Frank Chance last night denied the rumor from San Diego that he would resign as manager of the Yankees at the close of the present season. The P. L. declared he was just getting a team together, and wanted to reap the benefit.

The Boston Red Sox have purchased Pitcher Rieger from the St. Paul American Association team.

Humphries Loses Game, but Is the Equal of Great Matty.

Prospects for taking the fourth game from the Giants this afternoon are not bright on the West Side. Either Overall or Pierce will be sent to the mound by Manager Evers, and Demaree, a native Chicagoan, will work for the Giants, the cursed traitor.

In addition to being a traitor, Demaree is somewhat of a pitcher, and has shown a better brand of goods this season than either of the men nominated by the local impressario.

Evers has used up his three best bets, Cheney, Lavender, and Humphries, and the tally should have been three games to nothing in favor of the Cubs. It would be the height of partisanship to claim that Matty was outpitched by Humphries, but the local slagger did every bit as good a job, and should have had at least a tie at the end of eight innings, when he was hoisted to make room for Earl Moore, who slugged through the ninth with a September Morn ball, nothing on it at all.

Evers himself kicked the propa
