"U. S. WILL DECIDE PART SHE TAKES IN WORLD AFFAIRS"

Harding, in Final Pre-Election Statement So Says to People, Declaring Responsibility Will Be Borne.

"The nation is determined to be done with democracy under the mere guise of democratic forms; it is determined there shall be no return to the old order," said Senator Harding in a final pre-election statement to the American people made public here last night.

The plain people, he said, have been raised to a higher level and they must rely upon the constructive abilities of the republican party to keep them there.

"It is our purpose to accomplish exactly this," continued Senator Harding. "While we will oppose every suggestion of revolution or disintegration we do stand for every measure of evolution and development that tends to carry the masses of the nation forward and upward."

Certificate of Trust.
In conclusion, the republican nominee for President said: "The republican party goes to the people assured that they will recognize its superiority as an instrumentality of administration, and that in the election now impending they will give it the certificate of their confidence and trust."

The democratic administration is criticized in the statement, Senator Harding charging that it has been incompetent, and that it failed to prepare either for war or for peace. Senator Harding summarized his party's stand on the league of nations as follows:

"The republican party purposes such an association of nations as will most effectively further the preparation for world-wide and permanent peace without sacrificing any part of the independence of the American nation. It believes America can and must bear its full part in the responsibilities of the world, but it always engrosses that America alone must decide what that part shall be."

Senator Harding's Statement.
Senator Harding's statement follows: "In asking the suffrage of the American electorate this year, the republican party has in mind both the record of service from its beginnings, whereof it is very proud, and the vision of opportunity for the future, which its spokesmen have presented during this campaign. We are asking that a great responsibility be imposed upon us. It is a responsibility that must be measured by both the gravity of the crisis that confronts the world and the incapacity with which the present administration has met the problems of the last few years. Onerous as the responsibility we seek, our party has no thought of evading, for it never has been guilty of that."

Refused to Prepare.
"From the beginning of the war in Europe the democratic administration steadfastly refused to prepare for the national defense in case we should be involved. In 1916, when it was apparent to most people that our country was in imminent danger of being drawn into the struggle, the democratic party made its campaign on the boast that it had kept us out of war and the promise to continue keeping us out. Thus when we found ourselves at last in the struggle we were utterly unready for it, and our participation cost us immeasurably more than it should have cost."

Called Administration Anticongress.
"Instead of setting itself to remedying these conditions, the administration has devoted itself from the day of the armistice to promoting the effect of world reorganization in which America should bear the largest responsibilities of guaranteeing a new scheme of things. Instead of making legal peace as soon as actual peace had been won, the American people, alone of all the warring nations, were denied by their government the privilege of a return to the legal status of peace and to the enjoyment of those rights which they had temporarily surrendered under the circumstances of war. So long as war was on, republicans upheld the hands of the administration, forgetting party considerations, and gave their vote in support of war measures far more generously than did their political opponents. Yet an automatic administration repaid this loyalty with the demand, in the campaign of 1918, that republicans be removed from every position of influence and power. That demand the country rejected. It was the first time in the history of this nation that an administration had been defeated in the midst of a foreign war. That defeat would have been ample retribution, any administration not entirely absorbed in its own peculiar policies and purposes. But it apparently was unheeded by the administration. Neglecting the acute domestic situation, the administration suddenly conceived an interest in foreign affairs that contrasted impressively with its lack of concern for them in the period before we were drawn into the war."

Budget Measure Vetoed.
"So, while immediate and practical concerns were being neglected, while reconstruction and reorganization of our country were forgotten, the administration was devoting itself to the chimera of a world reorganization. The republican party, therefore, has been elected in the autumn of 1918, attempted to, and did, initiate measures to set us on the right track once more. It devised a budget system, but the President vetoed that measure. The administration went right on spending vast sums in excess of our revenues, offering constructive inspiration or leadership, apparently forgetting our domestic difficulties in the chimera of the chimera of world reconstruction."

This, in a word, is the record of the administration now about to retire from power, which seeks to have its policies perpetuated. The country will decline to give its confidence and its mandate to a higher party or to the nation. It remembers that the republican party fought the civil war and saved the union, and that the republican party is capable of repeating that service, and, because it so believes, it is going to return the republican party to power."

Says Nation Is Determined.
"The nation is determined to be done with democracy under the mere guise of democratic forms; it is determined there shall be no return to the old order. The plain people, who, on the whole, have been raised to a new and higher level, are not only convinced that they are entitled to remain on this new plane, but that they must apply the constructive abilities of the republican party to keep them there. It is our purpose to accomplish exactly this. While we will oppose every suggestion of revolution or disintegration, we do stand for every measure of evolution and development that tends to carry the masses of the nation forward and upward."

