ADVERTISMENT

In Defense of Southwest Washington

If all was true that has been said about the Southwest section, it would be wise to stick your head outside without protection. In spite of all they know it; but very often, when DEPTOWN comes one has picked my pocket. It's time we've learned that it is best to spend our dime or dollar. With business of old SOUTHWEST, and let the DEPTOWN holder. If its furniture, hardware, coal or cats, or down to a spot of cotton. You see them padding off uptown, Again SOUTHWEST's forgotten.

We have quality, quantity all down here. Bargains too numerous to mention. So pessimists, don't turn a deaf ear. But, please let us have your attention. We have drug stores here in every block. To fill the worst prescription. Kin sticks, pills, ointments, ointment, and powder, real Egyptian. We have moving pictures here galore. With wild west stories thrilling; Now and then a love scene. A love scene just too killing. Just across to 11th and D. It is a store run by a woman. Just a step or two, you'll see. Poor old PUMPKIN OYSTERS.

The capitalists assemble there, In all their splendor. They talk of ponies, bulls and bears, And a little FEMININE GEDDER. Now we'll ramble to the wharf. Among the little fishes; UPTOWN has got to come to us To supply their fishy wishes.

ADENSCHER, you must visit him. To get your fish and oysters; But, too, crab meat, everything. Would make your heart rejoice, sir. For groceries, a line complete. Remember 11, D. O. For eggs that will not say, "Peep, peep." Apply at Mr. Rover's.

For bread and rolls so nice and hot, And doughnuts and fritters; Nixon's pie, right out the pot. If you buy the delicious ones, Jelly rolls and cookies, too. Would make your mou's water. You have to go before you know. How prices have been slaughtered.

And if your roofs and spouts are lame, Since this disastrous blizzard; Mr. Shurme knows the game of tin from A to Izzard.

And if you find the work is low, And think you need rewiring, Frank Bowler is the electric man, Who's efforts are untiring.

Next week I'll write a little more, I want to get all classes; So don't forget the lunchroom man. With his book-bought cakes and classes. If any one don't like this stuff, Just let me know on Monday. Then I will know you've had enough, And leave you out next Sunday.

BROKERS' VICTIMS

LOSE $50,000,000

Complaints of Alleged Bucket-Shop Swindling Flood N. Y. Prosecutor's Office.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, February 11.—Complaints of victimized investors, from widows and policemen to actresses and janitors, continued to flood the office of District Attorney Stanton today in his investigation of alleged bucket-shop brokerage firms.

Prosecuting officials announced that two grand juries would be summoned to begin consideration of the thirty cases already prepared. It was stated that probably 100,000 persons had been swindled last year of sums aggregating upward of $50,000,000.

From fifty to sixty complaints have been received from clients of the thirty firms against whom charges are being drawn. Indictments will be sought upon only the most serious charges.
