Ordered Out of Navy Yard Here. The three men were permitted to walk some distance into the yard, but not to enter any of the shops. After a short stroll, however, they were overtaken and escorted to the office of the commandant. After a short interview they were told to get out, and were put out in short order. One of the men carried a black box when he entered the yard, but officials here did not know today what it contained.

Among the witnesses examined were District Building Inspector Maurice Hacker and F. J. Niedomanski, the deputy inspector in charge of the section of the city in which the accident occurred. Both said the scaffold was built in a workmanlike manner and that extra precautions had been taken to make it good and strong.

Samuel O. Nagle, foreman in charge of the stone work, testified that the scaffold was not overloaded with stone, and that at times during the building operations at the church he had seen considerable piles of stone on the scaffolding.

Charles Ball, a colored laborer, was on the scaffold when it fell. Just previous to its giving away a wheelbarrow load of stone had been sent up on the elevator and, with Walker, who was injured, he was moving the stone to the place wanted. When the scaffold fell he saved himself by catching and clinging to a beam and rope that were at hand. The witness stated that he had seen more stone on the platform at other times than was on it when it fell.

M. Hawkins, foreman carpenter in charge of the work, testified that the scaffold and of its strength. In answer to questions he said the scaffold was not overloaded.

P. B. WIDENER, 81, PHILADELPHIA IS DEAD

Widely Known Financier Passes Away at Elkins Park, Near Philadelphia. WAS DOMINANT FIGURE IN THE TRACTION WORLD

Started Business Career as Butcher and Accumulated Fortune Estimated at $60,000,000. PHILADELPHIA, November 6.—P. B. Widener, widely known financier, died at his home at Elkins Park, near Philadelphia, yesterday.

Mr. Widener had been ill for some time. He was a dominant figure in the street railway systems of this city, New York, Chicago and other cities. He was eighty-one years old.

Death is believed to have been due to the ailments of age. For several years past Mr. Widener had been gradually withdrawing from directorships of a number of corporations in which he had formerly been active. At the time of his death he was a director in the Land Title and Trust Company of this city, Philadelphia Traction Company, International Marine Company and the Jarden Brick Company.

Started Business as Butcher. Mr. Widener was born in this city November 13, 1834, and after receiving a public school education started his business career as a butcher. He soon became interested in politics and for more than twenty years he bore an active part in all the important political movements in the city. In 1872 he was appointed by Gov. Hantrauff to succeed Joseph F. Marcer, who was removed from the office of city treasurer, and at the expiration of the term he was elected a candidate for mayor, but was defeated for the nomination by Mayor Stokely.

This incident practically closed his active political career. It was then that he entered upon the life which made him conspicuous in the financial affairs of the city, but of the entire country. He began by buying a few shares of street railway stocks and then he acquired all the Philadelphia street railroads and from which he accumulated a fortune estimated at more than $60,000,000.

Acquired Other Cities' Lines. In 1890 Mr. Widener, in association with the late William L. Elkins, William C. Whitney, Thomas F. Ryan, Charles T. Yerkes and others, began to seek railway control in other cities, and in a few years the lines of New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and other cities came under their domination. Mr. Widener was active in the formation of the United States Steel Corporation and the American Tobacco Company, and was a member of the board of directors of both concerns. About ten years ago Mr. Widener withdrew his interests in street railroads in favor of his son, George D. Widener, who perished in the Titanic disaster.

Mr. Widener was a great lover of art, and his collection of paintings was valuable in the world.

Rumania to Intern Russ Vessels With Munitions of War. LONDON, November 6.—Rumanian authorities have taken the necessary steps to bring into Rumanian harbors and disarm vessels flying the Russian flag which are loaded with arms and ammunition for Serbia, says a semi-official statement issued at Bucharest and received here by wireless from Berlin.

Berlin First Reported Act. Berlin reported November 4 that the Rumanian government had ordered the disarmament and internment of two Russian torpedo boats and an armed steamship, which were in Rumanian waters at Turn-Severin on the Danube.

Handicaps Entente. If Rumania has decided to close the Danube to Russia her action may have an important bearing upon the plans of the entente allies in Serbia, for it has been assumed that the Muscovite expeditionary force which is to be sent into the Balkans would be carried on transports up the Danube. There even have been rumors that they were on the way. If Rumania has decided that route it will be necessary for her to attempt a landing of troops at some Bulgarian Black Sea port. This procedure, necessarily would involve greater delay in marching to the relief of the Serbs, for it is to be expected that Bulgaria would offer vigorous resistance to an invasion of her territory.

Deaths Reported. The following deaths have been reported to the health department in the last twenty-four hours: Fannie E. Ciemmons, 73 years, 2140 G street northwest. Turner A. Wickersham, 64 years, 2301 Calvert street northwest. Fred C. Rice, 44 years, Government Hospital, Insane.

Tyrell, formerly of Lowell, who was choir director in St. Patrick's Church forty years ago first took Father John O'Brien (from whom Father John's Medicine got its name) under the advice of the pastor himself. Mr. Tyrell says he "is continually chanting the praises of this old prescription." Father John's Medicine was So Named by the People. Father John's Medicine is a physician's prescription.
