

week," says the report. "The Germans... fresh troops, and opposed at times a desperate resistance to our advance. At the end of the day, the trenches were... certain portions of the trenches were the scenes of sanguinary hand-to-hand struggle."

Lines Are Advanced. In consequence of the reports of patrols, the communication continues, the Canadian lines were advanced and occupied a new position nearly 1,000 yards further forward. Several attacks and counter attacks ensued from September 27 to October 1, trenches being held in turn by the Germans and the Canadians. The Canadian line north-east of Conroville was essentially pushed forward another 600 yards, the report says, and new trenches were dug.

Describing the action of the wounded private, the dispatch said: "The most aggressive gallantry was shown by a private belonging to an Edmonton battalion. He was taking part in a bombing attack, when the advance was arrested and the supply of bombs exhausted. Although one of his fingers had been blown away at the point of a German bomb, he jumped out of the trench and ran along the outside, firing at point blank range at the enemy, killing and wounding many of them. The remainder, sixty-two in number, thinking themselves abandoned, he cut off, then he advanced. He with two other men, escorted the prisoners across open ground under heavy fire to a supporting trench. This action was reported himself for duty to his company commander, before his wound had been dressed. This action made it possible for the battalion to capture and hold 250 yards of trench at a critical moment in the general attack."

DISPLAY APPRECIATION OF NEW P. O. BRANCH. Business Houses in Downtown Section Patronize Eleventh Street Station.

The new "downtown" branch of the city post office, at 514 11th street north-west, opened for business for the first time yesterday morning, continued to-day to be well patronized by business men and the public generally, with the prospect that it will continue to gain in patronage as its facilities become better known.

Supt. Beall said today that Postmaster M. O. Chance may adopt some method of bringing the facilities of the office to the attention of the public and business houses generally in a direct manner. Officials at the station, which is known as the "Eleventh Street Station," and which is just off F street, expressed the opinion today that many porters of business houses in the downtown section of the city are not familiar with the fact that the new station has been opened, and are continuing to bring their letters, parcels and other mail to the places they have heretofore used for mailing. It is the opinion of officials at the station that business houses will instruct their employees to use the new station much time will be saved them.

$1,200 Business First Day. Reports published today that the first day's business of the new office yesterday resulted in transactions of about $1,000 were found, upon compilation to-day, to be understated, as about $1,200 worth of business of all kinds was done.

The only difficulty so far experienced at the station has been a lack of change with which to do business, although the station was opened out to some extent, by Supt. Beall "going down in his pocket" personally for the government. Supt. Beall, however, has been supplied with which to begin business, so far as the making of change is concerned. Supt. Beall said that he had not today, does not set his postmasters up in business with any cash capital. The new station was granted a credit of $2,000 worth of stamped paper of one kind and another to begin work; but as there was no cash on hand at the start, it was necessary to supply it himself, and lent his clerks $50 worth of small change to that end. The station was turned away from the door. As the receipts grew larger during yesterday and today this difficulty disappeared, and now the station has plenty of money of its own to meet necessary requirements of change.

FAVORS ALL YEAR SATURDAY HALF DAY

Secretary Redfield Writes to the President Indorsing Week End Holiday for Clerks.

Strong indorsement to the proposal for a Saturday half-day for government employees the whole year was given by Secretary William C. Redfield of the Department of Commerce, in a letter to the President Wilson, recommending the issuance of an executive order closing the departments every Saturday afternoon, it was learned at the department today.

The letter is a result of one which was written by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to President Wilson last week ago, recommending the year-round closing of the departments on Saturday afternoon. Copies of this letter were sent to cabinet officers for remark. Secretary Redfield's recommendation came as a response to the President's letter outlining the Gompers proposal.

It is understood that the majority of the cabinet officers have replied to the President's letter. So far as could be ascertained this afternoon, all who have replied have strongly indorsed the proposal. It is thought probable that the President will issue the necessary executive order which would close the departments the whole year.