During the campaign now about ending the republican party has proposed in its platform, and developed in the utterances of its leaders, a program which will multiply every opportunity for all. It recognizes the vices of exploitation and profiteering. It has declared for wise and practical measures looking to co-operation in production and marketing. It recognizes that, in all measures to preserve equality of opportunity, there must be a recognition of the fact that greed and cunning must be held in check if we are to insure that true character and worth shall be given every opportunity to share in the advantages that the community can extend to its members.

"The republican party purposes, in the realm of international affairs, such as the association of nations as will most effectively further the aspiration for world-wide and permanent peace without sacrificing any part of the independence of the American nation. It believes that America can and must bear its full part in the responsibilities of the world, but it always believes that America alone must decide what that part shall be. It goes to the people assured that they will recognize its superiority as an instrumentality of administration, and that in the election now impending they will give it the certificate of their confidence and trust."

FLOOD OF FUNDS.

Democrats Announce $74,000 in Single Day.
NEW YORK, October 26.—A new record for campaign contributions received in a single day was announced by democratic national headquarters here last night after Treasurer William W. Marra had checked in $74,000 in gifts of small denominations. The treasurer's announcement asserted that never in the history of the democratic campaigns has such a flood of contributions been received."

SMOOTH ABLE SENATOR, EX-PRESIDENT TAFT SAYS

Speaks in Mormon Tabernacle in Attack on Administration.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, October 26.—The Wilson administration was attacked in an address here last night by the Mormon Tabernacle by former President William H. Taft. Mr. Taft declared that in his opinion the democratic administration had proven a failure. He laid special emphasis on war-time aviation. Re-election of United States Senator Reed Smoot, republican, of Utah was urged by Mr. Taft, and he said the primary purpose of his visit to Salt Lake City was to make a speech in his behalf. Senator Smoot was referred to by the ex-President as "one of the most able members of the American Congress."

The league of nations, Mr. Taft said, was, in his belief, not a paramount issue of the campaign. He declared he had no objection to the covenant as it now stands, but thirty-five senators (holdovers) were pledged to vote against article X and that he believed the article was not essential to the covenant that would be adopted by the republican Senate and President and would be effectual in preventing war.

What Mr. Taft was speaking in the tabernacle in behalf of Harding's candidacy, Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University and Col. Charles M. Whittlessey, leaders of pro-league of nations adherents, spoke in a local theater urging the election of Gov. Cox for his league of nations stand.

AMERICA UNDER ARTICLE X 97 YEARS—HITCHCOCK

AKRON, Ohio, October 26.—Republicans are using deliberate falsehoods and misinterpretations of the league of nations covenant, as "a political vehicle in which to carry Warren G. Harding to the White House," Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska charged in an address here.

"Article X of the league covenant will inevitably preserve peace and will not lead to war as charged by the republicans," Senator Hitchcock declared. We, in America, have been living under an article X for ninety-seven years, for the original article X was promulgated by President Monroe in 1823, in his message warning European nations that if any of them undertook by colonization or conquest to establish their systems on the western hemisphere America would regard it as an unfriendly act. "If we can protect the territorial integrity and political independence of twenty republics of the western hemisphere for ninety-seven years without firing a gun, then the forty-three nations in the present league can protect other nations of the world without warfare and bloodshed."

COX BROKE "RELEASE" RULE, SAYS LORIMER

PHILADELPHIA, October 26.—George Herace Lorimer, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, last night gave out the following reply to the statement made public Sunday night by Gov. Cox, democratic presidential candidate, relative to a cartoon in the Post: "There could be no better vindication of the cartoon and comment that will appear in this week's number of the Saturday Evening Post, no clearer demonstration of Gov. Cox's unfitness for high office, than his misleading remarks on the advance copy of the weekly that has come into his possession."

"Gov. Cox is a millionaire newspaper editor and publisher of long experience. He must, therefore, understand that it is a first point of honor among newspaper men not to make use of advance copies of publications that are sent out with the understanding that they will not be released until a fixed date in the future. The policy of the Saturday Evening Post is now and always has been formulated by its editor. Neither any politician nor group of politicians, nor any interest of any kind or description has suggested what stand it should take in this election, or had anything whatsoever to do with influencing its policy. * * * Given the same record and the republican party in power, he would not hesitate to take as strong a position against a continuance of republican rule. "Propaganda" has come, in the minds of shallow thinkers like Gov. Cox, to mean any view that does not square with theirs. Neither Gov. Cox nor any other democrat found anything savoring of "disloyal propaganda" in the Saturday Evening Post's consistent and unwavering stand behind the President during the years of the great war."
