John Hays Hammond called at White House and suggested that Taft "buck up and saw wood" or he wouldn't have delegate to his name by June.

Trouble is that whenever Taft throws off his lethargy, he has such a remarkable facility for attacking the wrong woodpile. As instance:

"There are those who do not believe that all people are fitted for popular government. The fact is, we know they are not. Some of us don't dare say so, but I do."
—From Taft's speech in N. Y., Saturday.

There is something highly en-tertaining in the spectacle of the president of the United States telling the people of the United States that they are not fit to govern themselves.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has defied Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, to prove his charges in court.

Gompers is disturbing himself unnecessarily. The time is long past when people paid any attention to the outbursts of "Bloody Shirt" Heyburn.

Well, why don't you try peanut butter? Or bacon fat?