With the arrival at El Paso today of Battery D District Cavalry, and of Troop A District Cavalry, at San Antonio yesterday only one organization of District troops is without a camp home on the border. This is the 3d Regiment of Infantry, which is traveling south in three sections from two to three hours apart.

Troop A, District Cavalry, Creates a Good Impression at Camp Wilson, on Border

General Health Good.

Although the general health of the troops is very good, there are quite a few sore throats and headaches among the men today, a result of the administration of the para-typhoid prophylaxis.

The troops are getting a regular camp ration, although the cooks are working under adverse conditions, and the food has to be carried through the train by details of men.

Just before the train reached Lexington it was stopped for half an hour while the men were detained for a short march.

With the arrival at El Paso today of Battery D District Cavalry, and of Troop A District Cavalry, at San Antonio yesterday only one organization of District troops is without a camp home on the border.

The Signal Corps Company arrived at Elgin, Ariz., yesterday at its six o'clock train, and immediately will participate with other state troops and regulars in a week or two of big maneuvers at Douglas, where the Field Hospital, under orders to come home, and Battery B, Field Artillery, now is camped.

The 1st Separate Battalion is still at Naco, Ariz., making preparations for return to Camp Gray, Fort Myer, Va., for muster out.

District Battery A Arrives at New Camp in El Paso After Enjoyable Train Trip

Special Dispatch to the Star. EL PASO, Oct. 7.—After a trip which they thoroughly enjoyed, but are nevertheless glad is over, Battery A men of the District of Columbia arrived here today, and immediately began the work of unloading the cars and establishing camp. They all seem pleased so far with the camp assigned them, but due to the large amount of work necessary in unloading and establishing camp, they haven't had much of a chance to see the town.

Yesterday a short stop was made at Tucuman, N. M., to give the men a chance to rest up and to give the animals water and feed. The train was kept busy with the unloading of the cars, and there is plenty of hard work ahead in establishing camp, but the men are well primed for the job.

Not a wagon or gun carriage came loose during the severe shaking which the cars had on the way down. The efficiency with which they were put aboard and secured in the cars, was the work of Chief Mechanic Hall and Mechanic Merriman. At every stop these two artilleriers would make a trip the length of the train, and see that nothing had become displaced.

When the men struck Tucuman they got their first glimpse of real prairie land, and they noticed a change in the temperature. The men had a jolly good time on the trip, and every one is in high spirits, but still thinking of the girls they left behind them in Washington.

Muscleman Louis Green gave an exhibition in riding when the train stopped at Shawnee, Okla. No anxious was he to show his skill, and he was riding in the District artilleriers were that he made the mistake of getting on the wrong horse, and he fell. This was a signal for howls from his comrades. Green dashed back to the car.

The artilleriers have learned that not even the west is without its hoboes, and members of the train tried to board the train at various places along the route, but they found the guard harder to get by than are the regular trainmen. The guard kept a close watch on the train, and kept the hoboes off the train.

telegraphed to Col. Young asking for instructions, and saying that the elder Schaefer was willing to pay his son's fare to San Antonio. Col. Young, however, ordered the young man sent back home.

Schaefer has been playing with the 3d Infantry Band ever since the troops have been in the field. Schaefer volunteered to go out with his services were accepted by the officers. He played with them at every ceremony, and lived in the camp with his father. He courageously enjoyed the soldier life. But now that the band is recruited up and has passed out, the young man, Col. Young, Schaefer's services were not acceptable.

Failure to obtain sufficient recruits for the National Guard to justify necessary expenditures of that organization caused the War Department today to authorize army department commanders to discontinue guard recruiting when results obtained do not warrant continuance.

Since President Wilson issued the proclamation mobilizing the guard for the National Guard, the War Department has been employing by each guard regiment in recruiting efforts. The expense of the campaign has been met by the federal government.

Work May Continue Here. That recruiting for the National Guard of the District of Columbia will continue at least until after the troops return from the border is the belief of officials of the militia bureau of the War Department and Maj. Thacker V. Walker, in charge of recruiting for Washington. Maj. Walker has received reports from the field that recruiting is going on in the field.

