FOOD PLEDGE CAMPAIGN IN THE DISTRICT SOON

Administrator Clarence B. Wilson Tells of Plan to Enroll 80,000 Households.

In his first address before a Washington audience since being appointed administrator for the District of Columbia, Clarence B. Wilson today said his first definite object in his new position would be to enroll the 80,000 households in Washington as members of the food administration, and that after that the details of such problems as prices and controlling of supplies through licenses would be taken up.

Many Offers of Aid. "I found the people of the District already had begun the work of food conservation, and were doing all they could through various agencies to help the government in this respect," said the administrator.
