

THE EVENING STAR, With Sunday Morning Edition. WASHINGTON, SUNDAY, May 13, 1917. THEODORE W. NOYES, Editor. The Evening Star Newspaper Company. Business Office, 11th St. and Pennsylvania Avenue. New York Office, Tribune Building. Chicago Office, First National Bank Building. European Office, 3 Regent St., London, England.

The Evening Star, with the Sunday morning edition, is delivered by carriers within the city at 45 cents per month; daily only, 25 cents per month; Sunday only, 20 cents per month. Orders may be sent by mail, or telephone Main 2460. Collection is made by carriers at the end of each month.

Printed in advance—by mail, postage prepaid—Sundays included, one month, $1.00. Daily, Sunday excepted, one month, 40 cents. Sunday Star, 31 days, Sunday Star, $2.40 a year.

Entered as second-class mail matter at the post office at Washington, D. C.

The Socialists and the War.

The European socialists long before the war preached a doctrine of internationalism and disarmament that gave some concern to their respective governments, but it was not taken very seriously in view of the fact that these propagandists were in a small minority. For a time after the war began they were silent, overwhelmed by the rush of armies and the great manifestations of patriotism in every country involved. Lately, however, the German socialists have been making themselves heard with increasing boldness of utterance, and now the Russian socialists, having a taste of power in the overturn of the autocracy, are calling for an international conference to declare for universal peace. Lately a preliminary conference assembled at Stockholm, but its effectiveness was small because it was definitely known to be of German inspiration and under German manipulation. The new Russian movement is designed to recognize the Stockholm gathering and to enlarge it into a world peace congress.

In only one respect is this immediately important. Does it portend a break-up of the Russian organization for war-making, and if not a formal separate peace with Germany, at least a serious weakening of Russian war power? While this might a few weeks ago have been merely a matter of academic interest to the American people, it is now one of real practical concern. The United States having entered the war against Germany, it cannot look unconcernedly upon symptoms of collapse in the Russian war machine. Any sign that the Russian socialists, with their universal peace ideas, are gaining ascendancy in the councils at Petrograd is disquieting.

Unless the German government collapses under the strain of the allied attacks from without and the domestic discontent within, it will probably be able to control the socialist movement within its own boundaries. But it is not averse to using that movement as an international factor to weaken Russia as an antagonist. Nothing could be more satisfactory to the government at Berlin than the temporary dominance of the socialists in Russia upon the basis of principles that are abhorrent and fundamentally antagonistic to the German ideal of government. A Russia weakened by internal discord and by a frenzied espousal of a dozen different brands of socialists—for these protestants against the existing order never agree upon details and specific objects—would be an easy victim to German aggression later, if this war ends with Germany still in possession of a great military machine and unrestricted by the peace terms in activity.

Food Gambling Halted.

The directors of the Chicago Board of Trade have taken a long step toward preventing extortionate prices for foodstuffs by voting to discontinue all trading in May wheat in that market. Speculation in foodstuffs is one of the most grievous evils of the day. The whole process of food material speculation is wrong and tends to increase the price to the consumer without any economic necessity. Naturally, if there is not enough wheat to meet the requirements of the consuming public there will be competition among dealers for the commodity. The function of an exchange should be the regulation of this competition, not the stimulation.

Prussian Ruthlessness Has Unquestionably Struck Terror through the World.

The primary evil in the food markets is the procedure known as dealing in futures, that is to say, purchases long ahead for future delivery. Thus the price is in effect fixed weeks, sometimes months, in advance of the actual harvest. This is the most objectionable form of food speculation, and it is in particular that the Chicago trade board has now undertaken to check with regard to May wheat. The action, however, does not extend to trading in wheat for delivery in July and September, although it might well be so continued as a measure of public welfare.

Foraker.