Maj. Walker stated this morning that he was expecting such an action, because of the fact that over $1,000 a month is spent to keep up the work of the local recruiting stations. At that rate, according to Maj. Walker, each recruit for the guard organization costs between $10 and $11. He added that the local guard is doing its recruiting with far less expense than the national guard.

URGES ARTISTIC LINES IN PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS

Fine Arts Commission Considers Variety of Projects for Development in District.

Several matters concerning the artistic treatment of public works in the District of Columbia were considered at the latest meeting of the national commission of fine arts. These included: Preliminary designs for the Key bridge across the Potomac at Georgetown, the comprehensive improvement of the water front of the city from 14th street around to the navy yard, the development of the Mall according to the plans of the McMillan commission, including the treatment of the surroundings of the Lincoln Memorial, the treatment of masonry walls and buildings in the Anacostia water park, and the 16th street entrance to Meridian Hill Park.

DISAPPROVE SCHOOL BUILDINGS

It developed during the session that the commission as a whole was dissatisfied with the type of architecture adopted for school buildings recently erected in the District. The secretary was instructed to suggest to the District Commissioners that the present type of Tudor, Gothic and Elizabethan architecture for school buildings and similar edifices were not considered nearly as suitable as the colonial type of architecture established in the District by Washington and Jefferson exemplified in the Capitol, White House and Octagon buildings.

RAWLINS PARK PLANS SATISFACTORY

Plans were approved for new treatment of Rawlins Park, located between D and E and 18th and 19th streets, on the south front of the new Interior Department building. The iron post and chain fence will be removed and concrete coping substituted. Concrete walks will be laid on the existing sidewalks, and a new intersection in the center of the park will be erected a massive fountain composed of a large urn supported by two allegorical figures. The fountain will be used in the construction. The new fountain was designed by Paul Bartlett, sculptor, and Glenn Brown, architect, and is intended as a memorial to Alfred Noble, a distinguished engineer.

LENNIN BUYS FROM SCALPERS.

Reservations, however, had been virtually sold out hours ahead. So great was the demand that could not be satisfied, some of it from friends of club officials and players, that President J. J. Lannin of the Red Sox increased a former offer of a premium of $1 a ticket to an offer of $5 above the ticket's face value. He reported that he was able to buy back only a few.

The Brooklyn club members, who arrived last night, spent much of the forenoon retracing their hotel. All appeared to be in good condition. "We realize that we are up against a big proposition in the Red Sox, but I know the boys are capable of it. Of course, we expect to win, but in how many games no man can tell, said the manager. The manager, however, did not announce his line-up until game time.

For Manager Carrigan of the Red Sox this world series marks the end of his base ball career. If he adheres to a decision reiterated within a day or two, Carrigan will be in charge of the Red Sox. This morning he said he did not wish to discuss the matter or to talk of his plans for the series.

BA STATE PARTIES HOLD CONVENTIONS

Republicans Meeting in Boston and Democrats in Springfield.

SPEAKERS OUTLINE ISSUES

BOSTON, October 7.—Delegates representing the republican party in Massachusetts met in state convention today to adopt a platform and choose presidential electors. The gathering also served as a ratification of the vote in the recent primaries, when Senator Lodge and Gov. Samuel W. McCall and other state officers were nominated.

The resolutions prepared after public hearings emphasized the need of "America for all Americans and all Americans for America," denounced democratic policies, praised Charles E. Hughes, the republican nominee for President, and indorsed measures favored in the republican national platform.

Representative Frederick H. Gillett was selected as permanent chairman and among the speakers were Senator Lodge and Gov. McCall. Senator Lodge had prepared a long address in which he arraigned what he termed "the dreary catalogue of shortcomings of the present administration. He dealt particularly upon President Wilson's conduct of foreign relations.

"Heads Hung in Shame." "I have watched with bitter regret," he said, "the shuffling methods of dealing with other nations which have made us hang our heads in shame when the noisy boast of 'keeping us out of war' has filled the air.

