BACK MRS. VANDERBILT IN HER WAR ON DRUGS

Officials Pledge Support and Congress Will Be Asked to Legislate.

NEW YORK, January 24.—The fight against the indiscriminate sale and use of habit-forming drugs which Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt has given support, will be carried to Congress, where national legislation to prevent the evil will be urged. At the same time more stringent laws will be sought in New York and other states.
Ernest K. Couter, Mrs. Vanderbilt's counsel in the anti-drug crusade, said today that even a preliminary, though careful, investigation of the situation had convinced him and his associates that they could not get at the root of the drug evil except through national legislation.
Mr. Couter declared that the local and state authorities as well as the authorities in other states, with whom he had conferred or communicated, were of the same opinion.
Since Mrs. Vanderbilt started her crusade Mr. Couter has received numerous letters from judges and municipal and state authorities in other states offering their hearty co-operation in the national campaign against the drug evil.
A letter has been received from Judge Edgar Steele of the district court of Missouri, intimating the alarming extent to which the drug habit had obtained in his district.

AMUSEMENTS.

Ysaye-Godowsky-Gerady.

A large audience lingered nearly 7 o'clock last evening at the National Theater to hear Ysaye, Godowsky and Gerady. Their program opened with the Beethoven Trio to the Archduke, in B flat, with its four movements, allegro moderato, scherzo, andante cantabile and allegro moderato. It was rapturously applauded.

After the rendition of the Variations Symphonique (L. Boellmann), which served to show the skill of M. Gerady with the cello with brilliant effect, the applause was long continued and emphatic. Godowsky, the eminent pianist, was on the program for Mendelssohn's "Two Songs Without Words" and Brahms' Variations on a Theme by Paganini, but instead played two Chopin numbers—the Ballade in G minor and the Nocturne in G major—both so exquisitely that encores of the Chopin Mazurka in G flat major and Liszt's "Gnomenreigen" were inevitable. The fourth part of the program was set apart for Ysaye, master of the violin, with Handel's Aria and Saint-Saens' Hawaiian as the numbers. His performance was rewarded with an encore, Ysaye's own "Lolantain piece."

Another ensemble number, Saint-Saens' Trio in F, with its four movements—allegro vivace, andante, scherzo, which was played with exceptional beauty, and allegro—brought to a close one of the most notable recitals ever given in Washington, in which the distinguished artists may be said to have scored an ovation individually and collectively. M. Camille decreed played the piano accompaniments with rare discretion, sympathetic feeling and artistic efficiency.

THE BOY WHO LET HIM IN THE WEEK.

Epitome of Events Ending January 24, 1914.

The President, in an address to Congress, defined his anti-trust legislative program; abolition of interlocking directorates and criminal responsibility of individuals was proposed; he declared his friendliness to big business, and testified to his belief that the great captains of industry have shown themselves submissive to public opinion; anti-trust bills, embodying his program, were introduced in both houses of Congress. The title of President Wilson to land in California, deeded to him by Mrs. Wilson, was subject of dispute in suit filed in Los Angeles. Secretary Bryan of the State Department, speaking in Calvert Manor House, declared the present an "era of ideas" and lauded the part played by President Wilson. John Skelton Williams was confirmed as controller of the currency. Ex-President Taft, in an address made in New York, arraigned reformers who seek to arouse sex consciousness, and also favored law to punish mob violence directed against foreigners. John Burke, treasurer of the United States, appealed to Congress for clerical force sufficient to permit him to catch up with the bookkeeping, behind in consequence of a new accounting system instituted by the Treasury Department. Offer to the government of $15,000,000 in radium by a Pittsburgh millionaire was made before the House committee on mines and mining. William Sulzer, ex-Governor of New York, testified that Charles F. Murphy, supposedly an associate of President Taft, wrecked his administration. Five thousand workmen on the Delaware and Hudson Railroad Company's lines went on strike, returning to work when two of their number were reinstated as demanded. Three escaping convicts and four others, including the representative J. R. Thomas, were shot to death at a jail-breaking from the state penitentiary at McAlester, Okla. Former Senator Shelby M. Culom was reported in extremis, but rallied slightly.