The late Senator Foraker was a partisan of partisans. That is to say, he believed firmly, and acted in dead earnest. He went straight at things. He was aggressive and tenacious. But he was neither narrow nor intolerant. He liked controversy, and shone in it. He was as effective in a sustained effort as in a running debate. This gift is unusual in speakers. Not many have possessed it. Mr. Foraker came to Washington too late to benefit to the full in his political fortunes. Had he come at thirty-five or forty he might have reached the presidency. He was well placed geographically, and had the dash and charm that make for success in national leadership. But even when he finally arrived he was at a disadvantage in his commission. The House would have inspired and developed him far more than did the Senate. The larger body, with its perence out-of-doors a little trying on the patience. And now May is taking liberties with her reputation. Her conduct has caused both surprise and protest. She is going April one better in the matter of chill and change. As yet, an unsettled policy has been her only policy. Raw days and cold days have marked her course thus far. Still, there is good in everything. There has been good in this thing. Look at Congress. If the weather had been warm, what a racket would have been raised by members anxious to get away and put everything possible on the President! How hot the building on Capitol Hill would have been in interviews, in letters home, in street conversations! How trying to have to earn one's bread in the sweat of a legislative brow!

But for legislative work the weather has been ideal. The house on Capitol Hill has been a most comfortable retreat. Meeting early and sitting late, as has now and then been ordered, has taxed nobody. No bread has been earned by anybody in actual sweat.

This is a compensation to be thankful for. The unusual weather has matched the unusual Congress. Congress has had business to do which could not be postponed or hurried. Hence its place here, busy with the imperative. And summer, taking a "leaf" out of the book of spring, may decide on a temperature out of the ordinary. June may continue the record. It would be a good thing. Congress has still much to do; and members should be as comfortable as possible while at their labors. But, whatever the mercury may show, Congress should stick it out; should stand by while there is danger, and be ready for any and every emergency.

The Registration.

The War Department, in anticipation of the final passage of the army bill, has issued a statement regarding the registration that is to take place under its terms as preliminary to the enrollment of the new forces. Emphasis is laid on the fact that registration and selection for service are not identical, that the registration is merely the basis for the draft. Every man who has passed his twenty-first birthday and has not yet reached his thirty-first must go to the place appointed, and there register his name and age and condition. He is compelled by the prospective law to do this, and if he fails to register he is subject to penalty, and the registration officer is compelled, under penalty, faithfully to record the facts. After registration the citizen has no more to do but wait for orders. If his name is drawn for service he must present himself. He may then demonstrate his physical unfitness for duty, or prove that he is charged with responsibilities, domestic or otherwise, which entitle him to exemption, or that he has conscientious scruples against service in war. It is for the government to determine whether these disabilities actually suffice to exempt him from duty.

Registration, therefore, is compulsory, whether the man serves later or not. Every man supposedly knows his age and every man who has passed twenty-one and is not yet thirty-one must step forth to be recorded. Those who have not reached twenty-one or who have passed thirty-one have no concern in the proceedings which are about to be started. If later it is necessary to extend the age limits a new law will be required, of the passage of which ample notice will be given.

In other communities the registration will be by election districts. The place where the citizen usually votes will in general be the place where he will go to be recorded. In Washington, where there is no voting, the places for registration have not been determined, but they will probably be the police precinct stations. It is to be expected that in order to facilitate the process and to save the time of the people, who cannot be so accommodated quickly at the twelve stations, additional registration places will be designated. It is the duty of every citizen to note the published announcements and to register immediately without further prompting when the word is given that the lists are ready for the names.

Food Gambling Halted.

The directors of the Chicago Board of Trade have taken a long step toward preventing extortionate prices for foodstuffs by voting to discontinue all trading in May wheat in that market. Speculation in foodstuffs is one of the most grievous evils of the day. The whole process of food material speculation is wrong and tends to increase the price to the consumer without any economic necessity. Naturally, if there is not enough wheat to meet the requirements of the consuming public there will be competition among dealers for the commodity. The function of an exchange should be the regulation of this competition, not the stimulation.