"The whole course of this administration in dealing with the grave questions which Mexico on the one side and the war in Europe on the other have brought to us, has tended to loosen the faith of the American people. In such times it is the duty of the President to lead, and this President has dropped to low the level of a mere Jeweler, with confusing the public mind and lowering the American spirit. He has pushed aside the American traditions, darkened the ideals of the country and reduced the aspirations which we once held to the level of a mere desire to live sheltered and in comfort."

Democrats at Springfield. SPRINGFIELD, Mass., October 7.—Candidates for state officers and other party leaders came here today to attend the democratic state convention. Charles H. Cole, former adjutant general of the state militia, who was defeated by Frederick W. Mansfield, former state treasurer, for the nomination for governor in the recent primaries, was named as permanent chairman. Mr. Mansfield addressed the delegates.

The committee on resolutions had prepared a platform which indorsed the democratic national platform, and declared the American people as permanent partners in partnership can bind any intelligent and conscientious critic to the fact that in the last three years and a half the democratic Congress and administration have promoted the welfare of every man, woman and child in the United States.

"The passage of the eight-hour law for railroads was commended. On preparatory to the platform said: "We believe the best defense of our country is in a real and industrial preparedness based on the American ideals of justice, good will and humanity. Our military establishment should be fully equipped for defense and not an incentive to aggression."

One plank welcomed the members of the party named as permanent partners in partnership can bind any intelligent and conscientious critic to the fact that in the last three years and a half the democratic Congress and administration have promoted the welfare of every man, woman and child in the United States.

WEALTHY WOMAN HELD FOR FALSE PRETENSES

Mrs. Antoinette W. Brown Accused of Obtaining Goods Under a Fictitious Name.

Mrs. Antoinette W. Brown, fifty years old, said to be worth $100,000 and having a deposit of $2,500 in the Lincoln National Bank, this city, this afternoon was arrested by Detective Baur on a charge of false pretenses. She gave her address as Glenburnie, a suburb of Baltimore. Attorney F. Edward Mitchell, representing Mrs. Brown, furnished bond for his client's appearance in Police Court Monday morning.

The warrant on which the arrest was made charges that she used the fictitious name of Mrs. Cornelia Morgan when she wrote to a big department store and opened an account. Goods were purchased there, the police say, at a house near 16th and I streets, it is charged, where she rented a room.

Failed to Settle for Goods. It is charged that she obtained more than $100 worth of goods from several local firms under the fictitious name and neglected to settle for them.

Detective Baur has been searching for Mrs. Brown for a month or more, but it was not until this morning that he met her on the way to the bank, where she has an account, and placed her under arrest.

Mrs. Brown told the police that she formerly lived in El Paso, Tex., and still retains her home there. The police say she admitted having dealt with the firms under the fictitious name and asked that she be permitted to reimburse them rather than be taken into court.

Inspector Grant was unable to grant her request, and a warrant for her arrest has been sworn out, he said, the arrest had been made and the writ would have to be returned to Police Court in the usual way.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO AID "AMERICA FIRST"

Assurance Given of Co-Operation in Plan for Education of Immigrants.

Co-operation with the United States bureau of education in its "America first" campaign was assured today by officials of the Chamber of Commerce. A bulletin sent out today by the federal bureau of education explains that the chambers of commerce in all parts of the country are to be formally requested to assist in this campaign, particularly in that phase which deals with the proposition of inducing non-English-speaking foreign-born residents to go to night schools and learn the language of the country.

The Washington Chamber of Commerce has not yet received the bureau's notification in that phase, which the bureau of education explains that the chambers of commerce in all parts of the country are to be formally requested to assist in this campaign, particularly in that phase which deals with the proposition of inducing non-English-speaking foreign-born residents to go to night schools and learn the language of the country.

Plan to Teach Citizenship. Washington has a large number of non-English-speaking residents. Ernest L. Thurston, superintendent of schools, who has been named as one of the committee of one hundred appointed by Commissioner P. P. Claxton, bureau, is already considering plans for instruction in citizenship in the night schools as well as instruction in English.

