

SEES END OF WAR
WORLD IN ONE YEAR
Mrs. Belva Lockwood Makes
This Prediction on Her
86th Birthday.

WORK OF FOUR DECADES
PAST YEARS' RECALLED

"World peace within a year—that will be lasting—and then I am happy." That was the prayerful prediction yesterday of Mrs. Belva Lockwood, the world's veteran peace advocate, on her eighty-sixth birthday anniversary, after working for nearly forty years for universal peace. That in substance is the birthday greeting she is sending to peace advocates in all the countries of the world with whom she has been in personal association for many years.

While to each the letter of encouragement is personal, the views expressed by Mrs. Lockwood regarding "Peace—when and how," in these letters are given below in an interview to a representative of The Star. Physically enabled by her long life of effort for humanity and the advancement of her sex, but with spirit still strong, Mrs. Lockwood has put much of her personal effort into life and taken little from it in personal rewards, was seated in her study.

The walls were hung close with old family portraits, many of them made before the war, and the photographs of the great men of many countries. Furniture and rugs showed the marks of time and age. In the room, huge bouquets about the room and a simple desk table, piled high with letters, telegrams and news, were congratulatory, testified to the enduring regard of many friends.

"May Live to See It."
 Her hand resting on this pile of letters from fellow-workers in the cause of international peace as though mutely thus striving to keep in closest touch with them, her eyes still keen, assuming a far-seeing air as though peering into the future, Mrs. Lockwood spoke: "I am more interested in peace for the world than in anything else—peace when and how. I hope I will live to see it, and I believe I will. I am keenly interested in the great meeting for peace to be held here next May by the League to Enforce Peace. I hope to attend that meeting. A similar meeting is to be held in London by the Peace League at The Hague and a third great peace meeting is to be held by the League in Geneva, Switzerland. I want to see these three great peace meetings assemble the peace advocates of all the world on one unite on some definite, practical program that will mean lasting peace for civilization."

"This great war, the most terrible in the history of the world, has proved what war really is. The terms of settlement will be the result of the struggle, viz., that war is a demon let loose by greed and lust for power. In the civilized world, the war must not be allowed to settle the affairs of men. I expect to see the world unite on the settlement of this Titanic struggle on terms of justice, and from that union brotherhood of nations will grow that will make future wars impossible."

When Peace Will Come.
 "That is my vision of peace—when?"
 "While this cannot be settled in the mind of any one, I am confident it must come within a year. The thought in war must be that the allies or the central powers must win to bring about a durable peace. It is exhausting itself. Food is scarce, the people are starving, the exchequers are empty, they are all depending on the United States for money. The armies are being depleted. There will not be any men soon. If they keep on the women must run the countries."

"I think that in less than a year, from sheer necessity, war must stop."

"Peace—how?"
 "Then will come a great mission for the United States. This country must lead in the adjustment. I believe that the United States will be asked to propose the terms of settlement. These will be recommended to a council of all nations sitting as an international court of arbitration, and adopted, I feel sure."

"The neutral nations in Europe and the United States seem agreed that the settlement must replace the map of Europe as it was at the beginning of the war. The status quo of nations must be preserved. French territory must be restored to Belgium, and preserved intact. Poland—long a bone of contention—must have autonomy. In other words, the smaller nations must have autonomy. That is justice, and justice must prevail. If this is not done, there is no honor war just as soon as the nations can prepare for it."

"Each day I am more firmly convinced that the war is the great war, and that an area of world peace is about to dawn."

The young people, who have known each other some time, after taking their parents into their confidence, obtained a marriage license at Rockville and were later married at St. John's rectory, Chevy Chase, Md., by Rev. James Kirkpatrick. Mr. Eiker is the son of an employee of the War Department and has resided at 1909 Otis place. U. S. GOVERNMENT
$2,004,449,583.69

Largest Amount Ever Assembled in Treasury of Any Nation.

Two billions of dollars of gold reserve in the United States Treasury. This mark was reached Monday, the exact figures being $2,004,449,583.69. Two billion dollars is the largest amount of gold ever assembled in the treasury of any nation in the world at any time in history. But that is an old story; $1,000,000,000 would mean the same thing.

Gold weighs 3.68 pounds to the $1,000; $2,004,449,583.69 in gold would, therefore, bulk up to 537,395 pounds, or 3,568.2 tons. Put $15,000,000 on a freight train, and it would require 134 cars to carry the total reserve; this would mean about 55,000 pounds to a car. This number of cars, forty feet to the car, would make a train 5,368 feet over all, without the engine, considerably over a mile in length.

