One of the Signs.

LADY CONSTANCE STEWART RICHARDSON, at the supper following one of her barefoot dances in New York, praised the dress of American women.

"You do dress well," she said "but, then you are so intelligent. You are so quick to feel, in the air about you, the signs that tell whether you look your best or not."

"What are these signs?" a young girl asked.

"Oh, they are various," said Lady Constance. "My manicurist, for instance, told me one morning she had on a new Easter gown, and when I praised it she said:

"It isn't becoming, really. I know it isn't becoming. Three gentlemen in the shop this morning, after handing me dollar bills, waited for their change."
