

Capt. Alcock, on left, and Lieut. Brown, heroes of Atlantic flight, enjoying breakfast and reading accounts of their journey upon their arrival in Ireland. Their non-stop trip was made from St. John's, N. F., to Clifden, Ireland, and this is the first photograph to reach this country since their landing.

By International Film Service.

Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, decorating Brig. Gen. Edgar Russell, chief signal officer of the A. E. F., with order of Companion of the Bath.

Photo by Press Illustrating Service.

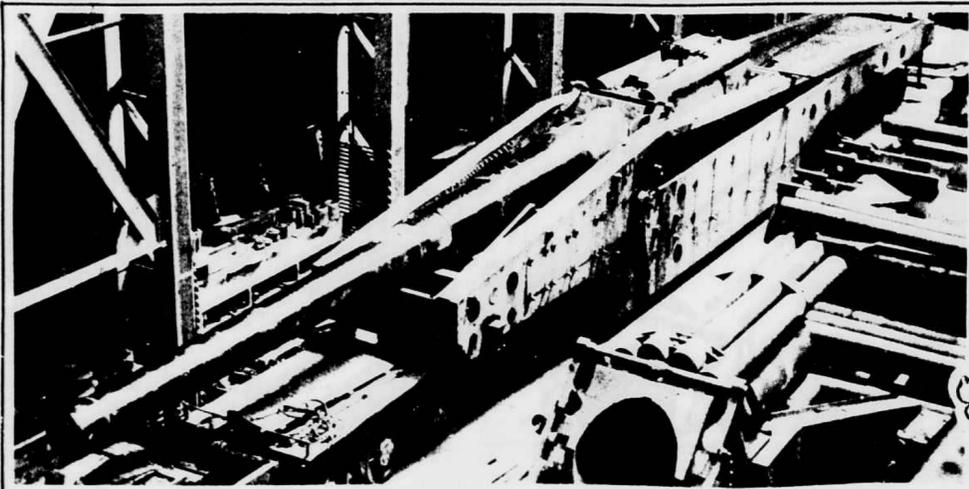

Graduating class of nurses at the Homeopathic Hospital. Left to right, sitting: Misses Ola May Andrews, Virginia Branon Parsons and Martha Pearl Henley. Standing: Edith Irene Hewitt, Emma Constance Philipp, Louise Jane Armstrong, Sadie Louise Bean, Ingeborg Lofbe Pearl Francis Burns, Sadie Bell McCallister, Mrs. Carrie Griffin Calhoun and Mrs. Ruth Ruleman Faught.

Photo by Harris & Lowry.

Washington guests at the Fete Champetre, on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Strother, at Ruxton, Md., recently. Left to right: Col. Robert Patterson, U. S. A.; Lieut. Karparovitch, Lieut. Philippe Barbier, Capt. Catolona, Maj. Low, U. S. M. C., and William Bowie Clarke.

By Bachrach.

Big fourteen-inch railway gun recently brought back from France and being repaired at the Washington navy yard.

By International Film Service.

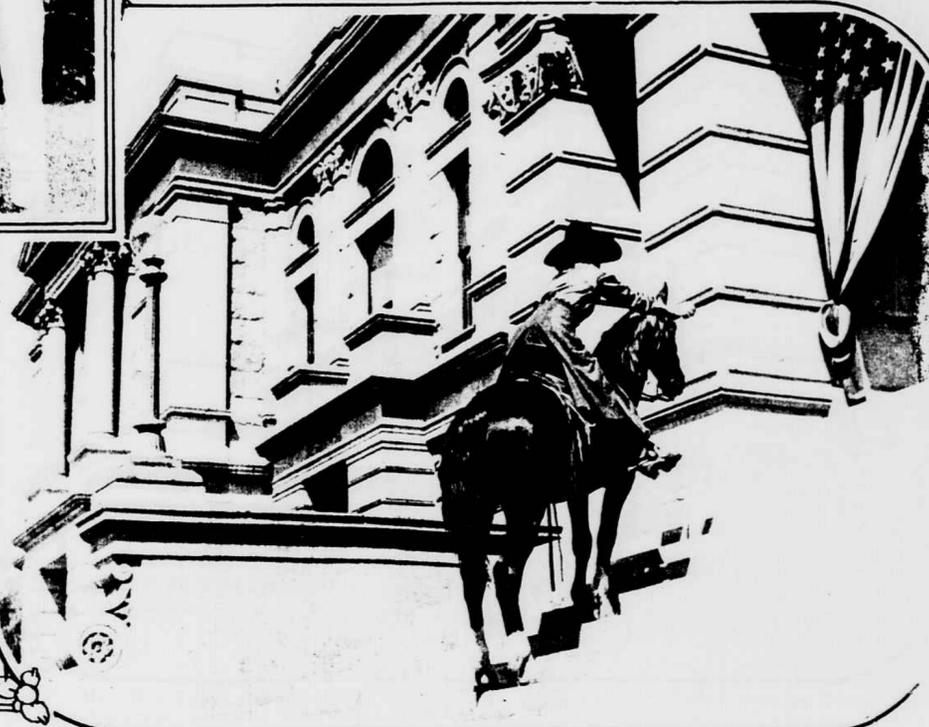

Dr. Alice Masaryk, daughter of President of Czechoslovakia, who is delivering a series of lectures at Marylebone Hospital, London. She performed wonders in organizing hospitals and sanitary stations in the new republic.

By International Film Service.

Capt. John Thompson, with 110th Field Artillery, recently returned from France.

Photo by Edmonston.

Mrs. Jack Elliot, a widely known cowgirl, rides up the steps of the Wyoming capitol building and delivers a message to Gov. Robert D. Carey. The document was a request from a committee of Wyoming girls that the model for the much discussed "Miss Wyoming" figure, on an official poster, be selected from among the girls of the state.

By International Film Service.