COFFEE SHORTAGE HERE RAISES PRICE

Supply in U. S. Is Only 20 Per Cent of Amount on Hand a Year Ago.

MAY LAST FOR YEARS

Actual supplies of Brazilian coffee in the United States at this time are about 400,000 bags. At this time last year supplies in New York and New Orleans totaled nearly 2,000,000 bags. These figures are given by the Latin American division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, Department of Commerce. The fact that coffee supplies actually in the country at this time amount only to about 20 per cent of the stocks on hand a year ago is given by officials of the bureau as one of the principal reasons for steadily rising retail prices of coffee.

According to the bureau's most recent figures the actual visible supply of Brazilian coffee for the United States is 1,425,223 bags, as compared with 2,329,555 bags a year ago. Of this visible supply the greater portion is afloat in transit, officials say.

Expect Small Crops in Brazil. United States consular officers in correspondence with the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce report that coffee crops in Brazil this year will be very small. Even those plants which escaped the frost which escaped injury from frosts now find that they will have little or no coffee to pick, officials assert.

As Brazil furnishes practically 95 per cent of the world's supplies of lower grade coffees, the seriousness of this situation, officials assert, readily can be seen.

Reasons for Price Increase. Good qualities of coffee in Santos, Brazil and bringing prices correspondingly high, according to reports of consular officers.

As Brazil furnishes practically 95 per cent of the world's supplies of lower grade coffees, the seriousness of this situation, officials assert, readily can be seen.

Condition Not Temporary. Bad weather conditions during the last two coffee-growing seasons, officials assert, damaged plantations to such an extent that the effect is found to be felt for the next four or five years at the least. Possibility exists that recovery of the trees or quick maturity of new plantations may operate to bring Brazil's coffee production up to normal ahead of expectations, but such a contingency is not expected.

In the face of all these unfavorable conditions, said an official of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce today, "steadily rising retail prices of coffee in this country may confidently be expected for some years. Making all due allowances for the point of view of men in the coffee trade, there still remains ample grounds for the belief that better grades of coffee may go up to 80 cents or $1 a pound within the next few months."

VICE PRESIDENT IS SURE OF LEAGUE'S APPROVAL

Says People Will Back Covenant After Mr. Wilson Tells of Conditions in Europe.

VICE PRESIDENT MARSHALL, who spent an hour with the President on the train bringing him to Washington Tuesday night, in discussion of the League of Nations, has expressed his confidence that the American people will back the League covenant and that opposition to it will melt away.

"I am confident," said the Vice President, "that after the American people have learned from the President of existing conditions in Europe, the danger to the world, the confidence that all nations hold in the right purposes of the American people and the reasons why the construction of the League of Nations is the only hope of the League of Nations, the opposition will melt away like a snowball in June."

He said the President, in his opinion, the vast majority of the people of the United States are in favor of giving the League of Nations the only remedy offered to keep the danger of another terrible war a fair trial. I have gained that impression from talking with the man on the street, and he is a pretty safe authority. I have talked to people wherever I go—on the street, in the barber shops, on trains and everywhere."

WAR DEBT OF U. S. EXCEEDS 23 BILLION. This Is Without Deductions for Money Loaned Other Nations or Invested.

The war debt of the United States amounts to $23,042,190,246, no deductions for money lent other nations or investments in ships or the war finance having been made from this figure, according to statistics submitted to the congressional appropriations committees by Secretary Glass of the Treasury Department. Almost half of the foregoing sum is due to nations which are not effecting payments on their war debt.

War Cost Thirty Billion. The total cost of the war up to June 30, last, came $29,580,000,000, of which $2,325,000,000 was met by taxes and other revenues other than borrowed money. By rigid economy and the continued application of a comprehensive program of taxation, the Secretary told the committee, no further issues of bonds will be necessary before the maturity of the victory bonds in 1922. Governmental expenditures are constantly decreasing, the disbursements last month having been less than for any preceding month since September, 1917.

In detailing the government's operations, Secretary Glass showed that $3,479,222,495 of the payment for war expenditures came from income and profits taxes, $2,491,292,849 from miscellaneous internal revenue, such as taxes on liquor, tobacco and luxuries, $262,942,824 from miscellaneous revenue, $429,666,731 from customs and $1,055,121 from the Panama canal. Three months of the war period, June, 1918, and March and June, 1919, saw the government's receipts, other than borrowings, pass the billion-dollar mark. In June, 1918, the amount was $1,931,772,912, virtually all of which came from income and profits taxes.

Beginning with $279,213,777, in April, 1917, disbursements grew steadily until the billion-dollar month began in December of that year, the expenditures not falling below that mark until last month. The greatest expenditure in any one month was $2,069,575,855, in December, 1918.

So large a part of the war expenditures has been paid or provided for out of taxes, said the Secretary's statement, and out of the issue of bonds or notes already sold, and so small a part is unfunded that I continue to expect that the government will be able not only to meet its further temporary requirements for the decreasing scale of expenditure by the sale of Treasury certificates of indebtedness bearing interest at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent, or less, but also to fund as many of those as it may be desirable to fund, by the issue of short-term notes, in moderate amounts, at convenient intervals, when market conditions are favorable and upon terms advantageous to the government."

AMERONGEN, June 29 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The former German emperor displayed marked irritation after reading the clause of the peace treaty in which the allies announced their intention of putting him on trial on charges of violation of international morality and of the sanctity of treaties. For several hours after he had read the clause no one at the castle of Amerongen had the courage to approach him. He sat in a chair before the main entrance to the castle entirely alone and apparently in deep thought, while the former empress, Auguste Victoria, and the members of his suite walked in the grounds, occasionally glancing in his direction.

Next day he seemed to be in a state of nervous agitation for he frequently ceased his sawing and walked away, leaving those who assist him to continue the work alone. Later, however, he resumed work with increased energy, so much so that one of his assistants was forced to take to his bed for some days in order to recover from a chill caught while perspiring at the other end of the saw.

Subsequently the dull life at the castle resumed its ordinary dullness, and since the first display of annoyance which Hohenzollern has shown, few signs of being much affected by the conditions of the peace treaty.

The former emperor has seen his 4,000th log, and it is asserted by some of his retainers that he intends to bring the number up to 10,000. The logs, which now for a large heap, are placed in piles to dry in preparation for use as fuel in the castle next winter.
