

ITALY'S FAIR EXHIBITION OF UNUSUAL CHARACTER

Commandatore Ernesto Nathan Submits Building Plans to Secretary Bryan.

Commissioner Praises Work of Thomas Nelson Page, U. S. Ambassador to Rome.

Commandatore Ernesto Nathan, commissioner general from Italy to arrange for the national exhibit in the Panama-Pacific exposition, has submitted to Secretary Bryan artists' drawings of the unusual building planned by Italy.

Mr. Nathan has for several days been a guest in Washington of Ira Nelson Morris, the United States commissioner to Italy, and of the Italian ambassador. Before he left Washington today for a trip across the continent to formally accept the site reserved for Italy in San Francisco, he paid a high tribute to Thomas Nelson Page, a Washington man, now ambassador to Italy.

"Mr. Page is the right man in the right place," he said. "He is a fine example of the three qualities—courage, ability, and culture. He is a man of real refinement and culture. He is to my mind the best man the United States could send to my country, and he will get what he wants principally because of his indomitable, typically American determination."

Popular Throughout Italy.

"He is very popular in Rome and throughout all Italy, not because he jumps on a platform and harangues us in our mother tongue, but because he carefully considers what he is seeking, balances his requests to a nice appreciation of our feelings and rights and then never lets up. Those who know the real man have a fraternal love for him. We are in accord because he is always studying what is best for the mutual advantage and closer relationship between Italy and the United States."

Mr. Nathan is enthusiastic about the Italian group of buildings at the exposition. He thus described the plan:

"We will place three palaces typical of the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth century styles of architecture about a huge rectangle."

"Within this we will have another rectangle with a beautiful pavilion at the end and large galleries along either side. In the center of the rectangle will be represented an old Roman well."

"In the pavilion we plan to place first the busts of men who have inspired the best in Italian thought and education. There also we will place the four men who, as ruler, apostle, warrior and educator, set in their regeneration, in the upbuilding of the new Italy."

Will Show Roman Home.

"In one of the long galleries of the inner rectangle we will place those exhibits in which the state is particularly interested—our railways, our cigars, etc. In the opposite gallery we will set up a Roman home, with all the furniture and decorations in harmony so that visitors may see how we live at home."

"In one of the palaces of our outer rectangle we will have an exhibit of wrought iron and other such wares. In another we will show the silks, laces, and other products of our women, which defy the world for competition and of which we intend to make a particularly interesting showing. In the third building we will house some of the great art treasures of our country, which have inspired an inspiration and model for artists of all countries in all times. We will have a cinematograph to show some of the beauty spots, the industries, the life of our booting peninsula."

"And we will have displays of all our products—illustrations of what we are doing to better the country in all branches of human energy and culture. These will be placed alongside of similar exhibits of other nations in the various sections of the general exposition."

$30,000 FOR REVOLUTION.

Chinese in U. S. Contribute to Uprising Against President.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 28.—Y. P. Hsieh, former vice chairman of the province of Canton, now revolutionary agent for Dr. Sun Yat Sen, has $30,000 raised among local Chinese to aid in a proposed revolution against President Yuan Shih Kai, Hsieh, whose name in Chinese is Tze Yih Bak, is finishing his tour of coast cities raising funds. President Yuan has offered $100,000 for him dead or alive, he said.

Hsieh is a member of the more radical faction of China and is highly educated. It is understood he is one of Dr. Sun Yat Sen's closest advisers. A big meeting which many American residents attended closed Hsieh's campaign here Tuesday.

Another Dominican Parley Today.

Another Dominican peace conference will be held today on board the United States cruiser Washington at Puerto Plata. Capt. Eberle of the Washington has informed the Navy Department that representatives of President Bordas and of the revolutionists now holding Puerto Plata would meet on the cruiser in an effort to agree upon an armistice.

BASE BALL POOLS THRIVE, INVESTIGATORS FIND

Whitman's Aids Disclose Methods Whereby "Premiums" Are Awarded.

NEW YORK, May 28.—A thriving business in New York and other eastern cities is said to have been disclosed in the investigation of alleged base ball pools by assistants and detectives in the office of District Attorney Charles S. Whitman. That such an investigation was in progress became known today when some of the methods of the so-called "base ball news information bureau" were made public.

The procedure, according to Assistant District Attorney Conlon, is for the prospective subscriber to pay 25 cents for a sealed envelope containing a score card with blank boxes for every team in each of five leagues—forty teams in all—and for every day in the week except Sunday. On the back of the score card are the rules of the "subscription."

Premiums Are Quoted.

Each score card has five teams punched as its particular combination for premiums for the largest number of runs scored by any combination in the week. Premiums are also quoted for the lowest number of runs. The real interest, it was pointed out, is not in the week-end reports of base ball, nor in the hour-by-hour news of the standing of teams which the bureaus furnish subscribers, but in the "premiums" to the winners.

It was said at the post office that the inspectors have known of the base ball pools for some time, but have taken no action because the bureaus pay no attention to mail communications, all the cards being sold by agents. Prosecution of the owners of the agencies, it was said today, probably would be instituted as a result of the investigation.

LURE ENEMIES INTO TRAP BY HORRIBLE SACRIFICE

Tribes Permit Women and Children to Be Slain as Part of Vengeance Plot.

LONDON, May 22.—Alan Outler, special correspondent of the Daily Express, sends the following from Bombay: I have just received from Aden confirmation of a severe defeat inflicted on the raiders of the Mullah of Somaliland, by the Habr Yunis and Ogaden tribes.

Before leaving Aden many Somalis gave me a report on the battle, but it seemed incredible, and for that reason I did not cable it. The confirmation which I have now received places it beyond doubt. The story is one of the most remarkable in warfare.

The mullah sent a large force to the Habr Yunis to seize the camels of the Habr Yunis. Word of this came to the ears of the tribe, who, to inflict a telling defeat on their relentless enemy, laid a trap, which will send a shudder through the world. They sacrificed their women and children to destroy the raiders.

First they sent emissaries to the Ogaden tribes to enlist their help. Then they left their women and children and camels unprotected to lure into a sense of security the followers of the mullah. They allowed the raiders to massacre the women and children, and then they ambushed them while they were driving off the camels. The raiders claim that they wiped out the mullah's force, killing 2,000 of them. That figure is probably exaggerated, but it is not to be doubted that the mullah has sustained a serious reverse.

The body of Archie Murray, a public school official of Wheeling, W. Va., was found in the Ohio river. Murray had been missing for several days. Foul play is suspected.

The Donehead's Baedeker
By George Jean Nathan

"The American traveler is, from the foreign point of view, always in season; he may be partaken of at any time without fracturing the game laws," says Mr. Nathan.

A humorous, satiric, timely, informing article about the things not to do when traveling abroad. "When in Rome one should do as the Americans do," is one of his bits of advice not to be followed.