Prussian Ruthlessness Has Unquestionably Struck Terror through the World.

The primary evil in the food markets is the procedure known as dealing in futures, that is to say, purchases long ahead for future delivery. Thus the price is in effect fixed weeks, sometimes months, in advance of the actual harvest. This is the most objectionable form of food speculation, and it is in particular that the Chicago trade board has now undertaken to check with regard to May wheat. The action, however, does not extend to trading in wheat for delivery in July and September, although it might well be so continued as a measure of public welfare.

Foraker.

The late Senator Foraker was a partisan of partisans. That is to say, he believed firmly, and acted in dead earnest. He went straight at things. He was aggressive and tenacious. But he was neither narrow nor intolerant. He liked controversy, and shone in it. He was as effective in a sustained effort as in a running debate. This gift is unusual in speakers. Not many have possessed it. Mr. Foraker came to Washington too late to benefit to the full in his political fortunes. Had he come at thirty-five or forty he might have reached the presidency. He was well placed geographically, and had the dash and charm that make for success in national leadership. But even when he finally arrived he was at a disadvantage in his commission. The House would have inspired and developed him far more than did the Senate. The larger body, with its turbulence and commotion, would have appealed to him strongly. He made his way in the Senate, as a matter of course. He could not have been inconspicuous or unimportant anywhere. But in the House, on a field day or any day when the House spirit was up, he would have aroused great admiration. As a stump speaker he was probably Ohio's best contribution to politics since Tom Corwin's day. He lacked Corwin's wit and humor, but in impassioned moments could sway a crowd as easily, and keep it under his spell as long, as any man of his generation. Mr. Foraker's opponents, whether in his or the other party, were in his class. He matched himself against men of his own size. As a result, he was always in fettle—had to keep so. He never lost to a small man, nor won over one. He wrestled stoutly for all he got.

Whether he had reached the presidency he would have succeeded in the office is a debatable proposition. His lack of diplomacy might have been a drawback, though it did not so prove when he was Governor of Ohio. But the presidency is taxing to a greater degree than any governorship in the Union. So many interests of such vast size have to be considered, that patience and conservatism—qualities which as a rule do not inhere in the orator and advocate—are most necessary in the balancing and decisions of the many points raised in controversies of national moment.

The Government's Overflow.

The government's lamentable inadequacy of office accommodation is now strikingly demonstrated in the sudden expansion of practically all the bureaus and departments in the course of the war work. Already spread out over a wide area of rented space, the public offices are now seeking accommodations in all sorts of buildings, and not one of them is adequately housed today. The situation that will exist six months from now when the war work has been more fully organized will be such as to shock economists. These conditions are due in great measure to the neglect of the government's building needs in the last twenty years. Had the current necessities of the public service been cared for in appropriations there would today have been a margin of accommodations to meet these emergency requirements in large part. For an example, if the three departments for which land was acquired at the west end of the Mall-Avenue triangle a number of years ago had been promptly provided with separate buildings for which this site was purchased there would today be little or no need to go outside.

Summer.

Health. The tired school-teacher, the active and anxious to leave his books for the great outdoors; the society matron, bored by the constant round of social duties, all long to get away from the city and to spend the summer in some shady rural retreat. Too frequently the realization of this happy anticipation is frustrated by the fact that they have a spell of sickness. Much of this may be avoided, say experts of the public health, by the exercise of the choice of the place to spend the summer. The questions which are asked when one is seeking for such a place include the character of the food and the climate of the city and the place itself, the temperature of the air and the opportunities for bathing. Officials of the service agree that all of these factors are of secondary importance as compared with the question of the amount of rest and exercise to be had. It is intended to spend the warm months, therefore, they say, in choosing a summer resort which will be healthful in mind in the sanitary environment in which this time is to be spent.

Any American inventor with an idea for naval warfare is now expected to put it in practical shape so that Uncle Sam can tell it to the submariners.

