

MAYOR DEMANDS GOVERNOR SEND TROOPS TO CINCY Bulletin.

Columbus, O., May 17.—Gov. Cox refused the second demand of Mayor Hunt of Cincinnati for state troops. The governor will further investigate the strike, and find out if Cincinnati authorities cannot handle the situation. In his answer to Hunt he said he did not think the mayor had exhausted all his resources. Hunt may order out the three companies of militia stationed in Cincinnati. He has the power.

Cincinnati, May 17.—With the police helpless in the face of continuous rioting in the street car strike, Mayor Hunt at noon today telegraphed Adjt. Gen. Wood at Columbus, demanding that troops be sent to Cincinnati at once. Earlier in the day Gov. Cox refused to send militia.

Rioting began early in the heart of the city when the traction company made an effort to resume service. A car was stormed at a busy corner, the seven strikebreakers in charge taking refuge in a grocery.

While police were being rushed to the spot another car was attacked at Fourth and Vine streets. Bricks were hurled from windows onto the roof of the passing car. Other rioters in the streets routed the strikebreakers manning the car, lifted it from its trucks and completely wrecked it. Simultaneously another car a block away was greeted with a shower of bricks, every window being shattered.

In the West End a mob chased six strikebreakers from a car, lifted it from its trucks and turned it crosswise in the street.

A strikebreaking motorman was seriously injured when a car at the Mohawk bridge was stopped by rioters. Mounted policeman with drawn clubs dashed into the crowd, injuring many people. After the strikebreakers promised the mob not to take out any more cars they were allowed to take the car back to the barn.

The sixth attack occurred in Madisonville, a suburb, where strikebreakers fled from a car.

The city government can force the company to agree to the terms of arbitration made by the strikers by filing a suit for receivership of the company, alleging that the city is being deprived of revenue.

BRYAN'S REPLY TO JAPAN'S PROTEST COMPLETED

Washington, May 17.—Secretary of State Bryan's reply to Japan's diplomatic protest against the California anti-alien land owning bill was completed today and will be submitted to President Wilson for approval. It may be transmitted to Ambassador Chinda tonight.

The note will not be made public at the present time. Any opinion as to its contents is merely a personal guess.

Secretary of Navy Daniels, after reading several newspapers today, bitterly assailed the "jingo" stories that there is danger of a war between the United States and Japan.

The secretary said several newspapers had been endeavoring to "manufacture a war" ever since the California question arose. The stories, he declared, were not justified by the facts.

"If there had been even the slightest justification for the publication of these stories I would be the first one to want the people to know the truth," said Daniels.

The secretary has ordered every war vessel in the Pacific to hold her present anchor, because the movement of a single one would give the "jingo" material for more misrepresentation.

Sacramento, Cal., May 17.—It was reported today that Gov. Johnson will not sign the anti-alien land bill for several days. He wishes to give the federal government every chance to complete its negotiations with the Japanese government.
