macon, Mrs. Bailey, Miss Falls, Miss Glover, Capt. George A. Anderson, First Lieut. Claude E. Brigham, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. Malcolm P. Andrews, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. Adolph L. Schaefer, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. Paul Horton, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. John W. McKie, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. Curtis G. Koresch, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. Marcellus H. Thompson, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. Lucian D. Both, Coast Artillery Corps; Capt. William Mitchell, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. Duke, 23d Infantry; First Lieut. Emory J. Pike, 15th Cavalry; Second Lieut. Edwin Gunner, 24th Infantry; Second Lieut. Tom Masche, 24th Infantry; First Lieut. H. C. Davis, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. Hugh S. Brown, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. Harry K. Rutherford, Coast Artillery Corps; First Lieut. B. Rose, Coast Artillery Corps; Capt. Seaborn G. Chiles, 11th Infantry; First Lieut. Morris E. Locke, 1st Field Artillery; First Lieut. W. E. Mackinlay, 11th Cavalry; Second Lieut. Loren C. Greaves, 24th Infantry, and Second Lieut. Clark P. Chandler, 15th Cavalry.

The same inspectors have also recommended that the proprietors of the military camps at Fort Washington and Fort Hunt, Va. A strict sanitary discipline was enforced in all of the camps and the tents and company streets were well located as relates to drainage and healthful environments. The regulation of the camps was very strict. The water supply in artesian wells and is of great purity and sufficient quantity to supply all the camps. The troops occupying the camps were subsisted by company mess. The kitchens and cooking utensils were well equipped and the food well cooked and wholesome.

"Aside from the disposition of waste," Maj. Henderson says, "I have no recommendations to make in my duty report. I cannot close this brief report without mention of the valuable assistance rendered me in my duty by the military camps at Fort Washington and Fort Hunt, Va. A strict sanitary discipline was enforced in all of the camps and the tents and company streets were well located as relates to drainage and healthful environments. The regulation of the camps was very strict. The water supply in artesian wells and is of great purity and sufficient quantity to supply all the camps. The troops occupying the camps were subsisted by company mess. The kitchens and cooking utensils were well equipped and the food well cooked and wholesome."

Experiment Shows Gratifying. The exercises just ended were a novelty for the National Guard of the District of Columbia in that they differed materially from anything attempted in the past. The Star correspondent this evening asked the commanding general for his views on the subject.

"A very gratifying experiment," said Gen. Harries, "and one which promises to result in a more efficient organization of coast artillery. We have had ample opportunity to determine the relative efficiency and enthusiasm of officers in the handling of big guns and the machinery by which the guns are made effective, so we shall now have no difficulty in securing a capable battery of coast artillery as soon as we have had a more extensive experience. It is probable that only a small percentage of that battalion will be transferred from our mobile troops because of the nature and more adventurous soldiers will always stick to infantry and cavalry, but the more mature men (often burdened with heavy responsibilities of family and business) will tend naturally to stay in fortifications, especially if those fortifications are near home."

"We are hoping that Congress will act

HAPPENINGS IN ALEXANDRIA

JAMES E. CATON, CANDIDATE FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR.

Issues Address to Democratic Voters of Virginia—Citizens Want Better Street Lights.

Special Correspondence of The Star. ALEXANDRIA, Va., August 8, 1908.

James E. Caton of this city today again announced his determination to run for lieutenant governor in the contest which will be pulled off next year, notwithstanding the fact that the incumbent, J. Taylor Elyson, will again be a candidate for the office.

Mr. Caton today gave out the following statement: "The office of lieutenant governor is one of honor and not of emolument, and the universal custom has been for the lieutenant governor to retire with the governor. At this time I do not want a single instance in which the lieutenant governor has been re-elected.

"Four years ago I was a candidate for this office, but had not progressed to a considerable extent in my canvass, when Mr. Elyson, after having previously declined to become a candidate, announced his candidacy. When his announcement was made public I felt that owing to his long party service as chairman of the state democratic committee he had claims upon the party for recognition, and knew there was a strong sentiment in the state in favor of rewarding him for such services. Influenced by these considerations, I withdrew in his favor, which action on my part was announced by me in the public press of the state.

"Mr. Elyson having received and enjoyed the honor of the office for the last four years, do not now feel that there is any obligation upon me to again retire in his favor, and the announcement of his candidacy will not change my purpose. I have no objection to his being elected throughout the state, to know that I am and will remain a candidate for lieutenant governor until the question is settled by the democratic primary for the nomination of the state ticket in 1907."

Defective Street Lamps. Complaints are being heard on all sides about defective electric street lamps and their failure to give light in the early hours of the morning. Complaints from the intersection of Washington and Wilkes streets are numerous. It is stated that unless the trouble is remedied very soon it is more than likely that the matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the city council and relief demanded.

Mr. Albert Hoy, son of Peter Hoy, died this afternoon at his parents' home, 1292 Prince street, following a brief illness. For the past three weeks Hubert Hoy had been the pupil of the Second Presbyterian Church and was last night. He was a glassblower by occupation and was a member of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church.

COLLECTION OF GOLF CURIOS. Clubs by a Famous Maker—Old Tom Morris' Putter. From Tit-Bits.

Harry B. Wood of Manchester possesses probably the most valuable collection of golf curios in the world. His club museum is unique. There is a fine specimen of a left-handed club, once the property of the famous champion Thomas Robertson, better known as St. Andrew as "Kiln the Caddie," from his having accidentally killed a donkey with a golf ball.

Among other clubs collected by Mr. Wood are several by a famous maker named Philips, whose clubs were in great demand in the early part of the nineteenth century. They have been extensively imitated in consequence, though not with more success than has crowned the efforts of the inventor. Mr. Wood has sought to reproduce the perfect form and rich tone of a Stradivarius. Used and owned successively by old Tom Morris, his sons Jimmy and young Tom, a putter which bears all the characteristics of Philips' clubs—the gracefully modeled neck, thin face, the grain of the wood and tapering shaft.

Another specimen is a fine baffle spoon, formerly the property of Mr. Fison, who used to play golf in the early days of the Manchester Club, founded in 1818. The head is made of apple wood and the joint is wrapped with thick, coarse twine, the strands of which were rolled together and afterward waxed. There is also a putter made in 1870 by David Brown, ex-champion and brother to "Lauz Geordie," a St. Andrew player famous for overcoming stiches.

Woman Detectives. In Paris shoplifting has become a fine art, consequently watching has had to become a fine art also, and the Parisian shopkeepers are finding that it pays them to employ proper woman detectives to watch their stock; so now every house of importance has its own woman detective.

CHILDREN'S SUMMER SICKNESS. The following simple treatment will generally cure Infants' Diarrhea within 24 to 48 hours:

- 1. Stop feeding dairy milk. 2. Give, to about one year old, one grain of calomel, cut into three doses of two hours' intervals. 3. Feed for a few days on thick rice water, strained, and sweetened, while yet hot, with some condensed milk. 4. When cured, gradually substitute fresh dairy milk, pasteurized or acid.

DIET FOR PREVENTION OF SICKNESS. E. BELINER, Secretary. A regular diet for children on condensed milk is inadvisable.