"Hard liquor" is not to claim any respectful consideration because of the fact that it is to be rated as one of the country's biggest taxpayers. The May climate would not be so uncomfortable if censorship could devise a means of keeping the public unaware of it.

SHOOTING STARS.

BY PHILANDER JOHNSON.

A Tinge of Envy. "Aren't you a reformer?" "Not a regular reformer," replied Senator Sorghum. "A regular reformer doesn't have to run for office and depend on a salary. He can make all kinds of money merely by getting out before a crowd and telling people they'd better be good."

Here and Now.

They tell of future bliss. What life could show more discontent Or greater joys than this?

Not to Be Encouraged.

"Why don't you put your husband to work planting a garden?" "What for?" inquired Mrs. Crosslots. "All he ever got from his gardening was an appetizer."

Discordances.

"Do you enjoy Wagnerian music?" "Not a bit. Sometimes I wonder whether that Wagnerian music didn't do a great deal toward spoiling Germany's disposition."

Increased Cost.

"Are you economizing at your house?" "No. We're simply eating less for the same money."

A Stubborn Preference.

That old "Star Spangled Banner" floats like melody into the sky. And like the song's immortal notes. Keeps stirring as the years roll by.

Though many another song employs My efforts on or off the key.

That old "Star Spangled Banner," boys, Seems always best of all to me.

At this time, when the food question seems to be one of paramount importance, it is interesting to note that Uncle Sam is attacking the Food Problem. making appeals to all kinds of people in all kinds of conditions and in every nook and corner of this land. Officials of the government are now urging those people who live on the reclamation projects in the far west that there is a need among them for fruit and vegetable canning establishments. These factories would be on the market, say the government experts, for vegetables and fruit of various kinds which can be grown at a profit, but for which there is now no market. The solution is to be practically impossible, owing to the car shortage, to ship these products. Being clearly pointed out to the dwellers in the far west that the canning of fruit and vegetable products on a commercial scale is a profitable and profitable business, there are many problems confronting in the establishment of such canneries not found in other co-operative enterprises in agriculture. According to a trade journal, the fruit of approximately 150,000,000 bushels of vegetables marketed in 1914 co-operative enterprises handled only $2,500,000 worth of produce. The successful co-operative fruit and vegetable canneries, it is said, are found in the northwest. These enterprises do a business ranging from as little as $50,000 to as high as $1,500,000 for a single year.

Many co-operative canneries, it has been found upon investigation, have been promoted for the purpose of selling machinery, real estate, and other things, and increasing the price of real estate, while others have been formed for the purpose of selling machinery and vegetable products which could not be marketed to advantage in the fresh market. In the latter case, the department of Agriculture says, such canneries have failed. The average canner, it has been found, invests an investment of from $5,000 to $50,000 up, depending upon the capacity and the number of different products to be handled. In undertaking the establishment of a co-operative canning plant it is advised to have a special study made of the organization through the first year on an efficient basis. Many of the difficulties which are one of their greatest difficulties is the lack of sufficient capital. Since the canning industry is a capital-intensive enterprise, it requires a much larger capital than the average co-operative enterprise. To succeed in this industry, the association should have sufficient aid in capital to make the plant and equipment free of debt at the time the first canning season opens.

In this connection the government of the United States has a special study made of the organization through the first year on an efficient basis. Many of the difficulties which are one of their greatest difficulties is the lack of sufficient capital. Since the canning industry is a capital-intensive enterprise, it requires a much larger capital than the average co-operative enterprise. To succeed in this industry, the association should have sufficient aid in capital to make the plant and equipment free of debt at the time the first canning season opens.

Uncle Sam's

Map Maker. Uncle Sam's geological survey could very appropriately be called the master map maker. When it is proposed to prepare a special map for the first time that should be done is to find out whether or not any similar map has ever been prepared by the survey. The survey's topographic map has been called the "mother map" and it is being supplied to an ever-widening circle of industrial and scientific agencies for use in the construction of all sorts of projects. This map is especially useful in the construction of roads, canals, and other large-scale projects. The survey's topographic map has been called the "mother map" and it is being supplied to an ever-widening circle of industrial and scientific agencies for use in the construction of all sorts of projects. This map is especially useful in the construction of roads, canals, and other large-scale projects.