Low in the Year 1896.
 In 1896, during the Cleveland administration, the treasurer of the United States had a hard time to keep the legal amount of $100,000,000 in the Treasury; one time it fell as low as $44,563,493. The bankers of the United States had to take a hand and make voluntary deposits of gold with the government to keep the gold reserve intact.

There is in the vaults of the Treasury and subtreasuries of the United States $2,004,449,583.69, in bullion, $1,938,469,840.47.

On October 1 last it was estimated that the gold stock in the United States was $2,639,009,500. This includes the gold and bullion in the Treasury and held in banks and by the people, exclusive of the gold in the arts and sciences. What the sum total is at this time is not now to be estimated. More than $1,000,000,000 is figured, is lost in the arts and sciences.

June 1, 1879, when specie payments were resumed, following the suspension caused by civil war conditions, there was $96,282,850 in gold in the vaults of the government.

Reserve Caused Concern.
 "The gold reserve has been the cause of much concern," said Daniel N. Morgan, treasurer of the United States, Peace League, in a letter to Mrs. Lockwood, reporting the condition of the Treasury in 1896, and has been maintained only at a cost of a fresh issue of bonds and by the voluntary contributions of banks and financial institutions. With the exception of a brief period in the autumn of 1895, and another in the spring of 1896, the ruling rates of foreign exchange, following the suspension, were such that the gold reserve for the year as to permit, if not to require, the export of gold.

The gold in the reserve shrank gradually, sank until, February 10, 1896, when it stood at $44,563,493. It was then rapidly built up from the proceeds of the sale of bonds, then rose to $128,713,709 by March 31. After inconsiderable variations in the reserve during April, the export of gold was resumed on May 1, and this movement, together with the continued withdrawal of gold in support, again put in operation the process of depletion. There was an almost daily decline in the gold reserve during the month of July 25, when the official figures of the reserve were $89,602,725. At this point the bankers of the principal cities joined together in a movement of relief, the result being that the banks and financial institutions deposited gold in exchange for paper currency, and restored the reserve to $119,782,403 by August 4.

After discontinuance of the operations of the reserve, the gold reserve gradually to $109,557,561, when it stood September 1. In the latter half of the year, it occurred a favorable turn in foreign exchange, which had the effect, first, of checking the outflow of gold, and later, of setting in motion a rapid current in the opposite direction.

WILSON REGIME TARGET
OF SCATHING ATTACKS
 Helen Varick Boswell and John G. Capers Address District Republicans.

The Wilson administration was the subject of scathing attacks by the speakers at a meeting under the auspices of the League of Republican State Clubs and the republican state central committee of the District at their joint headquarters, 1412 H street northwest. Miss Helen Varick Boswell, in charge of the work of the Woman's National Republican Association in the east, and John G. Capers, who has been campaigning recently in West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia, were the principal speakers.

More than 500 persons gathered at the meeting, filling the hall to overflowing, and several hundred who came late were turned away because of lack of space. The meeting was presided over by William T. Gallier, chairman of the republican state central committee of the District. He made a brief address urging the necessity of aiding the republican cause, and introduced the speakers Mrs. V. W. Speel, president of the Woman's National Republican Club, discussed the work of the organization.

War Scare Held Political Move.
 Mr. Capers attacked particularly the so-called eight-hour law, passed under Wilson and spur by the democratic Congress at the close of the last session; the foreign policy of the Wilson administration and the Underwood tariff law. He said that the campaign effort of the democrats that President Wilson has kept the country out of war did not bear analysis, since there had never been any real danger of this country's becoming involved in the European war, and because there has been actual war, if not political, between the United States and Mexico. He said that none of the European nations at war had ever desired to have the United States as an added opponent and that the people of the United States had not desired to get into the war. The war scare, he said, was merely a political move to obtain votes on the part of the administration. He pointed out that Switzerland, Holland, Spain, Norway and Denmark had been saved from war, which was at their very doors, but that he had heard of no man being singled out in those countries as having saved them from war.

Mr. Capers said that the President would have been guilty of treason had he permitted the shipment of food, clothing and ammunition to nations abroad with whom he thought there was real danger of war.

The eight-hour law for the railroad workers, Mr. Capers declared to be an invidious because of the provision for its being effective no sooner than January 1, and not operative immediately. He said it was a sop thrown out to the labor vote, and that it might be dodged or repealed after election day.