Added Problem for Industry. "In 1910, 6,588,711 foreign-born whites were employed in the various industries and lines of business activity. Until the war started this number was added to very greatly by immigration at the rate of a million a year. Over 1,482,134 adult males, most of whom are wage earners, do not speak English, and this creates a very real problem to industry in the administration and management of plants."

DR. HUNT INFANTILE PARALYSIS VICTIM WITH HEAVY LOSSES

District Health Office Contagious Disease Inspector Succumbs to Malady. Germans Unable to Regain Ground on Ceniuvka and Zlota Lipa Rivers.

Dr. Arthur L. Hunt, medical inspector in the contagious disease service of the health department, died shortly after noon today, following an acute attack of infantile paralysis, with which he was stricken Friday of last week.

Hope for Dr. Hunt's recovery practically had been abandoned for several days. The disease had spread to his arms and neck, and he was all but totally paralyzed. He is the third adult victim to be claimed by the malady in the District this year.

Married Only Last June. Dr. Hunt was thirty-nine years of age and since the beginning of his illness has been confined to his residence at 1314 Monroe street northwest. He was married in June to Miss Marie Seitz of Washington, who has been constantly at his bedside.

He was born in Lewiston, Me., and was graduated from the George Washington University Medical School in 1905. He formerly was private secretary to Senator William P. Frye of Maine, and, before taking up the practice of medicine, held a position in the census office. He had a good reputation as an expert in the administering of anesthetics.

Not Exposed Since July. In his work for the health department Dr. Hunt kept under surveillance many persons who came into the District from areas infested by infantile paralysis. His last visit to an infantile paralysis patient was in July, and the mystery of how he contracted the disease is one health officials have not been able to fathom.

Another case of infantile paralysis, the fourth within a week, was reported to the health department. The patient is Clayton E. Huxford, a four-year-old nine months old, residing at 1814 7th street northwest.

MISS STIRLING WINS CAPTURES WOMAN'S NATIONAL GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

BEAUMONT, Mass., October 7.—Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta, Ga., won the woman's national golf championship of the links of the Belmont Springs Country Club today by defeating Miss Mildred Caverly of Philadelphia, 2 and 1 in the final match of the annual title tournament.

Miss Stirling yesterday beat Mrs. Auchincloss by 2 up. Mrs. Auchincloss was picked to give Miss Stirling a close battle on the strength of her defeat of Mrs. W. A. Gavin the day before. Miss Caverly won her way into the ultimate round by outplaying Mrs. Thomas Hucknall of Forest Hills by 7-6.

Miss Caverly is a former Washington girl, having learned her game on the links of the Capital city. Miss Stirling, to defeat Mrs. Auchincloss, had to show the best golf of the entire country, having the first nine in 38 and being 4 up on her opponent.

Having, as she thought, the match won, Miss Stirling picked up the ball and lead, Miss Stirling eased up a bit in the accuracy of her play and lost the eleventh hole, leaving Miss Caverly with 1 up and 4 to play. The fifteenth was halved in 5. Miss Stirling missing a five-foot putt to win, and the sixteenth also was halved, in 3. Both got good tee shots off the seventeenth, and Miss Stirling picked up to fifteen feet from the hole. Not to be outdone, Mrs. Auchincloss got her ball inside, being only five feet from the cup. Miss Stirling just missed the cup on her approach putt, and Mrs. Auchincloss, after her game fight, gave the matter a rest and went to bed.

Miss Stirling played the home hole perfectly, and won the match with a 4 by 3 up. There never was any doubt as to the outcome of the match between Miss Caverly and Miss Stirling. The latter lost the first two holes and lost four in a row to turn for home 6 down. Miss Stirling, however, had already won the eleventh and halved the twelfth to win the match. The scores:

Miss Stirling..... 4 5 5 5 5 4 4 5-39
Mrs. Auchincloss..... 5 4 5 4 4 5 5 4-44
Miss Stirling..... 5 7 4 6 5 3 5 4-45-84