Foreign.

Fourteen nations, including the United States, agreed to regulations for safety at sea, signing a convention at London. Failure of the Japanese representations to the United States in the California alien land-owning question was admitted by Baron Makino, Japan's foreign minister, who advised the parliament that other means seem necessary to obtain the ends desired. France protested to President Huerta of Mexico against the suspension of payment on Mexican bonds; former Foreign Minister Magon of Mexico, supposedly as representative of President Huerta, was in conference with John Lind, representative of President Taft, at Vera Cruz. J. T. Du Bois, former minister to Colombia in a speech declared that the Panama canal coup of President Roosevelt had cost the United States $200,000 in trade with Colombia. Haitian rebels defeated government troops a few miles outside of Cape Haitien. The British naval office issued an order that the sunken submarine A-7 "must be found." Turkey and Bulgaria were reported to have formed an alliance against Greece. Famine and cold in Albania were reported as working terrible distress. Lord Strathearn, high commissioner of Canada, aged ninety-three years, died at London.

District of Columbia.

Representative Ben Johnson, chairman of the District of Columbia committee, and Attorney J. R. Shields came to blows over a discussion before a House subcommittee, when the lawyer denounced as a falsehood the lawmaker's declaration that police were maintaining a paid lobby to effect legislation desired; the committee stoutly approved the principle of the bill allowing police and firemen to ride free on the street cars. Its committee on municipal finance reported to the Board of Trade of the District of Columbia for the years 1914-1915 that the United States had indebted to the District instead of the contrary, held by accountants of the House District committee. Brig. Gen. A. C. Foster and N. C. Turnage, board of commissioners sat in hearing on the case of Deputy Fire Chief Andrew J. Sullivan, whose retirement was asked by commissioner Siddons. The social center movement was lauded by Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, at a meeting of the Monday Evening Club. Vice President Marshall and Mrs. Marshall were hosts at a reception at the Shoreham Hotel. The Home Club rented new quarters in the Ludlow mansion. The University of Virginia severed athletic relations with Georgetown University, charging failure to keep the foot ball eligibility agreement. G. A. Maynadier of Baltimore shot himself to death in a cab. Among those who died during the week were: L. G. Hine, former Commissioner of the District of Columbia; Rev. Joseph C. McCreck, pastor of the Church of the

VETERAN MASONS HOLD THEIR ANNUAL BANQUET

Review in Song and Story History of the Organization.

No Reason for Clash Between Fraternity and Church, Says Dr. Thompson.

Members of Masonic Veteran Association, Masons of more than twenty years' standing, held their thirty-sixth annual banquet last night at the Metropolitan Hotel, reviewing in song and story the history of the organization and joining in an evening general feast. Benjamin F. Baird, Charles B. Bayley, Isaac Birch, Samuel S. Burdett, Louis D. Carman, Fred S. Caswon, Warren R. Choate, Henry C. Colburn, George E. Corson, J. Harry Cunningham, William W. Curry, Henry L. Dauterich, Charles Dietz, Jr., Joseph H. Bagleston, George W. Evans, Orange S. Firmin, Albert C. Floyd, James M. Ford, Robert H. Forsyth, Abram Frey, Theodore Friebus, Rudolf R. Gibbs, James K. P. Gleason, Daniel M. Goodacre, John A. Goodier, Charles E. Gross, William H. H. Gould, Delavan W. Harrington, Eugene D. Harrington, William G. Henderson, J. Walter Humphrey, Henry T. Hutton, John B. Keeler, Albert B. Jameson, Levine W. Johnston, Jacobus S. Jones, William A. Kimmel, James B. Lambie, Angus Lammond, James Lainsburgh, Benjamin F. Jarcombe, George H. Lillebridge, William E. Little, Charles D. A. Loeffer, James McKee, Thomas H. McKee, Alexander McKenzie, Alexander McKelcher, Edwin M. McLeod, Robert McReynolds, George J. McQuinn, Hannibal D. Wilson, Frank Wolfe, George W. Wood, John H. W. Wunder and John V. Wundermann.