Costs.

Cartage. This investigation, which was undertaken by the bureau of the Secretary of Commerce, has revealed some very interesting facts regarding the cost of cartage in the city of Washington. The average delivery cost was found to be equal to 6.2 per cent of the value of the goods. Among the several classes of commodities sold at retail the corresponding percentages ranged from 4.5 for ice to 1.5 for department store merchandise. The lowest percentage shown for any class of goods was 2.2 per cent for hardware. Experts conducting the investigation found that the highest five average percentages for delivery costs to be, in order, 19.9 per cent; bakery products, 19.8 per cent; and laundried goods, 15.3 per cent. The lowest five average percentages for delivery costs to be, in order, 1.5 per cent; hardware, 3 per cent; and other goods, 2.2 per cent.

Employment Service.

The Department of Labor officials have just announced an arrangement for the employment of shipyard workers for the building of the new fleet of battleships. The arrangement provides for the employment of 10,000 workers at a rate of $1.50 per day, plus board and lodging. The workers will be employed for a period of 180 days, and will be paid for the entire period, whether or not they are actually working. The arrangement is a part of the government's effort to provide for the employment of the unemployed during the war.

Buying the Liberty Bonds.

From the Providence Journal. Good morning—have you subscribed to the Liberty Loan?

From the Toledo Blade. O. D. at an early hour, new potatoes could be grown as fast as the Liberty Loan!

From the Birmingham Age-Herald. A slight inflation of the chest is permissible if you've bought a war bond.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer. The calculations which are current are mostly too commercial and too conservative. There are too many calculations of profit and loss, too little feeling should be the dominant motive. There is too much of the waiting for others to show the way and too little of taking the lead.

From the Philadelphia Press. Don't hide your money in your stocking; buy war bonds with it.

for them as soon as active work commenced. In many shipyards work on the ways and preliminary ground preparation is well advanced. Within a month the first call for work to commence laying keels will be sent to the employment office of the department. By the time the first keel is laid, the service, the officials in charge of the work hope to be all ready for what will be a period of active work. The enrollment, as a single proposition, ever handled by an American employment office, is expected to be a record.

In the beginning, it is estimated that about 10,000 workers will be needed, of whom 5,000 will be shipyard workers. The force will be increased and Uncle Sam's employment bureau will be given an enormous task. Several months are required to construct vessels of the type and size designed, and as fast as one side of the ways another will be started in the vacated spot. Competent men are being sought for the construction of good pay for a considerable period; and unless the war ends very shortly it is expected that the work will continue in operation for a long time after, repairing the world's stock of ships for the benefit of the public.

The work of the employment bureau is divided into zones. There are many shipyard workers in the zone of the great rivers, are old shipyard men, and men still in the habit of working in the industry and pride in the accurate work that in bygone years made the American clipper the world's fastest sailing vessel. For the past twenty years or more the shipyard industry has practically been dead; but many men who learned this trade still live and are anxious to get back to work. The foremen and leaders of the younger workers. The United States employment bureau is making a special study of all of these men; especially at this time it wants to find trained men who are willing to work in the industry. The bureau is also making a study of the construction of the industry. The bureau is also making a study of the construction of the industry.

Jeff Davis Leaves

Porteus Monroe of March 11, 1867, thus describes his departure from the scene of his imprisonment at Fort Monroe: "A large crowd of persons gathered on the wharf around the steambait landing this morning to witness the departure of Jeff Davis. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd was so large that it was necessary to witness at Carroll Hall. At an early hour, preparations having been made, Mr. Davis and family bade farewell to the historical associations which were gathered around the wharf. The departure was witnessed by a large number of persons. The crowd