Gasoline Situation Put Up to Congress... Representative Bailey Says Lawmakers Can Solve the Problem of Extortion.

The gasoline situation is absolutely in the hands of Congress, was the declaration of Representative Warren North Bailey of Pennsylvania today. "It can solve the problem of extortionate prices at a stroke if so minded. I hope it will be so minded."

There are over 6,000,000 acres of such lands, said Mr. Bailey, "much of it proven territory. If the people want cheaper gasoline, Congress can give it to them right off the reel by putting my bill across. It is as simple as rolling off a log."

Mr. Bailey has talked to a number of members of the House and has found them considerably interested in his proposal. He believes that those who expel lands will take kindly to the proposition. He is also of the opinion that the mere prospect of the adoption of his plan will have the effect of bringing the oil monopoly mounted on the after deck on instructions of the French government.