Dr. Thompson urged that there is no reason for a clash between Masonry and the churches, since each supplements the other. The president then announced the receipt of a message of greeting from the veterans' association of New York, and a similar message was sent in reply. Mr. Dockery, telling how to grow old gracefully, advised his hearers to "play the game of life" and continue to perform a part of the world's activity. He told of what Masons in Missouri are doing, and announced his intention of forming a veterans' association there when he returns. One of the "stunts" of the dinner was the organization of "The Helpful Husband" order and the initiation of Walter P. Pettus, George Pitt, J. Walter Humphrey and Charles Dietz, Jr. The initiates were marched into the banquet room carrying brooms and wearing aprons. They were confronted by J. Harry Cunningham and asked whether they would look out for the housework. After replying in the affirmative they were declared members.

Flurry of Excitement.

The initiation was followed by a flurry of excitement as Mrs. J. Harry Cunningham, Mrs. A. H. Van Deusen and Mrs. Blanche Dalgleish rushed into the room and asked to be made members. Prior to the dinner a business session was held, at which the following new members of the association were elected: Leon Adler, Alexander S. Barger, Harvey M. Friend, Henry W. Gorman, James M. Nessmith, Walter B. Pettus, George Pitt, James O. Roberts, William G. Spottswood, John White and John H. Wood. The entertainment committee was composed of J. Harry Cunningham, George H. Lillebridge, Warren R. Choate, J. Van Deusen, Humphrey and Albert H. Van Deusen. The special guests included the following: Judge George W. Atkinson, William D. Cunningham, Assistant Postmaster General A. M. Dockery, Abraham G. Frey, John G. Graham, William E. McReynolds, Senator Charles F. Johnson of Maine, William D. Mabry, John H. Miller, Frank Morgan, Carl C. Mueller, George J. Mueller, A. Gabe E. Parker of the Treasury Department, Charles W. Pimper,

CAPT. H. A. FIELD GUILTY.

To Lose Five Numbers for Grounding Battleship Louisiana.

Capt. Harry A. Field, commanding the battleship Louisiana, was found guilty by a court-martial at Norfolk of grounding his vessel off Vera Cruz last summer and will lose five numbers and be relieved of his command. In view of a recommendation of leniency in his case, Secretary Daniels modified the sentence of the court, which imposed a term of ten numbers. Experts at the Navy Department estimated the minimum damage to the Louisiana's bottom at $5,000 and the maximum damage $15,000.

Washington News.

There is perhaps no better way to keep out-of-town friends informed as to Washington news than to mail to them from time to time a copy of The Star after you have finished with it, sometimes marking an article of special interest. The out-of-town postage of today's Star is 2 cents. Better yet, you might send some one out-of-town a subscription to receive The Evening Star every day at the rate of 40 cents a month, or The Evening and Sunday Star at 60 cents a month.

Leopold Godowsky

who appeared at the National Theater yesterday afternoon, January 23, writes as follows regarding

The Knabe PIANO

"In the midst of my extensive and strenuous American tour I must express to you my hearty appreciation of the noble qualities of your instruments. The requirements of modern piano playing are so great and manifold, demanding of the instrument orchestral volume and variety of color as much as utmost delicacy, clearness and that pearly quality peculiar to the piano passages, that it is a most perplexing problem to the piano manufacturer to satisfy all the demands of the XXth century pianist. You meet every conceivable wish of the most exacting artist, and to me your instrument is a most desirable companion on my tour." Cordially yours, LEOPOLD GODOWSKY.

Way back in the Stone Age prehistoric man sought to impress his thoughts through crude chiseling. More recently, but still crudely, the wood cut had its day—grotesque and caricature compared with the modern art of Photo-Engraving, which reproduces in print with scientific and mechanical exactness anything you can catch with your camera.

There are all kinds of Photo-Engraving—some good; more bad. All depends upon who does it. The Maurice Joyce Engraving Co. has mastered the art. Estimate cheerfully given.
