

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

"Wrangle, jangle and nothing accomplished, that's what I think the next session of congress will be."—Rep. E. J. Hill (Rep., Conn.). Guess you're right, E. J.

Judas S. Smith, Dallas, Ill., advertises for wife, specifying weight, height, complexion, etc. Judas must be in livestock business.

Why is it that corporations try to have their cases go before federal judges? Willie, how dare you! That's contempt of court.

Mrs. Vermilya says relatives looked upon her home as a hospital. Or a morgue?

'Castles in the Air' and 'Beef Trust Hogs in Stripes' amount to same thing.

Standard Oil plans for "reorganization" now public. And only thing ordinary person can understand from them is that he has been stung again.

Judge Backus, Milwaukee, sentenced slayer to support widow of man he killed.

In Nankin, Manchus are inspecting heads of Chinese. If no queue attached to head, they cut it off. When rebels retake Nankin, it'll be a bad day for heads with queues.

Congress threatens to abolish Taft's commerce court. High time somebody took it in hand.

Rep. Henry, Texas, says there's only one way to cure a trust, and that is to put trust heads in cute little black and white striped suits. Correct, Henry! Now help us get them in them.

In order to beautify subdivi-vision of Gary, U. S. steel corporation has evicted 300 foreigners and their families. Which shows what a fine thing it is to have a corporation run a city.

E. D. Ridgway, N. Y., publisher and "muckraker," has left Chicago between days with detectives with writ charging criminal libel, on his trial.

Edw. Ricord, one of the "representative" citizens of Lincoln Center, admits that he lured Mary Chamberlain to place where other "representative citizens" tarred and feathered her. Nice man Edward must be.
